Boulder City, Newest in U. S. A.

You Should See the Hoover Dam.

Greatest in Cash and Skill.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

BOULDER CITY, Nev., Dec. 4.

THIS IS SENT from the newest city in America, built by Uncle Sam on his 10-square-mile reservation as headquarters for work on the Hoover Dam, at the bottom of Boulder Dam canyon, about 1,000 feet below this Western Union office.

YOU MUST START your motor at Hodge, Cal., 200 miles away, early, to spend the day here.

The coyotes are kind enough to wake you at 3:30 a. m. with their mournful howling, like that of Coleridge's woman "wailing for her demon lover." At least a lady's wailing should be like a coyote's howl, beginning with short, nervous barks, ending in a long, high-pitched wail.

A desert jack rabbit has found his way under the rabbit fence into your eight-acre alfalfa enclosure, and the coyotes have jumped over the fence to get him.

One runs behind the doomed rabbit, the other to one side, to head him off, knowing how foolishly he turns and twists. The coyote stops when the rabbit is caught and all is silence under the waning moon.

Nature is as cruel as that moon is cold.

TWO HUNDRED miles across California and Nevada desert land, in H. S. Anderson's Lincoln car, are soon covered at 60 miles per hour on perfect roads.

You drive down from California, through a pass between snow-covered mountains, cross the Nevada line, pass through the city of Las Vegas, meaning "the meadows," and on 23 miles to this new-born city in Nevada mountains that had no road, not even the narrowest, until it was decided to harness the power rushing through the deep Boulder Canyon.

You realize that the 3,000 men here are in primitive country when you hear the mountain sheep, of which a flock may be seen on the mountain tops, come down occasionally for a close view of automobiles never seen by them before.

AND FARTHER away a herd of wild asses spurn the desert hardpan with sharp hoofs, rejoicing in their freedom from man's control. The Colorado River is to be harnessed, but they are forever free, thanks to Indians that long ago killed and scalped wandering gold prospectors, to whom their ancestors belonged. From mountains far to the north many streams combine their rain and melted snow to form the Colorado River. It rushes through the Grand Canyon, far north of here.

That canyon is the river's work, cut out of the colored rocks, through thousands of centuries.

HERE THE RIVER rolls through a narrow canyon nearly 1,000 feet deep, with walls of rock rising perpendicularly toward the sky. Nothing could be better. It is as though nature has known always that man would need water. It is as though a torrent of water were rushing through the narrow open doorway of a house, as that river rushes through the narrow canyon. You would build up the lower part of the doorway, let the water accumulate behind, your obstruction and get power by making the water fall a great height.

That is done here at Hoover Dam. But what will you do with the mass of water, while you raise your dam?

The Colorado, now in the dry season, flows 5,000 cubic feet per second. In the season of high water, when the melted mountain snows are rushing down, the flow is TWO HUNDRED THOUSAND CUBIC FEET PER SECOND.

Such a torrent would wash away anything you might build, and you cannot construct a concrete wall, with its foundation on bed rock, 140 feet below the river bed, in the midst of flowing water.

THE ENGINEERS of "Six Companies," successful bidders for the government contract, answer the question simply. Make four tunnels, two on each side of the river, each 50 feet wide and deep, starting above the dam site and coming out below it. Build a cofferdam to divert the river flow into those four tunnels.

Then close your four tunnels with gates, let the water pile up behind four concrete walls, 700 feet high, the wall of the dam curving upstream to resist the rushing current. The four tunnels can be used later to lower the water level, if desired.

It is perfectly simple, although it will cost $165,000,000 to build the dam, equip the powerhouses, built into the wall itself.

The wall of the dam is twice as high as any other on earth. Perhaps the Martians do better, with their walls to hold back the oceans on a planet flattened by great age and erosion.

The Hoover reservoir, thus created, will run back of the dam, 110 miles to the lower end of the Grand Canyon. The biggest reservoir now existing is that built by the British at Assouan on the Nile. Uncle Sam's reservoir will be more than 10 times as big as the biggest, containing 30,500,000 acre feet of water.

WAR PLANES REPORTED OVER CITY

Chinese Terror-Stricken; Nanking Believes Further Efforts by League Futile

International News Service.

SHANGHAI, Dec. 4. — Indications that the Japanese army in Manchuria is about to launch a new offensive with the object of capturing the important city of Harbin were received here tonight in direct advices from Harbin.

Numerous Japanese scout planes have appeared over the city within the past 24 hours.

Large seizures of bombs consigned to a Japanese firm and known to have been manufactured at the great Mukden arsenal, now in Japanese hands, have been made by the Chinese police at Harbin. Similar shipments have been arriving at Harbin almost daily for the past month.

CHINESE IN TERROR

Chinese residents of Harbin are reported terror-stricken, with many of them preparing to flee.

These developments have increased the belief at Nanking, seat of the nationalist government of China, that further negotiations for a settlement by the League of Nations council are apt to prove futile. The feeling is growing there that the Japanese are sparring with the League and have no intention of withdrawing their troops.

The Nanking government is being flooded with telegrams demanding formal repudiation of the League and cessation of all attempts to establish a neutral zone about the city of Chinchow.

Japan Again Blocks League Peace Efforts

By ARNO DOSCH-FLEUROT

International News Service.

QUAI D'ORSAY, Paris, Dec. 4. —The Japanese delegation again blocked further consideration of the League of Nations' latest efforts to settle the Manchurian dispute this evening by announcing they could not present their counter-proposals until late tonight or possibly tomorrow.

A meeting of the 12 neutral members of the council had been tentatively set for 5 p. m. today to consider replies received by the Japanese and Chinese delegates during the day, but this meeting was postponed.

It is understood, however, that the nature of the instructions the two delegations received from their home governments makes it highly improbable any agreement will be reached tomorrow, if at all.

MADAME SORABJI

CALLS GANDHI TOOL OF REDS

Describing Mahatma Gandhi as a tool of Communism, Mme. Cornelia Sorabji, one of the foremost women educators of India, over a very American breakfast of toast and coffee at Hotel Schenley, today painted an unflattering word picture of the famed Indian leader.

Most of his actions are merely poses, she said. His name, Mahatma, his clothes, his appeal for the untouchables is a bid for publicity, according to Mme. Sorabji, who added:

"Gandhi is well educated. He is vain. He is an enigma to all of the people. He has a most pleasing and disarming smile and a manner of speech that wins the sympathy of his audiences. He is a shrewd poli-

Lloyd George Gets Welcome in Bombay

BOMBAY, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—David Lloyd George, veteran British statesman, and his party arrived here today and were greeted by the Secretary to the Governor and an aide. The former premier said his health was considerably improved by his voyage from England. The party sailed for Colombo, Ceylon, this afternoon.

Death Race Won To Save Boy's Life

ROBBER FLEES BULLETS IN EAST END

Suspect Leaves Stolen Car, Escapes Through Yards as Pursuing Police Use Guns

A chase over East End streets and through the yards of a dozen or more residents, accompanied by the fire of two police revolvers, was staged early today by the crew of a police radio car following a robber suspect.

WINDOW SHATTERED

Patrolmen Dan McGreevy and John Socker, cruising in a radio car, saw the suspect running from John Maher's drug store at 501 North Highland as the glass of a display window fell shattered to the street.

The suspect jumped into his car and sped away.

Police chased him over East End streets, but he eluded them.

PLATES CHANGED

On foot they chased the fugitive through yards, over fences firing a barrage of shots. Again he escaped.

The license plates on the abandoned car had been changed by punching holes in the letter "G" until it resembled an "O."

PINCHOT ASKS PEOPLE'S AID IN FIGHT

By LEO V. DOLAN

International News Service.

HARRISBURG, Dec. 4.—Striking at legislators in their home districts, Gov. Gifford Pinchot today appealed to the people "back home" to enlist behind his banners in the fight to carry his unemployment relief program to enactment.

It was a new "declaration of independence" on the Governor's part. He pleaded particularly for the voters in each district to exert pressure on their representatives to carry through his plans for direct relief through the issuance of "prosperity bonds" and contributions by wealthy Pennsylvanians. Funds raised under this plan would be used for food and clothing by a state commission on unemployment relief.

PLAN REJECTED

The prosperity bond scheme was rejected definitely by Senate leaders, who last Tuesday announced a substitute program after protracted conferences with the executive.

Reminiscent of the spectacular tactics of former Gov. Alfred E. Smith in whipping recalcitrant rural legislators of New York into line behind his pet measures, Gov. Pinchot's statement, given "punch" by its stark simplicity, was addressed directly "to the people of Pennsylvania."

"I appeal to the people of Pennsylvania to convince their representatives in the General Assembly before next Monday not only that every bill in the new plan is urgently needed, but also that the state should open

NO PARDON FOR ENGELSBERG

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—Department of Justice officials revealed today that an adverse report has been rendered by the Federal Pardoning Board on the application for a pardon by Joe Engelsberg, Pittsburgh man now serving a sentence for violation of the national prohibition law.

Action of the board in rejecting the application means that Engelsberg's petition for a pardon will not be sent to the White House for consideration. It was explained by officials of the department that such petitions for a pardon are not brought to the attention of the President unless a favorable report is filed by the pardoning board.

Reasons for turning down Engelsberg's petition were not disclosed.

Henry Phipps Leaves Estate of $3,100,000

MINEOLA, N. Y., Dec. 4.—(INS.)—Henry Phipps, one-time president of the Carnegie Steel Company, who died at Great Neck, September 22, left an estate of $3,139,056.82, the net value of which is $2,913,805.94 after all legal deductions were made, according to the tax appraisal filed at the Surrogate's office of Nassau County today.

Mrs. Anne Henry Phipps, of New York, his widow, was named as sole legatee, and John S. Henry C. and Howard Phipps were appointed executors.

Clara Bow, Rex Bell Married

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Dec. 4—(INS.)—Clara Bow, "it" girl of the screen, was married to Rex Bell, also a motion picture star, here last night, it was learned today.

The ceremony was performed by District Judge William E. Orr in strict secrecy.

Bell gave his age as 29 and Miss Bow said she was 26.

Harry Thaw Must Pay Girl $16,000

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—The $16,000 verdict returned by a jury last March in the third trial of Marcia Estardus' damage suit against Harry K. Thaw was affirmed without opinion today by the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court.

Boy Pilot Freed In Plane Deaths

GREENSBURG, Pa., Dec. 4.—Louis Strickler, 18, of Latrobe, was exonerated by a coroner's jury today in the deaths of three men killed when Strickler's plane struck them as he was making a night landing at Hill Airport, November 24. Those killed were Robert Pescatore, 30, Phillip Duffy, 25, and Allen Feather, all of Latrobe.

Dempsey's Brother Held on Rum Charge

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Joe Dempsey, brother of the former heavyweight boxing champion, Jack, was arrested here yesterday and charged with possession of liquor after officers said they stopped him on a highway and found 24 gallons of wine in his automobile. After being booked, Dempsey was released on bond of $500.

SUBWAY START RECOMMENDED

As Council in budget session contemplated cutting out the appropriation for the City Transit Commission, because councilmen say it has failed to accomplish its purpose, the commission today placed in the mail another recommendation for a downtown subway to relieve traffic congestion.

The commission recommends start on the $6,000,000 downtown subway, for which a bond issue passed in 1919, as the first step in the completion of the $45,000,000 traffic tunnels, and recommends the enactment of legislation to permit the special benefit assessment plan. This would require an amendment to the state constitution. One legislative session has approved the plan.

The commission recommends the construction of a subway in Federal street, and eastward in Fifth avenue, with the feeder to Liberty avenue, by way of either Grant street or Smithfield street.

Football Player Hides Illness, Dies

CANTON, Ill., Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Fabian Sepich, 15, would not tell of his illness for fear of missing a chance to play with the Canton High School football team. An infection led to septicemia. Blood transfusions were futile and he died last night. He was a sophomore.

OFFICER FINDS HOME ABLAZE

Patrolman Charles W. Bartsch, returning from night duty at Center Avenue Police Station early today, discovered that his home, 278 Preston street, Crafton Heights, was on fire.

He aroused Mrs. William Pickels and her 20-month-old son, William, who were asleep in their home on the first floor, then went to his own apartment on the second and awakened his wife and his son, Charles, 11. When all were safely out, he sounded the alarm.

Battalion Chief Herman Weihrauch said the fire started in the attic, probably from a defective flue. Damage to the house, a two-story and attic frame building, was estimated at $800 by Weihrauch.

PRESIDENT PLANS WAY TO ASSIST BUSINESS

Corporation to Supplement Banking Group; Aid Will Be Given to Railroads

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—The formula for a giant credit corporation designed along the lines of the War Finance Corporation has been worked out by President Hoover and will be submitted to Congress.

The new organization will be planned to supplement the work now being done through the banking pool organized after President Hoover's meeting with Congressional leaders October 6.

The President hopes to have all details worked out in time to include them in his message to Congress on Tuesday.

No one has yet been selected as a possible head of the new corporation and there is a strong possibility that Congress may be asked to make that selection.

CONFERS WITH BARUCH

The President was said today to feel that the banking pool has given extremely effective service in restoring confidence in banks and enabling the banks themselves to remain liquid. Its scope, however, has not been as broad as the credit situation demands.

The President has conferred within recent weeks with a number of men associated with the old War Finance Corporation, including Bernard Baruch, who was head of the War Industries Board, and today he talked with Julius Barnes, who was the head of the Grain Stabilization Corporation during the war.

AID TO RAILROADS

High among other proposals before the President are aid for railroads, both major and short line, fresh aid for small business and assistance for the farmer.

Numerous Senators and Representatives have been at work on plans to help industry and the railroads, and scores of such have reached the White House from all over the country. Each plan is gone over.

Meanwhile, a Senate committee continues hearings on whether a national economic council would be feasible. Today it received testimony by Virgil Jordan, New York economist, that next year is bound to bring an upswing.

Presidency Report 'Nonsense'—Dawes

PARIS, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Ambassador Charles G. Dawes today described as "absolute nonsense" reports from New York that a group of Republicans had decided to designate him as the party's presidential candidate in 1932. He refused to discuss the matter further.

Gen. Dawes is here from London representing the United States as unofficial observer during the League of Nations sessions on Manchurian peace.

Pope Gives Holy Day Collection to Needy

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 4.—(INS.)—Pope Pius today decided to contribute to the aid of the unemployed in Rome, renouncing all money collected for the Vatican on December 8, a holy day dedicated to the Immaculate Conception.

The money will be given to the St. Peter's Welfare Society to support public kitchens for the feeding of the unemployed during the winter.

Job, Home Assured Evicted Mother and Baby

Offers of jobs and clothes from her new neighbors in Munhall poured in on the young mother. Today she said she would decide which job to take.

But she'll continue to live with Mrs. Martin Noah, Jr., at 1415 Margaret street, Munhall, although Mrs. Noah has four children of her own, one only 6 months old, and her husband works in the steel mills on half-time.

Said Mrs. Noah today:

"I'm not going to let Mrs. O'Leary leave my home even after she goes to work. It will be better for her baby here."

Hoover Kin Tried for Rum, Judge Bans Cameras

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Dec. 4.—(INS.)—With the courtroom crowded to the doors, the trial of C. Van Ness eLavitt, brother-in-law of President Hoover, began here today on charges of violating the prohibition law.

Police Judge Charles A. M. Spencer, who is hearing the case without a jury, announced that he would countenance no demonstrations, explaining:

"This trial will be conducted as would any other trial in this court. The President cannot be held responsible for any act of this defendant, any more than this defendant could be held responsible for the acts of the President."

The first evidence produced was an old gunny sack containing clinking bottles. Deputy City Attorney Cornelius McInerny, Jr., produced two of the bottles and placed them on the judge's bench.

B. E. Wollman, federal photibition officer, was questioned concerning the arrest of Leavitt and the seizure of the sacks of liquor. Cliff R. Dailey, Santa Monica grocer, who was arrested with Leavitt, asked for a separate trial by jury and was not in court today.

DAVIS BACKS $5,000,000,000 PROSPERITY BOND ISSUE

SUPPORTS JOB AID PLAN OF LAFOLLETTE

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS
Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4—Full support will be given by Senator James J. Davis, of Pennsylvania, to the bill now being prepared by Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin, providing for a $5,000,000,000 prosperity construction program in line with the recent recommendation of William Randolph Hearst.

Senator Davis said today he was prepared to sponsor a bill himself, if the Wisconsin senator should fail to put one in. Senator LaFollette, chairman of the committee on manufactures, has already announced, however, that he will lay such a measure before the House after Congress convenes next week, Senator Davis said.

URGES BONDS

"Congress can well afford to appropriate any sum that would tend to start the wheels of industry turning at normal capacity again. In the present economic emergency, $5,000,000,000 is only a drop in the bucket compared to the business benefits to be gained, but it would prove to be the few financial drops necessary to prime the pump of business."

Asked to enumerate the industries that would be benefited by such an extensive program, Senator Davis emphasized coal, steel and iron. He explained:

STEEL, COAL AIDS

"I wonder if the people of Western Pennsylvania fully realize what such a Federal expenditure would mean to them. It would mean the purchase of vast stores of steel and steel products, coal, concrete, and in fact, everything down the line. I believe it would prove the stimulus necessary to start business going, and I certainly shall support it.

"As for the added indebtedness it would impose, the Treasury would more than make up for the cost by the added taxes that would be collected with the return of prosperity."

While the full scope of the La Follette measure has not been made known, it is expected to outline a program for public works designed to give employment to the several millions of idle workers.

PUSH DRY LAW VOTE IN FINLAND

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Dec. 4.—(AP)—The Finish government has asked the diet to authorize a referendum to determine whether prohibition shall be continued, repealed outright or modified to permit medium strength wines and beer.

With the referendum measure the government last night submitted a statement declaring that during the 12 years prohibition has been in effect none of the expected changes in the nations habits has occurred.

Contrarily, the government statement said, the conflict between the law and the predilections of the people have led to brazen and pernicious violations of the statute.

Furthermore, the government declared, prohibition has had unfavorable financial effects causing a heavy tax burden to be laid on citizens living on legal incomes while those living on the illegal sale of alcohol are free from taxation.

Rhodes Scholarship Selection Begins

SWARTHMORE, Pa., Dec. 4.—(AP)—Selection of candidates for the 32 Rhodes scholaships to be awarded this year began today in every state in the Union.

There are 584 candidates in the field for the honors, Dr. Frank Aydelotte, president of Swarthmore College and American secretary to the Rhodes trustees announced yesterday.

Bandit Holds Up Trolley Conductor

DONORA, Pa., Dec. 4.—(AP)—Frank Tuelle, conductor-motorman of a Donora-Monongahela street car of the Pittsburgh Railways Company, was held up and robbed of $7 early today by a Negro. There were no passengers on the trolley.

W.C.T.U. OPENS DRY CAMPAIGN

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—(AP)—The old guard of women prohibitionists rallied today to fling a new challenge at the stormsmen of presidential campaigns in 1932.

A four-day regional conference of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, first of 25 scheduled in preparation for the national contest, was opened by Mrs. Ella A. Boole, the president. She asserted:

"Women who think, women who still look upon the home as the center for home life, organized and unorganized women, will tell us how to make prohibition sentiment in the coming presidential election."

'MYSTERY' MAN TO AID POWERS

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Dec. 4.—(AP)—A new mystery man was produced as a witness yesterday by Harry F. Powers, accused as the Bluebeard of Quiet Dell, who goes on trial here Monday for the slaying of Mrs. Dorothy Pressler Lemke, Northboro, Mass., divorcee.

Powers will be tried specifically for Mrs. Lemke's death, but he also is accused of slaying Mrs. Asta Buhl Eicher, Park Ridge, Ill., widow, and her three children.

Among the names of 11 witnesses which J. Ed Law, Powers' attorney, handed to the Circuit Court clerk for the issuance of summons was that of "Cecil Johnson," address unknown. On the list is also the name of "Charles S. Rogers," address unknown, but whom Powers once described as a Pittsburgher.

Injection of the Johnson angle was interpreted by police to mean that Powers may seek to establish an alibi although the previous demeanor of the defense indicated an insanity plea might be made.

Woman Injured In Trolley Crash

Mrs. Mary Currie, of 1216 Bigelow boulevard, was reported injured and several other passengers shaken up last night when one street car ran into the rear end of another at a loading platform, Eighth avenue and Amity street, Homestead. The cars were slightly damaged.

SIX MADE ILL BY TOADSTOOLS

A Duquesne family of six—mother, father and four daughters—was under medical care today, having eaten toadstools for mushrooms.

Two were in McKeesport Hospital—Julia Klivas, 18, and Bertha Klivas, 17.

Suffering at their home at Third avenue and Hamilton street were the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Klivas; Virginia, 16, and Eleanor, 6.

The hospital report stated the mother had picked the toadstools in the country back of Duquesne.

All were expected to recover.

VOLPE HELD IN LIQUOR SALE

Louis Volpe, political leader of Wilmerding, was held for court on charges of sale of liquor by the United States Commissioner today.

A Negro prohibition agent testified that Volpe sold him whisky at Patton and Middle streets, Wilmerding, on two occasions, September 22 and a week later.

Volpe was released on $2,000 bond, signed by his brother, James Volpe, who gave as security his residence at 116 Bridge street, Wilmerding, and Joseph Orlia, a grocer, at 164 Watkins avenue, Wilmerding.

HUNGER MARCH TRUCKS NEAR PITTSBURGH

Two Caravans Due Tonight; Fed in Mingo Junction, Vocal in Steubenville

BULLETIN.

WEIRTON, W. Va., Dec. 4.—The hunger marchers were met at the West Virginia state line outside Steubenville today by the sheriffs of Brooke and Hancock counties and a dozen or more police, then refused permission to pass through Weirton, W. Va., and escorted by the police towards the Pennsylvania state line. One marcher was struck on the head with a blackjack by Sheriff J. D. Mercer, of Hancock County.

By AL GOUGH
Staff Correspondent

STEUBENVILLE, O., Dec. 4.—The hunger marchers, due in Pittsburgh at 5 p. m., weren't so hungry, neither were they marching as they reached Steubenville this afternoon.

A few minutes before, in Mingo Junction, they had pulled up in their four sputtering limousines and five covered trucks and partaken healthily of a generous lunch provided by a women's organization.

WAX ORATORICAL

In this town the marchers were very vocal. They took possession of the Court House steps by permission of the public officials and made speeches.

The citizens here exhibited interest in the carnival atmosphere of this caravan of hunger marchers who intend to "march" to Washington as an unemployment gesture.

Two "Wild West" Indians, a Texas "bad man" and a movie cameraman were the chief attractions. Two women were in the party.

ROUTED BY POLICE

The first scheduled stop after Steubenville was Weirton, W. Va., where the marchers hope they receive better treatment than was given them in Martins Ferry, O., where they had planned to make speeches in City Park. Police Chief Mulelman rather abruptly informed them:

"If you stop here at all you'll stop for a long time, because we have a very nice jail."

The marchers went away from there.

Another contingent of the hunger marchers, from the Northwest, is scheduled to reach Pittsburgh at 6 o'clock tonight from Youngstown, O. The division will stop over at Monaca and Aliquippa and enter this city by way of Leetsdale and Glenfield.

Mackey Orders Police To Halt Hunger March

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Philadelphia police were under orders today to halt any march through the city of unemployed men en route to Washington. Mayor Mackey said they would have to pass through in their motor trucks.

Previously he had telegraphed Gov. Pinchot that he would not give official assistance to the men whom he termed "politically inspired and financed to embarrass the President and lawmakers."

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—(INS.)—The national "hunger march" which started today from this city struck an unexpected financial obstacle right at the start when drivers of the 15 trucks used to transport the 290 marchers refused to leave until they had been paid in advance.

Money collected at various meetings held lately was impressed into service and when $1,875 had been given to the drivers the "march" started amid the cheers of a large crowd.

66 New Cases Put Under Quarantine

The following new quarantine cases were reported by the City Health Department today: Scarlet fever, 15; diphtheria, 1; measles, 26; whooping cough, 6; mumps, 6; chickenpox, 7, and pneumonia, 6.

GANDHI VISIONS NEW STRIFE

LONDON, Dec. 4.—(INS.)—Mahatma M. K. Gandhi, who will leave England on Saturday for India, called at No. 10 Downing street today to bid farewell to Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald.

Withholding any warlike declaration for the time being, Gandhi announced a decision on the possible renewing of civil disobedience as part of the Indian independence movement would be held in abeyance until he has conferred with the All-India National Congress at Bombay.

A national disobedience campaign would not be started, the Mahatma declared, without his approval, but he forecast local disturbances, especially in Bengal, as a result of the anti-terrorism ordinance put into effect by the British authorities.

Roosevelt Dinner Deferred by Friends

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—(AP)—The Times says a Roosevelt-for-President dinner of the Empire state committee of 1,000 Democratic and Progressive women has been "deferred," perhaps to sometime next month. The dinner was to have been given December 21.

Members of the organization, the Times says, denied a suggestion the dinner had been called off in deference to representations made by friends of the Governor. It says it learned, however, the affair was viewed in Democratic circles as embarrassing to both the Governor and leaders of his party in the state.

tician, but yet there is something childish in his vanity."

WILL SPEAK AT PITT

Mme. Sorabji was to speak today before the faculty and students of the University of Pittsburgh in Memorial Hall on the education of women in India. Tonight she will be entertained at a dinner in the Twentieth Century Club.

"Mahatma means 'the Great Spirit,' and is given to Hindus only after years of meditation and prayer. No Hindu mahatma would think of assuming the title to gain earthly power and influence, nor would they do the things Gandhi is doing today."

GANDHI OPPOSITION

Amplifying her statement that Gandhi is a tool of Communism, Mme. Sorabji said:

"India has her independence. England offered self-government to us after the World War but our problem now is determining the form of government we most desire. Most of our population desires separate representation. Gandhi and his group by their opposition, which is all that it amounts to, is making it difficult for us to start. In his opposition he is not the leader, but an exploited personality in the hands of the Soviet."

Auto Crashes Pole, 2 Pittsburghers Hurt

Wilbur Pollock, 28, of 2122 Sidney street, and Raymond Doran, 24, of 90 South Twentieth street, were injured and are under arrest in Charleroi, after their auto was wrecked by crashing into a telephone pole early today. A woman companion, who disappeared after the accident, is being sought.

MOSES NAMED AS FOES SHUN G.O.P. MEET

Insurgents Postpone Fight Until Congress Convenes; Democrats Pick Robinson

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Senate Republicans and Democrats organized their machines today without a hitch, but the Republican independents opposing re-election of George Moses, of New Hampshire, as president pro tem, absented themselves from their party conference.

The two parties will go into the session operative Monday with their same organizations: Watson, of Indiana, leading the Republicans, and Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democrats.

The row over Moses, involving possibly an upset of Republican control of the Senate, will be fought out on the floor with at least five of the Republican Independents opposing re-election of the man who termed them "sons of the wild jackass."

WON'T BACK DEMOCRAT

The Republican revolters do not intend to support a Democrat in place of Moses, but rather another Republican. This may forestall the threatened reprisals by friends of Moses to take away the chairmanships of the bolters.

Republicans are confident of their full strength of 48 members when the session opens Monday, but the Democrats will be without two of their 47 members—Gov. Huey Long, of Louisiana, and Stephens, of Mississippi.

Mrs. Caraway, of Arkansas, recently appointed to succeed her late husband, did not attend the Democratic parley today, but she is expected to be present on the roll call.

McNARY RE-ELECTED

The Republicans re-elected McNary, of Oregon, as assistant leader and the Democrats Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana, Fess, of Ohio, and Sheppard, of Texas, again will be the Republican and Democratic whips.

In response to Senator Johnson, of California, the tentative program for starting the session was outlined by Watson as follows: Organize, Monday; receive President's message, Tuesday; receive budget message, Wednesday, and receive special message from President on Thursday asking ratification of one-year moratorium on inter-governmental debts.

Canonsburg Office Robbed by Gunmen

CANONSBURG, Pa., Dec. 4.—An unmasked bandit robbed the George M. Challener Insurance Company, 43 North Jefferson avenue, of more than $500 early today, after holding up a girl clerk who was alone in the office. He escaped in an small coupe.

Catherine Lauthman, the clerk, had just opened the office when the robber, she said she recognized as a man who had visited the agency yesterday to inquire about an insurance policy, entered.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—(Universal)—The White House wants it distinctly understood that a warm air convention is not a hot air meeting. This was made clear when President Hoover posed for a photograph with delegates to the Warm Air Heating Association convention.

Woman, Laughing At Movie, Dies

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 4.—(AP)—The antics of a comedian in a motion picture caused Mrs. Mary D. Armstead, 53, to laugh herself to death last night. From chuckles Mrs. Armstead went into gales of laughter, then into hysterics and finally fell from her theater seat, dead. Members of her family said she had suffered from high blood pressure.

Breaking Dry Law 'Duty' Of All, Says Ex-Jurist

AUGUSTA, Ga., Dec. 4.—(INS.)—The prohibition law is "an abomination" and it is the duty of every citizen to violate it at every opportunity, according to Henry G. Hammond, judge of the Augusta Circuit Superior Court for 30 years.

The former jurist denounced the prohibition laws in an address before the Rotary Club of Macon, saying:

"I like to violate the prohibition law whenever I can. My own sense of personal hygiene doesn't permit me to break this abominable law in my own person, but I believe it is the duty of every citizen to violate it at every opportunity."

Judge Hammond enlarged his remarks in an interview at his home here, declaring:

"A bad law is unenforceable and I consider it no moral duty for citizens to obey bad and vicious laws imposed on them.

"In a democratic country, one is obedient to laws of long standing and righteousness, but to obey a law so terrible and lawless in its enforcement is hardly duty. The duty in the case of the vicious prohibition law is clearly to fight it."

Home Buyer Urged to Pay One-Fourth in Cash

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—(INS.)—The home buyer should be able to pay at least one-fourth of the price of his home in cash before he attempts to purchase, the finance committee of the President's Conference on Home Building and Home Ownership reported today.

Based on a comprehensive survey of home financing, the committee advised that unless this amount was paid initially, money troubles were in store.

After purchase, the committee declared, no more than 25 per cent of the buyer's income should be allotted to current payments on a home.

The committee reported second mortgages were the chief bane of the home owner's existence, and recommended the setting up stabilized institutions to provide for long-term, low interest rate second mortgages.

The conference agreed that America pays far too much for ill-designed, showy homes. Committee reported homes frequently were built of inferior materials and sold by high pressure salesmanship. They recommended a program of national education in the business of home buying and building, and predicted costs would drop and basic improvements in design would follow.

BRIDGE BATTLE TO BE CALM, SAYS MRS. CULBERTSON

FINDS HECKLING POST-MORTEMS BANE OF GAME

Woman Expert Gives Views On Eve of Duel in Which She Will Partner Husband

By J. C. OESTREICHER
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—"Above all things—be generous."

Mrs. Josephine Culbertson, wife of Ely Culbertson, originator and chief exponent of the controversial "approach-forcing" system of contract bridge, laid down this rule today as the cardinal principle of "peaceful and successful" bridge playing.

A bridge star in her own right, Mrs. Culbertson will partner her famous husband in his long-awaited tournament with Sidney Lenz, originator of the 1-2-3 bidding method in contract bridge. She will write her own impressions of the 150-rubber tournament beginning here next Monday exclusively for International News Service.

MESSAGE TO PLAYERS

Said this blue-eyed, blonde wizard of the card table:

"My message to bridge players is to be generous—above all and at all times.

"Everyone makes mistakes. I cite generosity in the face of mistakes as my cardinal rule of bridge, because that is the way I learned to play.

"There is no such thing as 'card sense.' Some people may take more easily to a complicated game than others, but everyone can be taught the fundamentals. When these have been learned, the only other thing needed is confidence and a certain amount of concentration.

BECKLING DISASTROUS

"Opposite a heckling, fault-finding partner, no one can play a satisfactory game. I know from my own experience that 'mercy' in bridge is an absolutely necessary factor. Show me the bridge table where the game proceeds in peace and I will show you the makings of successful players. Squabbles and 'post-mortems' can do more to discourage and ruin promising players than all the 'sets' and 'redoubles' in the world."

HOPES FOR PEACE

In line with her own gentle philosophy, Mrs. Culbertson goes into this epochal tournament on Monday in the real and sincere hope that tempers will emerge unstrained and nerves unfrayed at the conclusion of five weeks of combat. She said:

"People have asked me whether I look forward to the fight. I do not want it to be a fight. I know it will be better bridge and a better tournament if peace and 'generosity' prevail."

Culbertson himself is confident that the tournament will demonstrate once and for all the superiority of one system over the other.

New Yorkers Leading In Bridge Tourney

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Contract bridge experts from all over the country competing in the national tournament entered their third day of play today with indications that Richard Fry and David Burnstine, of New York, held the lead in the pair championship. Leaders in the team competition could not be ascertained.

For the players the tournament is an endurance marathon, with games starting in the afternoon and winding up in the early hours of the following morning. Most of the competitors are entered in both team and pair events.

For the official scorers it has become a nightmare of score cards, adding machines and tally-sheets. They said the results of yesterday's pair games could not be announced until late today, and that day-to-day standings of the teams would not be computed.

The players took time off yesterday to elect Baron Waldemar von Zedtwitz, of New York, president of the American Bridge League and to vote to admit clubs to memberships.

Other new officers are Sir Derrick J. Wernher of Deal, N. J., vice president; R. E. Needham, of Greenville, Pa., treasurers, and William E. McKenney, of Cleveland, secretary. The women's association elected Mrs. Needham president.

FATHER DENIES CHILD ABUSE; DEFIES STATE

Will Fight Efforts to Take Girl From Home; Town Stirred by Accusations

International News Service.

ESCANABA, Mich., Dec. 4.—Around an eight-year-old girl, Elaine Plucker, a storm of civic excitement raged today as the consequence of charges that she was mistreated and imprisoned in a piano packing case by her father and stepmother.

Not since Escanaba's "fever girl" nine years ago has a case so stirred this community as that of little Elaine.

While juvenile authorities debated over the future of the pale and emaciated child, the father, Howard Plucker, denied the accusation that he and his second wife had tortured their daughter and hurled a challenge to the state to try and take her away from her home.

DEFIES STATE

The father said:

"I feel that I am best fitted to give my child a home, and I intend to keep her."

The child was back in her parents' home today, pending an investigation to be conducted by C. P. Ramsey, superintendent of the state juvenile school at Coldwater. After the investigation, it will be determined whether she will be placed in care of a private family or be taken to a children's home.

Elaine's case, paralelling in many respects that of Edith Riley, the "closet girl," of Washington, was aired in Probate Judge Judd Yelland's Court, where neighbors of the Plucker family testified against the parents. They charged that the girl was kept in a piano packing box in the back yard of her home throughout most of the year, in warm and in cold weather.

SLEEPS IN BASEMENT

At night, they testified, the girl was forced to sleep in the basement. They intimated that the stepmother wanted to keep her out of the house to protect the furniture.

Elaine herself went to school yesterday, but refused to talk of domestic troubles. The packing case has been destroyed by Plucker.

Hands Seared With Poker, Ohio Girl Blames Mother

TIFFIN, O., Dec. 4.—(AP.)—A 6-year-old girl had a temporary home with Sheriff George Burkett today while Seneca County authorities investigated her story that her mother seared her hands with a hot stove poker.

The girl, Helen Bland, was being given medical treatment for her burns, which have festered and threaten an infection unless extreme precautions are taken, according to physicians.

The mother, Mrs. Eliza Bland, 50, of Jackson Township, was quoted by the sheriff as admitting placing a red-hot poker on her child's left hand to "break her childish habits." Four fingers and part of the forearm were seared.

Mrs. Bland was permitted to remain at her home pending an investigation. She is the mother of five other children.

MERCY SLAYER WINS PUBLIC SYMPATHY

Minister of Justice Joins In Expressing Regret for Danish Woman's Plight

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Great sympathy was expressed by the press and public and in high official quarters today for Else Bang, young Danish woman who confessed having killed her mother, Baroness von Dueben, to end the latter's agony from incurable disease.

Minister of Justice T. H. Zahle said:

"I can very well understand the wish to cut short the suffering of a near and dear relative. To me there is no evidence of criminal temperament in this case but, on the contrary, love and pity for suffering."

He pointed out that the new Danish penal code contains a provision for reducing the punishment to a minimum in cases where the sufferer asked assistance to die. He said:

"Unfortunately for Else, however, the new code does not come into force until 1933 and the code of 1866, which is still in force, is rather severe."

The Rev. Johannes Engel, to whom Else first confessed intentionally giving her mother an overdose of a powerful medicine, pointed out that Else had been under great mental stress because she was compelled to choose between her mother and a husband.

When she told her father what she had done he implored her not to go to the police, trying to impress upon her that her case constituted something between herself, her mother and God. She would not listen to this advice. She said:

"Should I meet the man I chose for my husband I would have to tell him and he would shrink from me. Nor could I beget children who one day might ask me whether rumors were true that I slew my mother. The only way for me is to confess publicly and regain my peace of mind and soul."

MOONEY'S FOES ASK HEARING

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Capt. Charles Goff, of the San Francisco Police Department has asked Gov. James Rolph, Jr., to grant a hearing to the prosecution in the case of Thomas Mooney, serving a life term at San Quentin Prison for allegedly bombing a Preparedness parade here in 1916.

Capt. Goff, who had charge of the police investigation of the case at the time of the bombing, said last night he had asked for the hearing before Mooney's three attorneys recently made a plea before Gov. Rolph here for a pardon for their client.

That such a hearing would be granted was intimated by Lewis F. Byington, San Francisco attorney who is one of Gov. Rolph's advisers in the case. At the recent hearing here Mooney was represented by Mayor James J. Walker, of New York; Frank P. Walsh and Aaron Sapiro, each of whom asked for an unconditional pardon for the alleged bomber.

Fake Job Agent Girls Accused Begs Mercy

Tears streaming down his cheeks, Leo Reese, 35, of 5451 Penn avenue, stood before Magistrate Thomas D. Jones in Morals Court today and pleaded for "one more chance."

Three girls had testified when they answered his advertisement for a housekeeper. Reese had proposed marriage and talked of subjects not relating to housekeeping during their interviews.

Reese told detectives, who arrested him, he only had one weakness—that of proposing to every girl he met.

Jones reserved his decision until Monday.

IGNORE LIMIT ON CLARA'S BETS

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Dec. 4.—(INS.)—Rex Bell, cowboy film actor, friend of Clara Bow, formerly the "It" girl of the screen, declared today the Meadows Gambling Casino Company had ignored an agreement to limit Miss Bow's losses to $500 during one night's play.

The gambling company had filed suit for $1100 against Miss Bow and Bell alleging they had lost that amount playing roulette and shooting craps last September. Miss Bow had been staying at Bell's cattle ranch to recover from a nervous breakdown.

Bell, in Las Vegas to accept a service attachment on his $15,000 foreign car, which had been in a garage for repairs, indicated he would settle the casino's claim.

WALES, MOTHER RECOVERING

LONDON, Dec. 4.—(INS.)—With the Prince of Wales confined to his bed in London with a slight attack of malarial chills, another illness in the Royal family became known today when it was revealed here that Queen Mary is recovering from a severe cold at Sandringham, Norfolk.

A statement from St. James Palace today said the Prince was making "satisfactory progress." The Queen, it was made known, is still keeping indoors, although her condition is improving.

Sir Stanley Hewett, the Prince's physician, yesterday visited him and found his ailment was taking its normal course and that the cold was not malarial.

Philadelphia Matron Resents Publicity On Alaska Trip

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—"It's the darned old name of Biddle."

So sighed Mrs. Edward M. Biddle, of "the Philadelphia Biddles," gloomily squinting down the barrel of a businesslike rifle.

"If I didn't have that tagged onto me, I could get away without all this fuss."

Mrs. Biddle will leave next week for Alaska on a trek that will take her alone—save for a guide and 17 dogs—to a point nearly 500 miles north of the last outpost of civilization, to get material for a book.

It will be her first book, and she is somewhat flustered over all the publicity it has received before she has even started out to get the material. She said:

"I didn't know it was going to be like this. I thought I could get away without any fuss. Suppose the whole thing is a failure—then won't I feel foolish?"

Mrs. Biddle, daughter of a wealthy Philadelphia lawyer and wife of a member of one of Philadelphia's oldest and most prominent families, is going on this trip, she said, for two reasons: First, because she likes the North, "where all the men are he-men, and the dogs bark at strangers," and secondly, because she wants to do something.

Mrs. Biddle said her husband thoroughly approves of her project, "although he doesn't like this publicity a bit." And her children, Lydia, 6; Teddy, 4, and Richard Dale, 2, are delighted. She has promised to bring back to them a live teddy bear.

ANN HARDING IMPROVES

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Ann Harding, blonde star of the screen, was reported "resting comfortably" despite a dislocated shoulder.

Her secretary, Maria Lombard, said last night Miss Harding "suffered severe pain Wednesday but is feeling much improved now." She said Miss Harding did not know when she received the injury.

The actress, en route to Venice, Fla., to make exterior scenes for her newest picture, left her train here Wednesday and went to a hotel.

Meanwhile, Harry C. Bannister, her husband, was en route from California by airplane. He was accompanied by Dr. William C. Branch, Miss Harding's physician. They were expected today if weather conditions along the route are favorable.

Kills Sister, Taken For Mother-in-law

PAULS VALLEY, Okla., Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Homer Hurt, Garvin County attorney announced J. O. Logan had confessed he killed his sister, Mrs. Indiana Anderson, with an ax, after mistaking her for his mother-in-law.

Mrs. Anderson, a widow, was slain at her home at Maysville, Okla. Logan, 64, is separated from his wife.

Doctor Saves Woman By Using Own Blood

Breaks MacDonald's Window, Gets Jail

LONDON, Dec. 4.—(INS.)—Convicted of throwing a rock through a window of the Prime Minister's residence at No. 10 Downing street, Richard Dunn, 55-year-old author, was sentenced today to serve a month in jail or pay a fine of five pounds. Dunn said he threw the rock as a protest against the government's unemployment policy.

DR. HAMEL FINDING THAT GRIDDER AMMAN'S BOUNDING BLOOD PRESSURE REACHED 120 IN BLONDE AND BRUNETTE TESTS

Grid Men Prefer Blondes Unless Machine Lies

Duquesne University's football players may insist that they don't prefer blondes, but their emotions indicate otherwise, according to blood pressure tests made at the school yesterday by Dr. Ignatius A. Hamel, psychology professor.

Members of the varsity squad were instructed to face a blonde and a brunette in turn and converse with each of them as Dr. Hamel conducted the test.

The testing device, christened by the athletes as the "emotion indicator," showed that "blonde pressure" was 120 degrees, while "brunette pressure" caused no change in the normal blood pressure.

The tests were made in connection with the picture, "Blonde Crazy," which opens Saturday at the Warner Theater, and in which the central theme is the assertion that men are more susceptible to blondes.

Play Piracy Suit Dismissed by Judge

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—(Universal).—Henry T. Hallahan, playwright, lost the $3,000,000 law suit he filed against Schwab and Mandel on a charge of plagiarism. He asserted they stole the plot of their musical comedy, "Good News" from the manuscript of his drama, "Bad News." Federal Judge Patterson read both plays and dismissed the suit.

Birth Control Held Moral By Church Council Board

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 4.—(INS.)—Approval of restrained birth control by married people as "valid and moral" was expressed in a majority report presented to the annual meeting of the executive committee of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, at the second session of the body yesterday.

A minority report upholding abstinence as ideal also was presented to the committee.

A spirited debate was precipitated yesterday when a resolution was presented urging that the council's administrative committee take full responsibility for its utterances.

The resolution was aimed at the sub-committee which last March released to the newspapers majority and minority statements on birth control. Final action on the resolution was deferred until next year.

The Rev. John H. Warnhus, of New York, introduced the measure after speakers said the action of the administrative committee, which approved only publication of the reports on birth control, had caused the erroneous impression that the statements represented the position of the Federal Council as a whole.

WOMEN OPPOSE VOTE MACHINE PAYMENTS

League Demands Funds Be Withheld Until Changes In Equipment Are Made

Eight hundred members of the Friday Morning Club, Allegheny County League of Women Voters, today demanded that the final payment of $410,000 to the Poole Company be withheld until changes are made in the voting machines delivered.

A resolution presented by Mrs. B. Templeton Smith was unanimously adopted calling on county commissioners, treasurer and controller to hold up payment until the machines are "mechanically perfect."

FOLLOWS APPROVAL

This action of the women followed on the heels of formal approval of the Poole machines in Harrisburg yesterday by the secretary of the commonwealth after two re-examinations.

Mrs. Smith, chairman of the League, who was present at the tests at Harrisburg, in addressing the club today said:

"The Poole company should change our machines so they will be the same as the one demonstrated in Harrisburg Wednesday. The protective counter should be put on the outside of the machine, a guard should be put in front of the star wheel so that it could not be removed at the polls readily by any voter and a handle for the manual operation of the machine, should be put on similar to the one shown in Harrisburg.

'JAMS EASILY'

"With a machine that jams as easily as this one does, it would be impossible to maintain a sufficiently large corps of mechanics to adjust them on election day."

The league has asked the County Commissioners to authorize a public examination of the Poole machine.

Judge Elder W. Marshall in Common Pleas Court today set next Tuesday for trial of the taxpayer's suit brought by Ada Bassett to restrain the county officers from making the final payment to the Poole Company on its $1,000,000 vote machine contract.

PINCHOT ASKS PEOPLE'S AID

RELIEF IMPERATIVE

"I am not willing to accept without protest a plan which provides nothing for women and children.

"Food relief is imperative. Work relief alone will merely scratch the surface.

"The real question is—are you willing to have the state provide direct relief or are you not?"

The Governor summed up the situation in a tersely worded recapitulation of the results of his conferences with House and Senate leaders. This declared:

"The people of Pennsylvania are entitled to know that this new program will have the following results:

"1—There will be less than half as much work-relief as under my plan—$20,000,000 instead of $45,000,000.

"2—The state road program for next summer will be seriously crippled.

"3—The new plan means that no money borrowed by counties and other municipalities against delinquent taxes and spent for relief, will be repaid by the state, and thus lighten this load of local taxation. This part of my program has been cut out.

NO FOOD RELIEF

"4—Worst of all, by far, it means no direct or food relief through the state, such as my plan provides for to the possible extent of $35,000,000 in loan contributions.

"5—Finally, the new plan eliminates the constitutional amendment included in my plan whereby other similar crises in the future could be met without the trouble we are having to meet this one."

The Senate plan, he said, will provide only $20 expenditure for each family of the 1,000,000 unemployed men. The jobless and their dependents, he said, number 3,000,000. He added:

"What does that amount to?"

Indirectly, the Governor also revealed a willingness to surrender complete control of the proposed state commission on unemployment relief. He expressed willingness that the Legislature should designate two members, the Governor two and the state treasurer be the fifth commissioner. In the past, his plan included four members selected by himself, plus the state treasurer.

WILLIAM H. CONNOR

JUDGE IN GANG TO TRAP THEM

HARRY BERGMAN
International News Service

CHICAGO, Dec. 4.—A judge who posed as a gangster and mingled with denizens of the underworld in order to smash a notorious bootlegging mob wrote an amazing chapter in criminal history today.

Proclaiming a war to the finish against the so-called 42 West Side gang, Municipal Judge Francis Borrelli unfolded the unique story of his dangerous experiences.

As a direct result of the magistrate's undercover work, ten members of the gang were in prison today, six in default of a $200 fine imposed by Judge Borrelli for disorderly conduct and four awaiting future consideration of their cases.

BLAST KILLS 1, INJURES 55

BERKELEY, Cal., Dec. 4.—(INS.)—Rocking the entire district, a gas explosion killed one person, injured 55 others, wrecked one house, caved in the side wall of an adjoining one and hurled blazing timbers for blocks.

The blast occurred while firemen were battling a fire in the basement of a house in the residential district. The explosion was caused when flames melted a pipe line and ignited the gas.

Sherman Pepper, 16, son of Prof. Stephen Pepper, of the University of California, was killed as he stood outside watching the firemen.

Three firemen, including Chief George Haggerty, were reported to be in a critical condition today from injuries.

MRS. ANN GLEDHILL

Gaitered Mrs. Gledhill, pictured in New York after she had hurried from her home in Canada to help her daughter, Miss May Gledhill, threatened with deportation and loss of hers and Convict William Conner's baby. Miss Gledhill and the baby. Miss Gledhill and baby are living with Mrs. Conner.

WIFE TO CARE FOR 'SKI GIRL'

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—(INS.)—Mrs. Inez Connor today said she would continue to shelter May Gledhill, mother of her husband's child, if the girl's parents should repudiate her.

While the husband, William Connor, was serving a term for forgery in a Vermont prison, Mrs. Connor, Miss Gledhill, Canadian beauty, and the child, lived together in a Long Island cottage.

Mrs. Connor declared:

"If she has nowhere else to go, she may come here. In the meanwhile, I will take care of her baby, for I love him, too."

Communist Mayor Candidate Jailed

DETROIT, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—John Schmies, Communist candidate for Mayor in the last election, was sentenced to 60 days in the Detroit house of correction yesterday for his part in a demonstration of unemployed in front of the City Hall, November 25.

He acted as his own attorney during the trial in Recorder's Court, pleading the rights of free speech and public assembly. A jury convicted him of disturbing the peace.

Aimee Will Build Hotel Near Temple

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 4.—(INS.)—Given permission by the state to sell stock, Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson-Hutton, evangelist, said today ground would be broken March 1 for a new $600,000 apartment hotel near Angelus Temple.

Pinchot Reminded Of Pledge to Cut Gas Tax

LOCK HAVEN, Pa., Dec. 4.—(INS.)—Members of the Voters' League of Clinton County today awaited an answer to their telegram of query and admonition dispatched to Gov. Gifford Pinchot at Harrisburg.

The message read:

"Have you forgotten that you promised the voters of Clinton County on the courthouse steps a reduction in gasoline tax and drivers' license?

"Stick to the bridge that carried you across."

Man Shot in Pact With Girl, 18, Dies

DETROIT, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Chris Denoff, 26, died early today of a pistol wound inflicted late yesterday at the same time Dorothy Brown, 18, was seriously wounded in the rear of a candy store operated by the girl's father. Police suspected a suicide pact.

FAKE BILL CASE SUSPECT FREED

William Anderson, 26, of Carson street, yesterday was acquitted in United States Court on a charge of counterfeiting $10 Federal Reserve notes in a trial before Judge F. P. Schoonmaker. He was arrested August 18 following a raid by United States Secret Service operatives on a counterfeiting plant in a house at 142 South Nineteenth street.

Three men, who have since pleaded guilty to a counterfeiting charge, and now serving two years and six months each in the Atlanta Penitentiary, were brought from the penitentiary and appeared as witnesses for Anderson, and it was mainly through their testimony that he was acquitted.

These witnesses were J. E. Bova, of Pioneer avenue; Arthur J. Korbe, of Spring street, and Alfred Lux, who resided at the place raided. They said Anderson was frequently in their company but denied he knew of their counterfeiting.

Wife's Pious Zeal Wins Divorce For Husband

BALTIMORE, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Henry Schmidt was granted a divorce from Caroline Schmidt because she was too pious.

The woman's demand that Judge A. Solter open and close court with prayer led by herself aided him in making his decision yesterday.

Schmidt testified his wife was so religious, and so eschewed earthly things, that she tore up and gave to her washwoman clothes he bought her after he told her how nice she looked in them.

She also sought to destroy her diamond engagement ring and succeeded in melting down the family silver by throwing it into the furnace.

ROXY HINTS WAR IN GRAND OPERA

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—A grand opera "war" was seen as a possibility in an announcement today by Roxy, "director-general" of the $31,000,000 Radio City being built on Fifth avenue.

Roxy, who in private life is Samuel L. Rothafel, told a gathering of motion picture advertisers that Radio City would have grand opera whether or not the Metropolitan Opera Company decided to cast in its lot with the gigantic amusement center and move into a new home in Radio City.

Radio City is saving space among its 12 huge buildings for an opera house and negotiations have been under way with the Metropolitan, but no announcement has been forthcoming. The possibility of competition between a new house and the old, backed by the persons of large wealth who sit in its famous "Golden Horseshoe," gave music-lovers something of a sensation.

Stunning Daytime Model

Pattern 2244

Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

STEP-BY-STEP INSTRUCTION DIAGRAMS GIVEN WITH THIS PATTERN

By ANNE ADAMS

Here is the tailored frock you are hearing so much about these days—in good taste to wear from morning until twilight and especially smart in sheer wool or Rosanara crepe. The lines of the bodice, designed to simulate a bolero are repeated below a snug hip section in joining the front pleated skirt. A becoming collar cut from contrasting fabric, a dark leather belt and matching buttons complete the chic model.

Pattern 2244 is obtainable only in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42. Size 16 requires 3⅛ yards of 39-inch fabric, ⅝ of a yard 36-inch contrasting. No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model with our pattern.

I. N. S. WIDENS WIRE SERVICE

International News Service, the first press association to put automatic telegraph printers into general use for delivery of its news reports to member papers, has completed arrangements for installation of the new A. T. & T. teletypewriters in all of its many bureaus.

The three Pennsylvania bureaus of Pittsburgh, Harrisburg and Philadelphia are among the first to receive installations. Thus the International News Service adds to its own nation-wide private leased wire system many miles of additional part-time wire facilities.

The new auxiliary A. T. & T. printers will be used as feeder and overflow wires. Western Union and Postal Telegraph Companies announced the same type of teletypewriter service as the A. T. & T. and their facilities, too, have been added to those of I. N. S. which a number of years ago equipped its major bureaus with direct Postal and Western Union wires to insure greater service.

When the double trunk wires are crowded with important general news, as when Congress is in session and a story of great interest to Pennsylvania alone breaks in Chicago, for example, an auxiliary A. T. & T. Western Union or Postal wire can be set up instantaneously so there will be no delay in transmitting the story from Chicago to Pennsylvania.

NEED GREATER IN SEAL SALE

Increases in the number of cases diagnosed as tuberculosis was reported by Mrs. Mary Flinn Lawrence, member of the Christmas Seal Committee for Pennsylvania, urging the sale of health seals. Mrs. Lawrence said:

"Undernourishment and poverty are allies of the tuberculosis and their deadly sweep calls for every resource we can muster against them. I am concerned most about the ravages of this disease among young people. It leads all other diseases in the age between 15 and 45. It causes broken homes and orphans by the thousands every year in Pennsylvania—a tragic result from a preventable disease."

32 Hunger-Strikers Thrown Out of Jail

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 4.—(INS.)—Thirty-two women school teachers were forcibly expelled yesterday from the penitentiary of the state of San Luis Potosi where they had been hunger-striking since their arrest following demonstrations of protest against their pay being long overdue.

Four hundred teachers in the state of Jalisco were dropped from the rolls for publicly expressing their sympathy with their fellow teachers in San Luis Potosi.

ARTHRITIS CURE BY VACCINE EXPLAINED

Briton Reveals His Success With Method to Doctors Studying Disease Here

Rheumatism, also called arthritis, can be cured with a vaccine by a method capable of being used by the general practitioner everywhere, Dr. H. Warren Crowe, of the Charterhouse Rheumatism Clinic, London, England, told an audience of physicians at an open meeting of the American Society for the Study of Arthritis at the Frick Training School for Teachers' Auditorium last night.

The vaccine treatment was indorsed by other speakers one of whom, Dr. Martin E. Rehfuss of Philadelphia, asserted no drug had been found which would cure the disease.

STIRRED BY DISCOVERY

Dr. Crowe said he discovered the value of a vaccine in the treatment of rheumatism by applying it to his wife at the suggestion of a friend. The cure was so rapid as to fall little short of being dramatic, he said. The process consisted in giving the patient a serum prepared from the microbes responsible for the disease.

Dr. William W. Lermann, who presided, said that arthritis was an industrial and social, as well as a medical problem, in England. It is responsible for one-sixth of all industrial disability. Until recently it was considered incurable, and as a matter of fact was incurable, because the cause was not known. Now it has been found to be a bacterial infection. The microbes which produce the disease are of the streptococcus group. Unfortunately more than one kind of streptococcus will cause rheumatism, hence it is necessary to find out which kind is responsible before treatment can be given.

Dr. Reginald Burbank, of New York City, described how the responsibility of streptococci for the production of rheumatism was proved by inoculating animals with organisms found in the blood of the patients, with the result that typical arthritic lesions formed in the animals' joints. Ten different kinds of streptococci were found in the experiments he conducted to produce rheumatism.

Ninety-eight per cent of all cases of chronic arthritis result from infection in the alimentary canal, it was declared. Dr. Rehfuss, who confined himself largely to this phase of the subject, said that while streptococci found in infected teeth and in the tonsils are to blame for much rheumatism, removal of the teeth and the tonsils may not result in the disappearance of the disease. The reason is that the microbes have the power of penetrating beyond the first focal point. In more than 50 per cent of the cases of chronic arthritis, Dr. Rehfuss said, it is probable that the infection involves the large intestine.

RESEARCH EXPLAINED

Not all streptococci produce rheumatism. 87 per cent of the students at the University of Pennsylvania were found to have streptococci in their throats, yet most were free from rheumatic ailments.

To differentiate between the harmless and the disease-producing organisms Dr. Rehfuss and his assistants injected numerous kinds into hundreds of rabbits. Seven of the 41 strains used produced joint diseases in the animals. Finally a strain of streptococcus, taken from a woman afflicted with arthritis, was developed which produced joint disease in animals in seven days. By use of vaccine it was found possible to make the animals immune to the organism.

Dr. Crowe said it would have to be admitted that the vaccine treatment was regarded with skepticism or downright hostility by the majority of the medical profession, but that its efficacy had been abundantly demonstrated.

COUNCIL BALKS AT $25,000 FOR LAND SURVEY

40 Men Face Job Loss, but Planning Commission May Appeal Topographic Cut

City Council today knocked $25,000 from the 1932 city budget, temporarily, at least, by shelving the appropriation allotted to the City Planning Commission for a topographical survey of the city.

Commenting on the action, Councilman W. Y. English, chairman of the budget committee, said:

"It would be criminal on our part to do anything but absolutely necessary work in 1932."

Council's action was taken with the understanding that the planning commission can make a hearing, if it desires it, before the cut is made final.

CITES SAVINGS

U. N. Arthurs, chief engineer of the Planning Commission, told Council the work has been going on since 1924, and the survey could be finished in two years if $25,000 appropriations were set up in each budget. He said the survey was of great importance to the city's engineers and would reduce preliminary survey costs at least 40 per cent.

Thomas Reed, chief engineer in the Department of Engineering, questioned the latter statement, intimating he did not believe the survey was of major importance to his engineers.

Councilman English made a motion yesterday to strike the $25,000 from the budget but action was delayed until today to give Arthurs a chance to appear in support of the appropriation.

MAY DISCARD HORSES

Council also was to hear a report from the supervisor of the city's stables and representatives of the Bureau of Highways and Sewers whether 240 horses and wagons could be disposed of and trucks substituted. An appropriation of $72,032 has been asked for the maintenance of horses for 1932. Councilman John M. Phillips moved that the horses, except those used by the police, be abolished and trucks substituted.

English said a total appropriation of $15,000 would be necessary for trucks, with $25,000 added for their maintenance and for the few teams necessary to dirt street repair work. He declared a saving of $21,000 could thus be made. Chief Clerk Harry J. Neely, of the Bureau of Highways and Sewers, told Council he was in favor of abolition of horse-drawn vehicles.

URGE EXTRA HELP CUT

After study of the requests for temporary employes in the Controller's office and the office of City Treasurer, Council ordered a conference in an effort to reduce this figure by having clerks double activities. Controller James P. Kerr's request for extra help for next year is increased by several thousand dollars. Similar increases were noted in the Treasurer's and assessors' estimates. The extra help is used, Council was told, in billing taxes.

Supplies requests in Kerr's office for next year were pared from $30,000 to $25,000, while the item for attorneys' fees on bond issues was cut from $3,000 to $1,000.

City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt was ordered to report on a number of his requests at his "earliest convenience." Miscellaneous expenses in the public utilities litigation department were cut from $4,000 to $1,500. In the same category the department of city planning had its requests cut from $810 to $500, while typewriter costs for 1932 in the same department were slashed from $340 to $150.

Chairman English asserted it would be several days before an accurate estimate of the 1932 tax rate could be given.

W. H. Monaghan, superintendent of the Municipal Garage and Repair Shop, was given several more days by Council to present figures on the number of cars serviced at the garage and the quantities of supplies used there. He delayed his request.

Emsworth Woman Injured in Fall

While washing windows in her home late yesterday, Mrs. Otto Bower, of 235 Center avenue, Emsworth, fell to the ground and was seriously injured. She was taken to Allegheny General Hospital where her condition today was reported as good.

FLAMES SWEEP WATERFRONT

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Dec. 4 (AP.)—A riverfront fire made spectacular by a series of chemical explosions that shook the city last night left several persons injured and damage estimated at $600,000.

Believed to have originated in a corner of a warehouse stored with nitrate of soda and other chemicals, the flames flared into gigantic proportions with intermittent blasts shaking buildings and breaking nearby windows.

Six firemen and several spectators were given emergency treatment at hospitals but none was seriously injured.

The British steamship Malteam, of the Mallory Line, was moored in the slip near the blaze, but a tug brought assistance and the vessel escaped into the safety of the St. Johns River.

Woman on Trolley Injured in Crash

Mrs. Mary Corry, 50, of 1216 Bircher boulevard, was treated at the Homestead Hospital for injuries to the back after a Pittsburgh-Homestead street car on which she was a passenger was struck by another street car at Eighth avenue and Amity street, Homestead, last night, according to a hospital report.

More Aliens Leave Than Come Into U. S.

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—(INS.)—For the first time on record more aliens left the United States than came into it in a period of nine months, the National Industrial Conference Board reported today.

In the first three-quarters of this year, departing aliens exceeded immigrants by 22,769, it was shown.

Insurance Company Increases Business

George I. Hunt, vice-president of the New England Mutual Life Insurance Company, was the guest of John T. Shirley, general agent for the company here, at a luncheon in the University Club yesterday, marking the completion of the agency's 1931 quota of new business.

Mr. Shirley

The Pittsburgh agency was the first in the company to reach its goal on November 28. Business written during the first 11 months of this year is double that for the same period of 1930, Shirley said.

Two Men Injured In Motor Accidents

William McClelland, 75, of 210 Colfart square, was injured yesterday when he was struck by an automobile near his home. At Mercy Hospital he was reported suffering from shock and cuts on the head. The alleged driver of the car, J. M. McInerney, 52, of 4215 Lydia street, was arrested on a reckless driving charge.

Albert Brown, of 2952 Zephyr avenue, escaped injuries yesterday when his truck rolled down a 40-foot embankment from Gershon street, North Side, landing between two trees after turning over several times. The truck was loaded with slag.

Red Rioters Steal Coats, Face Hanging

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Dec. 4.—(Universal)—Two men who smashed a furrier's window and donned warm and expensive coats during the excitement of a Communist demonstration here were jailed and face hanging for their violation of the drastic Hungarian robbery law. A third robber escaped after biting off a policeman's finger.

Political Captives Released in Cuba

HAVANA, Cuba, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Dispatches from Santa Clara said 70 persons arrested for taking part in the August insurrection had been liberated under bond of $1,000 each.

Justice Quits Over Bad Check Charge

Justice of the Peace W. P. Caldwell, of Elizabeth borough, tendered his resignation to Judge James H. Gray, in Quarter Sessions Court, before he entered a plea of no defense to three indictments of passing worthless checks and one indictment for fraudulent conversion.

The Judge set January 4 for sentence, giving Caldwell 30 days in which to attempt to make restitution. The checks, for $94, $150 and $175, were given in November, 1930, and May, 1931. The fraudulent conversion charge involved $244 funds of the Commonwealth Casualty Company.

La Argentina, Dancer Honored by Spain

MADRID, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—La Argentina, the dancer, who has appeared in the United States, yesterday was awarded the rosette of Isabella the Catholic, the first order bestowed by the Spanish Republic. The award was made in recognition of her service in the interest of Spanish art in the Americas.

CANAL BACKERS PLAN PROTEST

In support of the proposed Lake Erie and Ohio River canal, a large delegation of Pittsburghers will go to Washington for the meeting of the Rivers and Harbors Congress, which meets Monday and Tuesday. The Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce will send a delegation, with Thomas A. Dunn, president, as spokesman. This group will object and file formal statement against the proposal to have Congress float $500,000,000 in government bonds to inaugurate emergency waterway improvements about the country.

The local waterway proponents will contend that such an expenditure would prohibit the construction of needed and really important inland waterway projects for many years, and would not be a constructive measure, and will urge the Congress to recommend to the Senate and House that the forthcoming appropriations be limited to projects deemed worthy.

JEWRY OPENS LIGHT FETE

At sundown tonight Pittsburgh Jewry joins other members of their faith in the annual observance of Chanukah, the festival of lights. A series of events culminating in the annual observance by the Maccabean Zion Camp on Tuesday evening at the Y. M. and W. H. A., Bellefield avenue, will feature the holidays. The celebration continues eight days.

Rabbi Aaron M. Ashinsky and Dr. H. M. Snitzer are to be the speakers at the Maccabean celebration, the former discussing the significance of the lighting of the traditional eight candles. Dr. Snitzer will speak on the spirit of the Maccabeans before the restoration of Palestine.

Professor Denies Spanking Boy, 4

CHICAGO, Dec. 4 (INS)—"I did not spank the boy. I merely sent him home," said Prof. Frederick Chetlain today in defending himself against the charges of Mrs. Doris Jackson that he had administered corporal punishment on her 4-year-old son Billy. Prof. Chetlain, a member of Northwestern University's law faculty, said he was forced to send Billy home because he and his playmate had broken a window and accomplished other damage. The matter will be aired in court today.

Two of Coll Gang Sentenced to Chair

NEW YORK, Dec. 4—(INS)—Two of Vincent Coll's mob of gunmen, one of them under indictment here with Coll for the Harlem baby shootings of last July, were sentenced yesterday to die in the electric chair.

The pair, Frank Giordano and Dominick Odinero, were convicted of murdering Joseph Mullen, beer checker for the rival Dutch Schultz gang. The execution was set for the week of January 4.

'3-GUN' ARGUES CONTEMPT CASE

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 4.—(AP)—The question whether a federal prohibition agent has the right to keep secret from a court the identity of "stool pigeons" was placed before the United States Circuit Court of Appeals today.

The question developed in a hearing at which an effort was made to free Harold D. (Three Gun) Wilson, deputy prohibition administrator for the state of Delaware, on a charge of contempt of court for refusing to disclose to the United States District Court at Wilmington the name of the informer.

The informant, he said, gave him a key to the headquarters of the Democratic League of Delaware in Wilmington, which he raided last October. Wilson was ordered held in custody of the United States marshal until he disclosed the information, but later was released on bail pending the appeal to the Circuit Court.

Wilson's right to keep his secret was defended in the court here by Leonard Wales, United States Attorney for Delaware, who appeared as Wilson's counsel.

35-HOUR WEEK, GREEN'S CURE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4—(AP)—Banishment of the unemployment bogey by means of a five-day, 35-hour working week was proposed yesterday by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor.

In his plea for distribution of work before the Senate Manufacturers' Subcommittee, he said:

"There will be a permanent unemployment problem if industries insist upon working employes 50 hours a week.

"If every employable person who wanted a job had one, the total of work for each would be 35 hours weekly. There's work enough for all on the basis of five days a week, seven hours a day.

EX-CHIEF FLEES SALVADOR

SAN SALVADOR, Dec. 4—(INS)—Arturo Araujo, deposed as president of the Salvadorean republic in the first successful revolution in half a century, was reported in flight to the United States with a small band of his followers today, with federal troops in pursuit.

The military directorate headed by Col. Aguirre, of the War Department, is not eager to capture Araujo, it is stated in some quarters, but is determined to compel him to leave the country forever.

The capital city was quiet today. Word from provincial towns say their garrisons have decided to support the new regime, which is expected to proclaim Gen. Martinez, vice president, head of a provisional regime pending the outcome of new elections.

Woman School Head Divorces Sculptor

Farmer Kills Self By Plunge Into Well

ROCHESTER, Pa., Dec. 4—William George Fentzel, 65, a New Sewickley Township farmer, ended his life by plunging headlong into an old abandoned well, near his home. The body was removed from the well last night by state police.

Hit by Chum's Car, Erie Youth Dies

ERIE, Pa., Dec. 4—(INS)—Hurled from his bicycle when struck by the automobile of Neil McCarthy, former school chum, Kenneth Johnston, 17, died in Hamot Hospital today after gasping to his parents:

"It wasn't Neil's fault."

Ingrowing Toenail —Swift, Sure Help

(ADVERTISEMENT)

Soak a tiny bit of cotton in Moone's Emerald Oil and gently pack it under the corner of the nail. Change the cotton twice a day, each time making the cotton plug just a little larger, until the edge of the nail is free.

Your toe will no longer pain you.

The oil—marvelously soothing, penetrating, healing, instantly kills any infection, and soon softens the nail and surrounding cuticle so that you can easily lift it up.

Your druggist says if Emerald Oil doesn't correct your ingrowing nail, you can have your money back.

PILES

This magnificent work will produce 1,000,000 horsepower, change millions of desert acres to the most fertile fields on earth, bless the states within reach of its water and power, including those that opposed the work.

IT WILL SUPPLY water for the additional millions of population that will live in Southern California and Arizona, and power to the states entitled to it. The undertaking is financially the greatest single construction enterprise ever undertaken. With the aqueduct and plant equipment, the cost will exceed four hundred millions. It is impossible to exaggerate its value to the neighboring states and the entire nation.

Across the rim of the dam will run a highway 45 feet wide, connecting Nevada and Arizona, and the Arizona-Nevada boulevard will run over that $400,000,000 bridge across mountain ridges never before crossed by human beings other than Indians hunting for mountain sheep, protected now by their new owner, Uncle Sam.

This work is a glorious tribute to American enterprise, and you should see it. You may come by motor, on good roads, or the Union Pacific Railroad will land you at Boulder City from anywhere.

UNFORTUNATELY it is necessary to warn men against coming here in search of work. There are three men now waiting for every job, and the maximum to be hired, in addition to those now working, will be 500 as the work progresses.

The minimum pay is $4 for eight hours. The average is $5.60.

Excellent board, four meals a day, and lodging for single men cost $1.60 a day, which enables the worker at minimum wages to save $2.40.

Mr. Frank T. Crowe, general superintendent for the consulting Six Companies, says many of the men sale and send the money to relatives all over the country.

ABOUT HALF the men are married, 400 have their families here. They can rent a two-room house, with bath, for $19 a month, a four-room house for $36. The houses will be worthless, and this city will be dead, except for a few passing tourists, when the job is done six years hence. High rents are necessary to amortize the cost in six years.

The turnover in labor is remarkably small, averaging nine men a day. It is hard work, and some of it dangerous because of summer temperature that runs to 120 at the bottom of the canyon, and the inevitable accidents in blasting on the side of a steep precipice.

The food is excellent and too abundant in the opinion of this writer, who ate at noon with 1,500 of the workers. The pies, cakes, all kinds of meat, boiled beef and chicken, giblets, lemon pie, sausage, spaghetti, mashed potatoes, lima beans, coffee, sweet milk and buttermilk, very good milk and butter from a dairy in the Moapa Valley, 80 miles away.

Every workman takes as much as he chooses of anything. It is said to near that numbers of the men, when they first came long out of work and ill-fed, ate to excess, and were made ill in spite of warnings.

UNCLE SAM supplies all raw materials for work on the dam, concrete, steel, machinery. The contractors supply labor, working tools and installation. Their labor contract, let on a bid $5,000,000 below the next lowest, calls for $49,000,000.

This is too long and leaves no room for description of the men working in hard helmets that save many lives of giant trucks that haul broken stone up a mile or so of steepest road. Nothing can be dumped in the canyon, all must be hauled to the top of the canyon.

Giant power shovels that gather up 4,000 pounds of rock at a mouthful are led from the tunnels like grim dinosaurs every time a series of 20 blasts with 2,000 pounds of dynamite is exploded.

And finally, beautiful proof of man's genius, all the power to do this work comes along a small cable made of aluminum with a steel core, saving 20 per cent of construction costs, not that aluminum is cheaper, but it is lighter and calls for less costly towers to carry the cable which travels by your side all along the desert. Bad news for copper men.

The power now used on the dam comes from water that flows south of Lake Tahoe 400 miles away to the north. When the dam is finished and its giant turbines working, power on the same cable will travel the other way, taking the energy of the Colorado to light cities and supply factories far away. It hasn't yet been shown what we shall be ...

Bolivia Preparing To Defend Border

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 4 — (INS) — Fighting in the Chaco region between small parties of Bolivian and Paraguayan troops was followed today by orders to Bolivian border forces to prepare to resist an anticipated Paraguayan attack, according to La Paz dispatches received here today.

Bolivian military reports said a patrol of Paraguayan soldiers which crossed into territory claimed by Bolivia, had been driven back.

Percentage of Auto Owners Revealed

Official state automobile registration figures show that 67 per cent of the 312,872 families of Allegheny County own automobiles, according to a report of the Pittsburgh Motor Club. Officials of the club predict there will be increases in the number of automobiles in 1932.

BAKER JINGLE BRINGS MANY LAST LINES

Swissvale Woman Gets Prize for Most Original Answer; 5 Other Awards

That "jolly old fellow named Baker," if he has been listening, must have heard a tingling sound in his ears. Thousands of readers of the Sun-Telegraph have been writing about his kindly interest in the youngsters who played on his acre.

The majority of these readers averred that Baker is "no fakir" and others thought that he emulated "his Maker." However, it was Elizabeth Wilson, 2219 Woodstock avenue, Swissvale, who seemed to have coined the most original last line and the judges gave her the first prize—$5—for her Christmas shopping.

WINNING LINE

A jolly old fellow named Baker
Owned valuable ground by the acre;
Yet when kids came to play
On his land he was gay
As they piled up like salt from the shaker.

The five $1 prize winners are as follows: William D. Roush, 117 Parkhurst street, North Side, Pittsburgh; Mrs. M. F. Thomas, 1663 Lincoln avenue, Pittsburgh; Vitoline McCabe, 318 Gross street, Pittsburgh; Mrs. D. B. Barnhart, 236 Main street, Mt. Pleasant, Pa.; H. F. Confer, 1157 McKinley avenue, Johnstown, Pa.

Try your hand on No. 23, appearing on this page today. If you submit what the judges think is the best of all "last lines" sent in you get a check for $5. The five next best "last lines" will each be awarded $1.

READERS MAY COMPETE

All readers of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, with the exception of employes, are invited to enter the "Christmas Jingle" contest. You can send in as many last lines as you like. Equal awards will be paid to readers whose answers are tied in the judging. You do not have to buy a Sun-Telegraph to enter this contest. You may examine the files of this newspaper at the public library or at any one of the offices of the Sun-Telegraph, where you may make a tracing of the "Christmas Jingles" blank if you wish.

Each Sun-Telegraph "Christmas Jingle" will be consecutively numbered.

Engineers to Hear Westinghouse Man

Dr. Phillips Thomas, research engineer of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, will speak Tuesday night at the joint meeting of the Pittsburgh section, American Institute of Electrical Engineers and the electrical section of the Engineers' Society of Western Pennsylvania. The meeting is to be held in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium. Dr. Thomas will discuss "Recent Developments in Electrical Research."

Socialist Meeting Set for Tonight

Dr. Ralph Turner, of the University of Pittsburgh, author of "America In Civilization," will speak at a meeting of the Squirrel Hill branch of the Socialist Party tonight in Block building, 1909 Murray avenue. Dr. Turner will discuss international capitalism.

All In A Day

By Mark Hellinger

LAST YEAR, when I was playing in vaudeville, I ran into an episode that has been one of my favorite stories ever since. I had been booked into the State Theater, in Newark, and on the bill with me were several other acts that included the Klein Brothers, Bernard and Towne, and Serge Flash, the juggler.

Between shows one afternoon, I sat in my dressing room and attempted to hang out a column. Most of the performers were playing poker in the rest room, and I figured that I would have a quiet two hours to myself. Within a short time, I learned that I was very much mistaken. There had been an argument over a card, the game had broken up and—one by one—the boys had drifted in to tell me about it.

Their complaints varied on different points, but on one score they agreed implicitly. Each one told me that it served him right for playing poker with another actor.

"You were right not to play, Mark," they all told me in turn. "All actors are dummies, and no matter what you do you can't win. I'll never play with another actor as long as I live."

As any fairly good columnist should do—although there is some doubt as to whether I fit into that category—I yessed each of the boys as he unfolded his sad story.

"You're perfectly right," I assured each actor; "you'll never get anywhere with any actor. From now on just forget about poker completely. It doesn't pay to play cards with a ham."

Each one nodded, thanked me and left my dressing room. I returned to my column and in slightly more than an hour completed it. On my way from the theater to phone the column I heard noises from the rest room. I glanced in. And there were the same actors all playing poker together! . . .

I thought that was the classic among actor stories until this one came to pass a few weeks ago. For the last five years A and B had been the closest of friends. Both of them are expert performers, and they have much in common. Their respective wives are also devoted friends, and it is extremely rare that you see one couple in public without the other.

Such an alliance is a great novelty for two big figures in the theater, and the friendship of A and B has been discussed many times by those who like them both. I remember a conversation in Reuben's one early morning that hit the nail on the head.

"If all the folks in the show business," said a song writer, "got along as well as A and B there'd be far more harmony in the theater. It does my heart good to look at those two guys. It makes you feel that there is something decent about Broadway after all."

Two years ago, when A fell ill and had to be removed to a hospital for an operation, B closed on the road much earlier than he had intended and rushed down to New York to be at A's bedside. It cost him several thousands of dollars to make that gesture, but he explained it to another friend some weeks later.

"A is the best friend I have in the world," he offered, "and if he had to go, I think I'd want to go with him. When I was on the road and heard he was desperately ill, I just couldn't go on. The tradition of the stage and the thought that the play must go on didn't mean a thing to me. I wanted to be with my pal. And I came right on.

"He would have done the same thing for me and he would have done it without the slightest hesitation. I cherish my friendship with A. Aside from the devotion of my wife, it's the most beautiful thing in my life.

You can imagine the joy of A and B when they were engaged to co-star in a new play. For the first time in their lives they were to be able to work hand in hand. They could share whatever triumphs the vehicle had in store.

In due time the play opened for a tryout on the road. After three days in one town, it closed suddenly. "A notice went out from the producer's office that the piece would have to be recast. I didn't understand the real difficulty until I met A on Broadway some nights later.

"If I told you what really happened, Mark," he said, "you wouldn't believe it. That B turned out to be the greatest ham I ever played with. It was so sad it was laughable."

The following day I met B. He, too, had his little say.

"I have to laugh when I think that I called A my friend," he muttered. "In my entire career in show business, never did I encounter such a ham. I'll never talk to him again as long as I live."

You know what happened to these best of friends, don't you? Well, show business supplies the answer. They had waged a terrific battle over the question of which one was to occupy the star dressing room! . . .

* * *

DURING a trip to a prison the other day—an event of which I will write more extensively very soon—several performers were talking of jail gags. Jack Osterman told the best of the lot, and said that it happened in a western penitentiary about three years ago. Accompanied by several other performers, Osterman had arrived at the jail to give a show for the prisoners. Some of the toughest birds in captivity were to be in the audience, and Jack stood with the warden as the men filed in.

"See that fellow?" said the warden to the comedian. "He's doing 90 years."

"My goodness!" exclaimed Osterman, "what for?"

"Killed his father and mother," explained the warden. "Because of a technical point, we couldn't hang him."

The warden pointed to another prisoner.

"That fellow is doing 70 years," he asserted. "He's a very dangerous firebug. Started a blaze in which four people were burned to death."

"There's a man that's doing 50 years," he went on easily. "He's a 'Jack-the-Ripper' type."

"How about that guy?" he asked. "What's his sentence?"

"Oh," responded the warden, "he's doing 10 years."

The comedian clapped his hands gleefully.

"What was his crime?" he inquired. "Crocheting?" . . .

ON THE same trip Osterman turned to Joe Frisco and grew a trifle sarcastic.

"Conditions are tough, eh, Frisco?" he asked. "Looks as though you're going to wind up headlining in hotel lobbies."

"That's okay with me," muttered the other comic. "B-b-b-but if I do, you'll b-b-b-be on the same bill!"

RELIEF DRIVE IN 14TH WARD

A drive is being made by the Squirrel Hill Board of Trade to obtain aid for 600 needy families in the Fourteenth Ward. Thomas O. Hasley, president, called a special meeting at which a committee, headed by George W. Lupton, was appointed to take charge of the campaign.

Although residents of Squirrel Hill have made liberal donations to the Allegheny County Emergency Relief Association, the Board of Trade urges them to give what they can to aid the needy families of their community.

Business Men Hear Finance Instructor

Montfort Jones, of the University of Pittsburgh, discussed the banking situation in the country, with special reference to Pennsylvania, at the weekly meeting of the Pitt Business Men's luncheon in the Chamber of Commerce yesterday. Jones is professor of finance at the University. He was introduced by F. D. Hayes, who presided.

LINER'S MOTORS BUILT HERE

Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company equipment, representing an investment of more than $200,000, is the Pittsburgh district's contribution to the Manhattan, largest vessel ever built in the United States, to be launched at Camden, N. J., tomorrow morning. The launching will be broadcast by KDKA at 10 a. m.

The Westinghouse company not only furnished four 500 kilowatt turbine generator sets which will supply power to all parts of the vessel, but also nearly all of the motor equipment for both deck and under deck auxiliaries. This equipment includes 166 motors, which develop a total of 3,330 horsepower available to perform heavy and light duties aboard ship. These motors range from 1-10 horsepower to 115 horsepower.

The Manhattan is of 30,000 gross registered tons, 705 feet long, and will carry 1,300 passengers at a cruising speed of more than 20 knots.

Candidates' Expenses Make Good Reading

By MARK SHIELDS

Examination of the expense accounts of committees and candidates in the recent general election reverberates some entertaining echoes of that muddled battle for County Commissioner. Probably the most significant fact is the omission of the name of Thomas A. Dougherty as a contributor to the Democratic campaign committee.

Mr. Dougherty, if you did not know—actually a clerk handling the expense accounts didn't when questioned yesterday—was the second candidate of the unterrified Democrats for County Commissioner. Mr. Dougherty appeared to realize that the Democratic party was interested in only one candidate, Dave Lawrence, who is listed as contributing $10,500 to the futile fight.

It is further evidence of the bipartisan character of the recent campaign, and most campaigns for local office where a Democrat is running, and is the reason the Democratic party here is held so lightly.

* * *

The Independent Republican committee had a record worth attention. Not only did it put over its two Commissioner candidates, C. C. McGovern and C. M. Barr, but, oddly in these days of depression, it showed a profit on its few weeks' work. Receipts were $19,620.93, and expenditures were $19,389.68.

The Regular Republican organization balanced accounts like the best banks. Receipts were $28,460 and expenditures were an exactly similar amount. No deficit notes in banks, apparently, another usual thing with the organization.

Evidently Senator William D. Mansfield, successful regular candidate for Commissioner, saw that things came out right, in which he was assisted by E. R. Crawford, of McKeesport, his political godfather. Mansfield guaranteed $10,300 and Crawford $4,600. W. L. Mellon and R. B. Mellon each gave $2,500, and every candidate except aspirants for City Council, Judge D. Paulson Foster and Judge James B. Drew are listed as having given $300 each. These $300 contributors included McGovern, who was on the Republican as well as the Independent ticket.

William Penn Suite Still a Mystery

There is no evidence that any part of this money was used to finance the mysterious headquarters on the eleventh floor of the William Penn Hotel, from which the Republicans directed an intensive campaign for Lawrence as part of the bipartisan alliance they had formed for the Democrat and Mansfield. It would be entertaining to read a list of receipts and disbursements for the activities of that three-room suite, with its four telephones, all direct lines not running through the hotel switchboard.

* * *

Clerk of Courts S. J. Topley was the only candidate who successfully ran on the Independent slate in the primary to contribute to that group as well as the G. O. P. in the general election, so far as the official reports show. He gave $200. Apparently Robert Garland, Charlie Anderson and P. J. McArdle, nominated, as Republicans on the Independent slate, felt the fight was over, and apparently contributions either to Independents or regulars were unnecessary.

Garland is listed in a personal account as having spent $303.58, but most of this was for traveling expenses, and $100 is credited to "dissemination of information," an allocation which I had understood was outlawed by the Legislature in 1927, after the revelations of how loosely money was credited to that outlet in the Vare-Pepper-Pinchot-Fisher-Beidleman primary.

Barr gave $4,500 to the Independent campaign, and McGovern $4,000, but $2,275 of the latter came from other persons whom McGovern lists. The most liberal of them was Mrs. Mary Flinn Lawrence, with $1,500. Ralph Flinn, brother of Mrs. Lawrence, and son of the late Senator William Flinn, gave $3,000 to the Independent campaign.

Councilman-elect Soost gave $100 to the regular campaign. Joseph F. Guffey, former Democratic national committeeman, gave 13 times that to the Lawrence campaign.

* * *

Justice Drew's Vote Sets New Record

Official results of the election for Justice of the Supreme Court, just released in Harrisburg, showed Judge James B. Drew with a majority in the state of 1,589,612, an unprecedented total, distancing the previous mark, set by Herbert Hoover in 1928, of 987,796. The cost was small, it already having been noted that Judge Drew apparently contributed nothing to the Allegheny County Republican Committee. That was a novel experience for the justice, who has been called on early and often in the past, and usually with a generous response.

* * *

The action of Chairman E. V. Babcock, of the County Board, in firing 168 employes last Monday yesterday had repercussions at a meeting of the County Planning Commission—among other places. Fourteen employes of the planning commission were ordered discharged by Babcock, and they were.

John E. McKirdy, member of the planning commission, moved that they be reinstated, but it is understood none of the remaining five members seconded the motion. Later a member of the planning commission explained that these 14 employes had been loaned to the County Commissioners, and that technically Babcock had the right to fire them, after consultation to find if they were required by the planning body. It was said they were not, and that provision had not been made for them next year.

In the manner of Walter Winchell, what Allegheny County senator is responsible for the Senate Committee on Executive nominations holding up confirmation of what boxing commissioner recently appointed by Gov. Pinchot? And why?

COAL MEN HAIL MERGER PLAN

DONATION WILL DEPEND ON DRIVE GAIN

Volunteers Must Collect Equal Sum to Obtain Gift and Assure Success

A List of Welfare Fund Contributors Appears on Page 14.

Taking up the challenge of a group of individuals and corporations to match an offer of $750,000 with a similar amount to make up the $1,500,000 shortage in the joint campaign of the Welfare Fund and Emergency Association, volunteer workers went about with renewed vigor today to collect every possible subscription. This group of individuals and corporations, about 20 in number, already has contributed generously to the campaign.

The offer was made at a report meeting yesterday, at which time it was decided to continue the campaign for one more week, with a report luncheon next Thursday and a final meeting Monday, December 14. The offer was made upon condition that the community raise the rest of the balance needed.

Yesterday's report added $203,935.69 to the previous figure, bringing to date a total of $4,271,935.69. Exclusive of the $750,000 offered, there is an actual balance of $959,249 to be raised. It is estimated that there is about $200,000 outstanding in subscriptions already obtained so that the balance which must be raised by the community is the same as offered by this group, $750,000.

During the remaining days of the drive, workers will make intensive re-solicitation of all contributors of $25 and over. The clerical staff at campaign headquarters has been put to work making out new cards for all subscribers of $25 and over. These cards will be assigned to volunteers and worked regardless of previous contributions.

A check was received at headquarters yesterday for $8,104.30, representing 10 per cent of the gross sales of the Joseph Horne Company for Tuesday. This was added to the previous contribution of $37,280 made by the company, its officers and employes, bringing the total to $45,384.30.

MORROW CALLS REGIONAL MEETING

Head of Pittsburgh Firm To Speed Organization Of Joint Sales Agency

Coal operators of the Pittsburgh district today hailed the four-point stabilization plan, formulated yesterday in New York by the country's large producers, as the most definite, practical program yet developed for reviving of the industry.

Regional consolidation of sales agencies, merger of producing properties, reduction of freight rates and embargo against petroleum products are the four principles involved.

J. D. A. Morrow, president of the Pittsburgh Coal Company and chairman of the Western Pennsylvania committee of operators, named in New York, today said he would call a meeting of the committee as soon as possible.

SALES MERGER FIRST

Details as to merger of sales agencies likely would be the first subject considered, he said, and merger of mines, the last.

He continued:

"Discussions in New York were national in scope. No attempt was made to apply the program to specific districts. That will require much consideration by regional committees.

"With the operation of regional sales agencies representing the larger producers, there doubtless would be some smaller producers who would compete.

"The program has, I believe, the merit of practicality. We have been informed that no legislation would be necessary to put it into effect."

Operators Adopt 'Rescue' Plan

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—With a four-fold rescue plan formulated, leaders of the bituminous coal industry east of the Mississippi today proceeded with their program to save the industry.

Twenty-five regional committees, selected to begin immediate consolidations of sales organizations of the various coal producers, set about to call their sectional conferences.

The producers of the Eastern Kentucky, Southern Appalachian, Southern West Virginia and Southwestern Virginia fields meet in Cincinnati, O., next Thursday.

Producers from the West Virginia smokeless coal fields will meet in New York next week and meetings of the various other groups will follow, C. B. Huntress, executive secretary of the National Coal Association, said today.

Among regional committees named were:

Freeport Thick Vein District (Pennsylvania)—George R. Love, John Ford, C. F. Hosford, Jr.

Central Pennsylvania—B. M. Clark, L. G. Ball, B. D. Coleman, J. F. Macklin, W. A. Marshall, L. C. Madeira III, Charles O'Neill, C. A. Owen, J. W. Searles, H. C. Voorhees.

Northern West Virginia—Robert C. Hill, H. L. Findlay, John M. Jamison, C. H. Jenkins, Edward Page, E. P. Reppert.

Labor Prepares Bill For U. S. Coal Control

By ROBERT S. ALLEN

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—The government would assume a far-reaching control over the chaotic coal industry under a bill drafted by organized labor.

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, told the La Follette economic planning committee today that union miners, supported by many progressive coal operators and the A. F. of L., will demand the legislation.

The government will not go into the coal business under the proposed plan, Lewis asserted.

Summarized by Lewis the proposed legislation would:

Prohibit the shipment of coal that gluts the market and depresses prices.

Enforce uniform standards of safety and working conditions.

1932 CHEVROLET GOES ON VIEW

Chevrolet's new car for 1932 goes on display tomorrow in dealer showrooms throughout the nation. Including silent synchromesh transmission combined with selective free wheeling, a 20 per cent increase in power, a top speed of 65 to 70 miles an hour, and stream-lined bodies, the new car remains in the price range of the current series.

The new line is being produced in 21 domestic plants, and it is estimated the stimulated employment will add to the earning of 200,000 people.

The car includes more extensive changes than any annual model since the change to a six in 1928. These changes are mostly refinements of the basic design of the 1931 Chevrolet. A new construction feature is the stabilized front end which embodies great strength as well as graceful design.

CHARGE FRAUDS ELECTED SQUIRE

Charging Justice of the Peace Charles W. Linepensel, of Bethel Township, was illegally "counted in" for re-election, 35 friends of John P. Kelly, his opponent at the polls last November 3, have filed a contest of Linepensel's election in Quarter Sessions Court.

Judge James H. Gray fixed December 28 for a hearing on a rule on Linepensel to answer the allegations, and stipulated that bond of $2,000 to cover expenses of the contest shall be filed by the petitioners within 10 days.

The petition charges numerous frauds were committed in the first election district of the township. One is that the polls were kept open until 8 p. m., and that 50 votes were allowed to be cast after the closing hour of 7 o'clock. It is further alleged the board permitted Bessie Hustler to vote when she is not a resident of the district. It is also charged numerous persons were permitted assistance at the polls illegally.

The final charge is that the board held back the count in the Justice of the Peace contest until they knew the count from all the other districts, and then tallied for Linepensel votes which should have been counted for Kelly. Linepensel was certified as elected by a vote of 566 to 443 in the township. He was given 258 to 107 for Kelly in the first district.

Milk Donors Thanked Further Aid Asked

Expressing his gratitude for money already contributed, Dr. Theodore B. Appel, Secretary of Health at Harrisburg, said in a statement today that any persons desiring to carry on the work of the free milk stations for a day can do so by contributions. The milk stations are kept up for the under-nourished youngsters of the state. Checks sent for this purpose should be addressed to Dr. Appel and marked "special account."

WILL ROGERS SAYS

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Here is the best war story—and it happened on this boat. This fall a Chinese working on the boat, who evidently knew how big China's population was, asked about the war from the radio man: "How she go war?" The radio guy, kidding him, said: "Yesterday Chinese lost 500 men, Japanese three men." Next day, "Chinese back again: "Catchem more news?" "Sure, Chinese lost 600 men, Japanese two men." Third day: "What air say bout war today?" "Chinese lost 700, Japanese lost one man." Chinese was pleased and said: "Pretty soon be no Japanese left."

Will Rogers

Yours, WILL.

Dry Issue Grips G. O. P. Convention

MANCHESTER, N. H.—Dec. 4.—(INS.)—With one faction urging a bone dry plank and the second favoring a referendum vote, the prohibition question was the center of much discussion today as state Republican leaders, led by United States Senator George H. Moses, gathered for a state convention meeting.

A candidate to oppose former Congressman William N. Rogers, of Wakefield, the Democratic nominee for Congress in the First New Hampshire District, was to be named.

Mrs. Audrey Renner, 550 South Aiken avenue, yesterday filed a divorce suit against Paul Renner, of Lark Inn Field avenue, Sewickley, charging desertion. They were married March 9, 1926, and separated April 15, 1928.

Motorists Warned To Get New Plates

Warning was sounded to motorists today to file applications now for 1932 automobile licenses to avoid the last-minute delay. The warning came from James A. Hemstreet, manager of the travel bureau of the Automobile Club of Pittsburgh.

Motorists who fail to display new license plates on January 1, 1932, will not be permitted to operate their cars until they get them. New plates may be used beginning December 15, Hemstreet said.

3 Suspects Held In Store Holdups

Identified as the perpetrators of 10 chain store stickups, Lester Altmeyer, 27, of 1718 Monterey street, and Henry Altmeyer, 31, of 1205 Resaca place, brothers, together with Leo F. Weible, 26, of 913 Sandusky street, were held for a further hearing by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg in Central Police Court today.

Returned Here on Bad Check Charge

Paul R. Smith, 38, brought back to Pittsburgh from Los Angeles, Cal., on a bad check charge, today was committed to jail pending court trial. Detainers were lodged against him from New York and Chicago police departments. Smith is accused of passing two bogus checks here totaling $250.

EAST END MAN DIES HUNTING

With the death yesterday of Wilbur F. Struble, 54, of 829 East End avenue, who fell dead while on a hunting trip in Cameron County, fatalities in Pennsylvania's 1931 deer hunting season reached a total of 19.

Struble was a Turtle Creek automobile dealer.

After an all night search in the woods at Gypsy, Indiana County, the body of Andrew Kapchm, 16, was found early today. He had shot himself as he climbed a tree stump.

A new attack upon the open season on doe was launched in Luzerne County Court yesterday when members of the State Game Commission were cited for contempt for sanctioning the killing of doe in defiance of Judge B. R. Jones' injunction against continuing the open season.

Record kills have been reported.

If Floyd Misses War He Can See Peace Battle

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

Floyd Gibbons cables that the Chinese war will be over before he gets there.

Stay for the peace conference, Floyd. That will be much worse.

The only question in this war was if they could keep fighting long enough to blame it on the American taxpayer.

Don't think the Tokio peace overtures were cowardice. You've got to be brave to stop a war on Floyd Gibbons.

We'll have to wait for news until we hear Floyd on the air again.

He was always too quick for us. But the next time we hope he will be talking Chinese and a little slower.

BOY AND UNCLE KILL BIG BEAR

"He'll make a nice rug, don't you think?"

Alvin Rodgers, 16, and Alvin Rodgers, 26, are the two proudest men in Avalon. Especially Alvin, 16. This was his first hunting trip. And he saw the bear first.

His uncle, Alvin, 26, took a shot at 200 yards. The bear growled and started toward the two. Then the younger Alvin tried his luck. The bear turned and ran out of sight in the brush, trailing blood in the snow for 50 yards. The hunters circled around and found their prize dead.

The older Rodgers has been hunting in Forest County, near Nebraska, Pa., for five years, but this was the first bear he encountered. It was a black male, seven feet, three inches high, with a fore-leg span of 65 inches. It stood 42 inches from the ground, with a spread of 27 inches from shoulder blade to shoulder blade, 15 inches from ear to ear, and weighed 325 pounds.

It was shot four miles from camp and was brought in on skids, Indian fashion. The older Rodgers said:

"I tracked him six miles through the snow several days before we shot him. My nephew came up to camp Monday night, for his first hunting trip. He saw the bear first on a hill-top 200 yards away. He cried, 'Gee, look over there.' When I shot him, the bear growled and started tearing through the brush toward us. Alvin shot him and he turned and ran."

PLANNING BODY SHUNS ACTION ON TUNNEL

'Hands Off' Policy Voted Despite Move to Condemn Rail Tube Purchase Plan

The County Planning Commission, after an hour's discussion of the proposed purchase of the Wabash tunnel and bridge as a new traffic outlet to the South Hills yesterday refused by a vote of four to two, to take any action on the contract of the County Commissioners with the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railroad for acquisition of the property. The contract is now in the courts having been disapproved by the grand jury.

John F. McKirdy, member of the Planning Commission, moved that the contract be disapproved but was voted down after W. A. Todd joined with the majority though he had assisted in preparing McKirdy's motion and appeared to be against the purchase.

ENGINEER QUESTIONED

McKirdy read a list of questions he had propounded to commission engineers together with the answers prepared by the technical staff which upheld the advisability of the purchase.

McKirdy asked the witness appearing for the Engineering Department:

"Didn't you tell me several times this was a foolish scheme?"

"I may have done so."

"What caused your change of front?"

"Circumstances alter cases."

Thomas D. Hester, member of the Planning Commission, defended the tunnel purchase plan and F. G. Lillo and Clerk of Courts S. J. Topley, chairman of the commission, were opposed to any action. Topley said the matter was in court and the commission should keep hands off.

FOE OF PLAN FIGHTS

McKirdy pressed for action on a motion disapproving the purchase because it was condemned by a former Director of Public Works, Norman F. Brown, as a foolish scheme. To this language Todd added that "it would cause congestion in the already congested Triangle district."

A taxpayer's suit to prevent consummation of the contract between the county and the railroad alleged as one of its main objections that the County Commissioners had not complied with the law requiring that the planning commission be notified of such proposals 20 days before the County Board acts.

'CHATHAM' NAME OF BUHL PLOT

The name Chatham Village has been selected for the community project being built on Mt. Washington by the R. K. Foundation. The name was selected after several months during which a committee studied many names for the plan. It was chosen in recognition of William Pitt, the Earl of Chatham, who as prime minister of England was outstanding for his friendly attitude toward the early colonists.

Members of the committee selecting the name were Dr. Ben G. Graham, Superintendent of Public Schools; John Wood, business manager of the University of Pittsburgh; M. R. Robinson, editor of the Scholastic and St. Nicholas magazines; Frederick Bigger of the City Planning Commission; C. V. Starrett, editor of the Pittsburgh Record; Ralph Munn, director of Carnegie Library, and Ralph E. Griswold, architect.

Charles F. Lewis, director of the Foundation, said the community project is rapidly nearing completion. Every house of the first group of 125 under construction is under roof and the brickwork is virtually complete. Although about 50 homes will be ready for inspection early next month, none will be rented until May 1.

Evicted Coverdale Families Building Barracks Shelter

Twenty-five miners today began building barracks for their evicted families at Coverdale.

The barracks, big enough for 16 families, will replace the tented settlement the evicted families have established.

Students at the University of Pittsburgh announced today that they will conduct a drive for food and clothing for the destitute people. Collections will be made Monday, set aside as Fraternity Day. The drive was suggested by Andrew Marchbin, a Swiss student at the university.

Organizations taking part will be the Pitt Weekly, student publication; the Student Council, Pan-Hellenic Association, Inter-Fraternity Council, the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. The drive will be under the direction of Walter J. Rome, general chairman.

Fugassi Chauffeur Accused of Attack

Nick Hugh, chauffeur for John A. Fugassi, superintendent of maintenance in the County Road Department, was under $5,000 bond today for an alleged attack upon David Sanes, an upholsterer, after the latter had quarreled. It is said with Mrs. Fugassi over some repair work. Hugh will be given a hearing before Justice of the Peace George B. Shields. Sanes said Hugh attacked him as he was leaving the Fugassi home, 1638 Beechwood boulevard, and took away a table which he was carrying to his car.

WILLIAM P. BOHN . . . HE HAS WON TWO SCULPTURE PRIZES IN NATIONAL CONTESTS

Mr. Bohn, 28, 48 North Starr avnue, Bellevue, Brentwood School art supervisor, with "Running Elephant," with which he won third prize in the 1931 national soap sculpture contest.

DISPLAY BRONZE STATUES FROM SOAP MODELS

Two of the bronze reproductions of soap sculptures on exhibition at the Grogan Company, Sixth avenue and Wood street, are copies of originals executed in soap by a Pittsburgh man.

"Running Elephant" won third prize in the professional class of a soap contest this year and "Man's Best Friend," also on exhibition, won second prize in the same class two years ago.

Both were executed in soap by William P. Bohn, 28, of 48 North Starr avenue, Bellevue. A graduate of the Painting and Decoration Department of Carnegie Tech Art School in 1928, Bohn is now art supervisor of Brentwood School. He won his first prize in soap sculpture when he was a senior in college, receiving a third in the professional class for an "Elephant Rolling a Ball." Last year he received honorable mention for "The Pelican."

The exhibit is part of an art "road show" touring the United States in one and two week stands at principal cities.

CHILDREN FILL MOVIE LOBBIES WITH TOYS

Rich and Poor Join to Help Santa Spread Happiness For Little Unfortunates

Santa Claus discovered thousands of little helpers yesterday afternoon and because of these little helpers, thousands of other children will find gifts in their stockings Christmas morning. The lobbies of the 13 Warner neighborhood theaters in the city and the Prince, Ambridge, and the Memorial, Mckeesport, were piled high with toys donated by members of the Warner, Theaters-Sun-Telegraph Junior Komic Club. The shows were free and all the children needed for admittance was a toy of some description which they wished to give to the less fortunate.

There were dollies, soiled and faded from the fond embraces of their "little mothers;" scooters with the wheels worn rough from mad coasting down hills; airplanes of every size and type; toy automobiles that, when they were shiny and new, graced the playrooms of children of the rich; tricycles whose little owners are now riding reg'lar bikes; doll carriages, blackboards, toy furniture, games.

REPAIR WORK NEXT

Within the next few days Sun-Telegraph delivery trucks will collect all this Christmas joy and transport it to the Toy Mission on Market street. There, under the guidance of George L. Bond, the motivating spirit of the Toy Mission, broken dolls will be given new heads, little wagons will be supplied with wheels, games will have missing parts restored. On Christmas Eve they will be taken to orphan asylums, hospitals and into the homes of the poor so that, on Christmas morning, no child, so far as the Toy Mission can learn, will find an empty stocking.

RICH AND POOR GIVE

The children who so generously gave up their treasures, came from homes as vastly different as the toys they brought. At the Enright Theater, a few minutes after school let out, a big limousine drew up to the curb. A liveried chauffeur helped to carry the toys into the lobby. Big lovely toys—but Christmas is coming and the nursery must be cleared out! Two little boys and a little blonde girl, fashionably and comfortably dressed followed, received admission tickets and entered the theater.

Behind them came a group of five children—clutching at thin sweaters to keep warm.

Frank Roberts, the manager, said:

"Hello, Dolly, where's the rest of the family?"

Roberts said:

"There are 10 children in that family. One girl is working as a waitress and two o' the little fellows sell papers. The mother is sick and the druggist next door is supplying all the medicine. The toys they brought in are probably the last they have.

LOBBY FILLED

The Rowland Theater collected so many toys that the lobby overflowed and children had to take their gifts to the stage door.

The same spirit was shown at the Arsenal, the Belmar, the Cameraphone, the Harris (Downtown), the Harris (Etna), the Manor, the Kenyon, the South Hills Harris, the Mt. Oliver, the Plaza and the Schenley Theaters.

The Warner Theaters-Sun-Telegraph Junior Komic Club is to be congratulated.

They have lived up to their club pledge: "I will do all I can to spread good cheer."

RACKET DEATH CLUES FAIL

What happened to Philip Piazza, the 19-year-old bridegroom, who is feared the city's latest racket victim, is still a mystery.

For two days river police have dragged the Allegheny River under the Sixteenth Street Bridge from which the youth was believed tossed. His bride, 16, Lena, is anxiously awaiting news.

The mystery was believed solved yesterday when workmen on a coal barge in the Ohio River near Beaver avenue found a body, but it proved to be that of a 50-year-old workman.

Piazza's automobile was found parked on the bridge Tuesday night. The doors were open and the motor was running. In a pocket of the car police found memoranda relating to the sale or purchase of intoxicants.

Drys Stage 2 Raids In McKees Rocks

Raids in McKees Rocks, Tarentum and one in the city, were made yesterday by state constables and federal prohibition agents. Among the places reported visited were buildings at 331 and 329 Munson street, McKees Rocks; a building at 411 West Tenth street, Tarentum, and a saloon in the rear of 730 East Ohio street.

FRIEND'S BLOOD GIVEN YOUTH

McDonald's 14-year-old brother, Harry, stood by. He, too, had offered his blood, but after tests, physicians chose Hickey.

$20,000 Verdict Given Train Victim

William Cawley, of 700 Bingham street, painter, was awarded $20,000 damages by a jury in Common Pleas Court today against the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie Railroad. He was struck by a train on the South Side May 5, 1929, both legs being severed above the ankle and his skull fractured, according to the testimony. He alleged there was no crossing watchman nor warning.

WILLIAM J. ROUF

Mr. Rouf, First Central Trust Company vice president for a month, arrested in Cleveland by U. S. authorities and charged with embezzlement of $80,000.

BEGGAR FINED FOR THREATS

Because of threats he is alleged to have made against the managers of two downtown business places last night when they ordered him out for begging, Monroe Green, 29, Negro, today was fined $50 or 60 days in the Workhouse in Central Police Court.

David Coon, manager of a United Cigar Store in William Penn way, had Green arrested after he is alleged to have asked him:

"Do you want to get stabbed?"

The threat was made according to Coon, when he ordered Green out of the store because he was begging.

P. Saunders, manager of Thompson's restaurant, Fifth avenue and William Penn way, reported a similar story to the police.

Sneak Thief Takes Purse From Home

From the home of Mrs. C. H. Reynolds, 4115 Saline avenue, last night, a thief stole the pocketbook of Mrs. I. C. Brown, of 6601 Aylesboro avenue, a guest in the Reynolds home. The guests were in another part of the house when the thief entered by the front door, according to a report made to Squirrel Hill police.

BOOK WORMS :-: Hollywood Collectors Amass Volumes

Jean Hersholt and Al Green Have Valuable and Large Libraries

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 4.

If a disastrous fire wiped out the libraries of Al Green and Jean Hersholt, it would cost Lloyds in London $141,000.

Hollywood's two leading bibliophiles are amassing collections that would have a book lover's eyes open wide with envy. For some time Green has paid an expert to search out good buys for him. His collection fills a room in his home and overflows into a whole section of a warehouse. Though operating on a smaller scale, Hersholt bids on auctions all over the world.

Jean Hersholt

His library contains 225 books about books.

One of Green's prized possessions is Francis Scott Key's original copy of "The Star Spangled Banner," and a series of personal letters discussing the national anthem. He also owns a bill of sale for a slave which inspired Harriett Beecher Stowe's "Uncle Tom's Cabin." His collection of early California is extremely valuable.

Both Hersholt and Green say now is the time for the book-collector to buy. Prices are cheap.

Even so, if these two sold out today, they could realize an immense profit on their books.

SWEET FRIENDSHIP

Two Hollywood scenarists were having lunch in a boulevard cafe when a fellow writer entered.

"They say he's submitted a story idea to Thalberg," said one.

"Any good?" inquired the other.

"Beginner's luck," was the acid retort.

Violet Howard has a prominent role in "The Dreyfuss Case," British-made film, which bases its drama on real life incidents. The picture opens today in the Davis.

Plays, Players and By-Play

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Maiden's Blush, which is the name of an apple and not a term in these modern days for certain physical reaction that once was peculiarly characteristic of the feminine young, is something that could not be generated by observing Blossom Time, which will be in the Alvin all next week. It is so wholesome and fragrant that even grandma wouldn't blush at its romantic moments. Yet year after year it has provided real entertainment, delicate charm enshrining music and [illegible] moments. It will endure for at least six miles and two matinees more.

Small Timer says times are so tough with him that even neck steak seems tender.

Rachel Crothers, who wrote "As Husbands Go," is a maiden lady, and try to laff that off. Perhaps she knows so much about husbands in the abstract that she doesn't care for one in the concrete, to use a scientific term for the head of a family. Anyway if holidays. December 12 is the day you can't laff off the fact, you should be able to guffaw away. Pathe . . . Thomas Meighan is back the comedy Miss Crothers has in town . . . Charles Farrell and written. "Twill be on view Monday and thereafter for a week in the Nixon, with the usual matinays.

Small Timer says the street arabs of today will be the sheiks of tomorrow.

George Jessel has won his strike. He was going to quit at the New York Palace tomorrow night because he thought there was too much disparity between the wage paid himself and his co-star, Eddie Cantor. So they jacked his stipend $1,000 more per. It will now be $4,250 against Eddie's $3,800 weekly . . . D. W. Griffith, the old master of the fillims, has been engaged to supervise the four-day pageant to be staged in Washington next June as a feature of the George Washington bicentennial, which will extend from Feb. 22 until Nov. 24 . . . There will be a renaissance of musical films because "The Smiling Lieutenant" showed producers that songs could be logically introduced.

Fine Picture On Stanley Screen

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

It just needs a picture like "Over the Hill" fine attraction in the Stanley, to show such young upstarts as James Dunn and Sally Eilers what an old-timer like Mae Marsh can do in the way of putting herself "in" with the public after 10 or more years of absence from the screen.

Not that James and Sally don't live up to all expectations—they're swell. Especially James, who sticks to his mammy—Mae Marsh—in a way to warm the heart and buck up one's faith in real humanity. But Miss Marsh is just such a mother in "Over the Hill" as we all idealize, and mother always comes first—even over such a good boy as Jimmy, which, of course, is not his name in the picture.

FROM OLD HEART-THROB

"Over the Hill" is a sort of a story the sophisticated call sentimental, but what of it! With narrative suggested by the old heart-throb poem, "Over the Hill to the Poorhouse," by Will Carleton, the action, so modernized as to include rum-running, covers the career of an averaging struggling family, from childhood of the brood to adult days and marriage, courageously solving the problem of making both ends meet.

And it is mother who makes them meet, for father is waiting—always waiting—for "a government job." And it is mother who goes "Over the Hill"—through no fault of her own—and Jimmy, brave Jimmy, who goes and gets her.

PATHOS TOUCHES HEART

It is a picture of human angles, warm and convincing, cheery and satisfying through most of the action, but with pathos that touches the heart and a bond between a good boy and his parents that makes one glad to remember that thousands like them live everywhere in our land.

Mae Marsh is wonderful in her first talkie part, and that is highly pleasing to those who remember her in her girlhood as a D. W. Griffith star. James Dunn, as her devoted son, adds to the impression he made in "Bad Girl." Sally Eilers, who was the title character in that picture, scores again as Dunn's faithful sweetheart, James Kirkwood, as the father, makes one like a natural born loafer.

Cleveland Orchestra In Two Concerts

The Cleveland Orchestra will give an afternoon and evening concert in Pittsburgh today. The afternoon concert will be given in Carnegie Music Hall from 4 to 5 o'clock, and the program will be devoted to an hour with modern French composers, conducted by Rudolph Ringwall. This evening's program in Syria Mosque, under Nikolai Sokoloff, follows:

Prelude, E major, for orchestra ..... Bach-Siloti
Cantata No. 29 .....
Symphony No. 4, E minor, op 98 ..... Brahms
Menuet Antique ..... Ravel
Forest Murmurs, Siegfried ..... Wagner
Rhapsody "Espana" ..... Chabrier

Fulton Film Features Tibbett

By CLARENCE E. CRUNDISH

"The Cuban Love Song" is the new screen feature in the Fulton. It stars Lawrence Tibbett. It is an entertaining affair.

Tibbett is in the Marine Corps. And to see him in the first four reels, you'd think the Marines had nothing to do except drink, sing, make love and eat peanuts.

He lands in Cuba and goes motoring in a flivver with two companions, Ernest Torrence and Jimmy Durante. They bump into a peanut cart, carrying a fair senorita—none other than Lupe Velez. And right away Mr. Tibbett forgets all about the girl back home in San Francisco.

A LETTER A YEAR

Incidentally, that girl is a puzzle. She's been engaged to marry Tibbett for three years and he only writes her one letter every 12 months. But she's one of those suffer-in-silence, true-to-the-end individuals.

The World War comes, and though it only lasts for about a minute and one-half on the screen, it is long enough for Tibbett to be wounded and invalided home.

TEN YEARS LATER

True-to-the-end girl marries him, but it isn't finale time. Ten years are skipped with the snap of a finger and Tibbett and his wife are in a New York night club. He hears a song from his romantic days in Cuba and he ups and goes to Havana in search of Lupe. He finds her—in a cemetery. But a young son is very much alive and Tibbett brings the boy back to the United States.

Durante puts the comedy into the film. And it's a big laugh when he finds himself en route to Cuba. He had thought he was on the Hoboken ferry.

Hollywood Directors In New York

Request Tibbett to Sing Songs From Films

Many requests have been received from Lawrence Tibbett's admirers to have him include favorite songs from his talking pictures when he comes in person for the third May Beegle concert in Syria Mosque Monday. It is probable he will do so.

Women Wets Speak in Newsie

THE GLOBE TROTTER

Startling claims of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform are made by Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, of New York, national chairman, at a meeting of the national executive committee in Detroit, and pictured in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News, showing in the Penn, Fulton and other theaters. Among other things Mrs. Sabin declares that although the W. C. T. U. has been in existence for 60 years, our membership exceeds theirs. We now have a total of 411,410 women enrolled on our lists.

Mrs. John S. Shepard, New York State chairman, says "with common sense and facts on our side the organization feels sure it will win an appeal of the Eighteenth Amendment."

RACE AIDS RELIEF FUND

The racing season at Bowie, Md., is closed with an exciting contest for the benefit of the unemployed in that state. A great crowd attends the charity race to see Pilate win in a close finish in a sea of mud. The race adds $20,000 to the fund. The Globe Trotter gives a thrilling description of the contest.

The bells of St. Peter's in Rome for the first time in history are rung by an electrical robot that swings them back and forth with unfailing regularity, and the harmonious peals are faithfully reproduced in Hearst Metrotone News.

Lion cubs can be kept amused with toy balloons. A trainer in a French circus shows how in an amusing picture. Very often the clumsy little animals pounce upon the balloons, which burst with loud reports, causing temporary panic among them. The play ends in a free-for-all fight when the cubs all try to secure a piece of meat attached to one of the balloons.

HOOVERS SERENADED

President and Mrs. Hoover were serenaded on the White House steps by the choir of the Capital University, Columbus, O.

Gary Cooper Traveling In Italy, Egypt

Gary Cooper, film star now on vacation, is en route to Nairobe, Egypt, 3,000 miles up the Nile, according to a letter received in Hollywood by his parents, Judge and Mrs. Charles H. Cooper. The communication, written from the S. S. Augustus, states that Cooper plans a stop in Naples before going to Cairo for a few days.

"Whatever became of that time-worn gag about the guy who said: 'Hey! Can't you see that sign?—No Smoking!' and the answer is: 'Sure! But it don't say positively!'"

"It was in F. P. A.'s col'm in the Trib on November 27th!"

"Whatever became of the old gag that all the radio columnists used and so did Marie Dressler in a movie? You know—the one about the guy who just tuned off a radio talker and yelled: 'If they keep that guy on the air any longer I'll have to stop breathing it!'"

"Winchell credited it to Wilson Mizner a column or so ago!"

Newspaperman Stuff

A group of Park Rowgues were chinning about the so-called good old days of journalism, when wages for the best reporters were $50 a week, if!

Horace Greeley, whose penmanship was very phooey, once fired a proofreader who misread the Greeley scrawl. Greeley long-handed him a letter notifying him that he was among the unemployed.

So because proofreaders knew that the Greeley handwriting was impossible for outsiders to translate—the proofreader took it to another editor, using it as a recommendation! The only part of the letter decipherable being the Greeley signature!

Nifty

Alf Friedman says that the guy who said that he'd rather be right than President must have been a Democrat consoling himself.

Character

Sam Salvin, in the good old cabaret days, controlled Rector's, Palais Royale, The Plantation, Little Club and numerous spots on what was really a Gay White Way. They were famous for the excellent cuisine such as cold lobster, squab under glass and other munchings which made the smart set come out to play after midnight. Salvin is now a rich man.

But his favorite dining rendezvous these days of retirement is a little delicatessen in the 40's off Broadway—where he eats most of his meals.

THE LOUDSPEAKER By Louis Reid

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—They're teaching patriotism in a new way in Washington. They're striking up the band—the United States Marine Band—bidding it adhere to the old historic policy of "no foreign entanglements."

Not a breath of Vienna, not one blast from Bayreuth, not one accent out of all the Russias is to be aired in a new series of concerts which the band is to waft to the youth of rural America. Only American music—the music of the wigwams and plantations and country hoedowns; and occasionally, these songs which come under the general heading of "favorite."

Before the programs are over—they really come under the head of education — America's rural youth should be familiar with every Indian war dance, every Negro spiritual, every jig that ever served to heat up the blood of grandpappy. Certainly if the Marine Band can't wave the flag musically, there is none that can.

Here is novelty, at least. America's rural youth has drilled into its tousled heads every other form of native superiority from athletics down to zoos. Yet the republic's own music, from an educational standpoint, has been neglected. And it is music that in its class need not take a back seat for any one.

The title of the program? "Learning to Know American Music"—not merely "Learning American Music" or "Knowing American Music" but "Learning to Know American Music." But in the prospectus, my comrades, not one word escapes of that type of American music which we do better than other nations.

You know the type, of course. Sometimes it is called jazz. Sometimes it goes by the name of fox trot. Sometimes it is known merely as a tune from Tin Pan Alley.

* * *

But whatever its title it is as American as the ice cream cone and the hot dog. But unlike the ice cream cone and the hot dog it has extended its conquests to every part of the civilized globe. Therefore, it seems to us that if the music patriots, who have young rural America in mind, are really on the job, are really sincere, they will have to find room for this type of music.

FOURTH WOOD DIAMOND

WE NOW PRESENT By Darrell V. Martin
Radio Editor

SETH PARKER and his cast, returning from Hollywood, are to add a bit of Down East atmosphere to the Theater of the Air program on WCAE at 10:30 tonight . . . As a novelty some might the sponsors of this feature might present Ross Gorman, Ray Kelly and "Hack" Wilson . . . when they get together they are a whole flock of radio programs in themselves . . . Gorman plays 25 instruments . . .

Darrell V. Martin

Ray Kelly, sound effects expert, can produce anything from a mild spring rain to a tornado . . . and finally there's control engineer Wilson, who has yet to find a male microphone voice he cannot imitate . . . Russ Colombo becomes leader of the orchestra and master of ceremonies at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel on Monday, December 14.

* * *

Two months ago the Four Mills Brothers and their mammy left Cincinnati, Ohio, to conquer the big city . . . they veni-ed, vidi-ed and vici-ed yesterday, signing a commercial contract that calls for two appearances a week, Monday and Thursday nights at 9 o'clock, over CBS-WJAS . . . together the boys make enough music for a full orchestra, simulating the sounds of horns and trumpets with their hands and mouths, and using only one genuine intrument, the "gitthar."

* * *

On WABC tonight—George Olsen, 11:45; Ben Bernie, midnight; Art Krueger, 12:30 a. m.

* * *

Answer—Sisters of the Skillet, The Three Doctors and the Gloom Chasers manufacture their chatter as they go along, using notes now and then for reference and trusting to luck for witty remarks. The spontaneity of this type of program has won wide acclaim.

* * *

We might as well add that The Three Doctors are to change office hours on Monday, conducting their famous nonsense clinic each evening except Friday at 11:30 over an NBC-WJZ network . . . they haven't used a continuity in five years . . . got their start on WMAQ, the same station that developed Amos 'n' Andy.

* * *

Studio Lights

Ruth Etting sings for the last time under an NBC banner tomorrow night on WCAE at 9 o'clock when she replaces the whole Revelers Quartet with Pryor's Band . . . after that her mail is to be addressed to CBS . . .

George Jessel would have been heard incognito on Eddie Cantor's program last Sunday night had the newspapers printed nothing about it . . . George had volunteered to take the role of the captain of a wrecked freighter . . .

Unusual rhythmic effects to suggest the color of Arabia are contained in Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Chanson Arabe," which Toscha Seidel, violinist, plays on WJAS at 10 o'clock tonight . . . the composition is highly suggestive of the Orient . . . "Just a Cottage Small" is a solo by Theo Karle, tenor . . .

Ray Perkins starts a new series of programs on KDKA at 6:30 tomorrow night . . .

Ford Miller is no Lawrence Tibbett but he sings "Lover Come Back to Me," "Lonesome Road" and "Ol' Man River" well enough to please this column anytime . . .

WOR has snapped up another star, none other than Frances Langford, Rudy Vallee's protege.

Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, widow of the late President, is to speak on NBC-KDKA tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock at the launching of the S. S. Manhattan . . . the christening bottle is to contain water from historic lakes and streams of each of the 48 states . . .

C. R. D., of Overbrook, wonders why the Revelers only give a nickel's worth when they sing and suggests that four songs a broadcast should be their minimum.

* * *

Today's Tid Bit:

The NBC guest register is kept under lock and key. It contains many famous names worth thousands of dollars to autograph collectors.

Slow-heater tubes are NOBODY'S bargain!

When buying tubes, ask your dealer these 3 questions:

3—How quick?

Notice the four strong pillars. With this solid foundation the fragile parts cannot move a hair's breadth from their fixed position. Ordinary tubes have only a two-pillar foundation. Two supports instead of four! Jolts, bumps and vibration often impair their vital accuracy.

IF A TUBE doesn't go into action in 10 seconds or less, it isn't an up-to-date tube. Radio tubes of the old, slow-heater type are being dumped on the market in vast quantities. They are sold under supposedly reputable brands, but they take a long time to get into action.

There's no place in modern radio for these old-fashioned tubes. Insist on quick-heater tubes such as Eveready Raytheons. A quick start is your guarantee that you are getting an up-to-date tube.

Don't worry about price. Today Eveready Raytheons cost no more than the obsolete types of other makes. Don't buy any tube until your dealer has proved to you that it will heat up in 10 seconds or less. See that he takes an up-to-date tube out of the carton to make this test. And time it yourself.

All Eveready Raytheon Tubes have the famous 4-pillar construction that makes them twice as strong, twice as durable, safe from jolts and jars. They give you marvelously clear and natural reception. And they go into action fast—take a bare seven seconds to get started.

Here are the new Eveready Raytheon prices:

TYPE	NEW LOW PRICE
ER 227	$1.00
ER 224	1.60

ATLANTIC

WHITE FLASH for WINTER

TOMORROW you can buy it! ATLANTIC WHITE FLASH for winter . . . the new full-range fuel that is scientifically balanced for every kind of weather. Pull up to the nearest Atlantic pump for a tankful of thrills! You've never known a gasoline quite like it. Atlantic scientists have discovered ways of improving even the famous ATLANTIC WHITE FLASH formula . . . making it equally efficient on cold days or warmer ones, in blizzards or thaws.

Your car will start more quickly; warm up in a fraction of the time formerly required; flash away from others like a shot from a gun. You will save money in many ways. This super-fuel sells at regular-gas price. There is no battery-strain, less chance of crankcase-dilution, no waste of fuel from excess use of the choke. And there is no objectionable odor . . . a very important point if you drive a closed car.

THE FULL-RANGE SUPER-FUEL . . . NO EXTRA COST

Deny Britain Will Honor Hindenburg

LONDON, Dec. 4.—(Universal)—Reports that King George was considering conferring the order of the garter on President Von Hindenburg, of Germany, were ridiculed in British official circles. Berlin dispatches further pointed out the German constitution prohibits Germans from accepting foreign titles.

Porto Rico Worker To Address Club

Clyde F. Armitage, regional director of the Porto Rico child feeding committee of Gov. Theodore Roosevelt, was to be honor guest and speaker at the Henry George Club luncheon in the Chamber of Commerce today. He was to speak on "Yesterday and Today in Porto Rico."

School Head Training Dogs to Lead Blind Persons Has Big Schedule Of Lectures in District

Mrs. Clifford C. Taylor, chairman of work for the blind in the State Federation, has booked numerous engagements for Col. Morris Frank, of Nashville, blind managing director of The Seeing Eye, the school where dogs are trained to become guides for the blind. Col. Frank will begin an almost uninterrupted round of talks she likes about eight of them every day with the Butler Woman's Club, the Evans City High School and the Homewood Junior Women's Club on Monday. In many instances where the clubs have not scheduled meetings of their own they are sponsoring the high school talks which they will attend.

Col. Frank will speak in the West Newton High School on Tuesday, the businessmen of the town having been invited to hear him an hour later than the pupils. The McDonald Woman's Club and the educational department of the Congress have listed him for Wednesday; the Wilkinsburg Civic Club, the Wilmerding-McKeesport Lions and the Fellowship Club of Etna for Thursday and the Rossiyn Farms High School (through the Woman's Club), the Rochester Junior and Senior High schools and the Monaca High School on Friday.

He will be a guest at the Franklin Junior Club meeting on the 12th, will address a meeting in Trinity Cathedral parish house on the 13th, and will visit the Wilkinsburg Woman's Club on the 14th. Crafton High School, Carnegie Junior Auxiliary, Dormont College Club and Dormont New Century Juniors will have him as their guest on the 15th, and the Mt. Lebanon High School and Hillsdale School, Dormont, will hear him on the following day. The Aspinwall Woman's Club will entertain him on the 17th and the Ligonier Woman's Club on the 19th.

Mrs. James G. Chalfant, new president of the southwestern district of the State Federation, has called a meeting of her executive board and department chairman for Thursday at 11 o'clock in Kaufmann's.

Board To Meet

The first in a series of round table discussions on art will be held tonight at "Stoneacres," Bradford Woods, the home of Mrs. J. Charles Runk, the newly-appointed district chairman of art in the federation. Mrs. Runk will be assisted by the fine arts committee of the Bradford Woods Civic Club, which includes Mrs. A. B. Chandler, Mrs. Roy Noll and Mrs. W. L. Fickes. The program will consist of a talk on "Painting and Light," by Ross Altwater, whose entries in the International Photographers' Exhibit of 1930-31 won first and second prizes.

"Interest Group B" has been formed at the Congress of Clubs. It will sponsor the concert by the String Symphonic Ensemble of Pittsburgh on Wednesday, December 16, at Carnegie Music Hall. To make this particularly a Congress presentation, Mrs. Elsie Breese Mitchell, colorature soprano, who is director of the Congress choral, will be the soloist. The new group has a three-fold purpose—sponsoring Pittsburgh musicians, creating a further interest in Congress work and supplementing a fund for the mortgage interest.

Arthur Schamberg, pianist, will appear on the program at the annual linen ingathering of the Ladies' Hospital Aid Society in the Y. M. and W. H. A. on Wednesday.

The Woman's Club of Crafton will celebrate its silver anniversary next Friday afternoon at the Congress of Clubs. This will also be the annual guest day of the club. A pageant, written by Mrs. Chester F. Johnston, will portray the history of the organization. All of the past-presidents living in Crafton and many of the former vice-presidents taking part. Mrs. Carl E. Casolowsky is the leader for the day. Music will be furnished by Mrs. C. C. Moyar, Mrs. Ralph Smith, Ero Davidson and Miss Mary Agnes Smith.

* * *

The Poale Zedeck Sisterhood will sponsor "A Visit to Gypsy Land" on Chanukah night, Sunday, at 8:30 o'clock, in the auditorium of the synagogue, Phillips and Shady avenues, Squirrel Hill. Mrs. David A. Mendoza is president of the sisterhood and Mrs. Sam Glick is chairman in charge of the event.

A large audience attended the turkey dinner served last night by the Woman's Alliance of the First Unitarian Church and remained for the playlet and series of tableaux entitled "Memories," which Mrs. T. C. Clifford directed with her usual success. Mrs. Ray S. Quick was the mother and Gertrude Spellmire the daughter, who, with the aid of television, call back the women of other years. These were presented, beautifully costumed, in the tableaux by Mrs. W. B. Spellmire, Mrs. Henry E. Cole, Marion Spellmire, Eloise Howard, Miss Mary Burban, Mrs. Charles J. Mundo, Miss Lois Clifford, Mrs. Harvey S. Fouse and Mrs. Merton Packard.

A program of songs and a playlet, "Children of the Earth," was given at yesterday's meeting of the Upper St. Clair Woman's Club. The members met with Mrs. E. K. Landis, who was assisted by Mrs. W. E. Van Nort. Toys were brought for Christmas distribution.

Darrow to Speak In Symposium Here

Attorney Clarence Darrow, of Chicago, will speak Wednesday night in the Technical High School auditorium, McKeesport, participating in a symposium to be held under the Brotherhood of the Temple B'nai Israel. The symposium is on "Why I Am What I Am."

Rabbi I. E. Philo, of Youngstown; the Rev. L. D. Spaugy, of McKeesport, a Methodist minister, and Assistant District Attorney John F. Haggerty, a Catholic, also will speak. Each speaker will be given 35 minutes.

ASKS SWEEPING DEFENSE QUIZ

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—(Universal)—Sweeping congressional investigation of the national defense—land, sea and air—by a joint committee of the Senate and House, is called for in a resolution Representative Frank R. Reid (Rep.), of Illinois, announced today he will file when Congress convenes Monday.

This special committee would be empowered to sift to the bottom the raging controversy over naval, military and air defenses.

Charges that the administration has been pursuing a policy of inadequate national defense would be thoroughly gone into, Reid explained. Various charges of a drive to "scuttle" the Navy are cited in the Reid resolution, though no persons are mentioned by name. Reid declared:

"Nothing short of a thorough investigation by a select committee of Congress will satisfy the country. Charges and counter-charges have been flying thick and fast in recent months. I believe all facts should be ferreted out for the guidance of Congress."

Ex-Pittsburgher, Pennsy Officer, Dies

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Robert L. Spencer, 66, warehouse superintendent of the Pennsylvania Railroad here is dead following a heart attack. Funeral services will be Saturday.

He had been superintendent of the Duquesne Warehouse Company in Pittsburgh and in 1919 was appointed warehouse superintendent of the Pennsylvania. He is survived by his widow.

Pittsburgh Woman Wins Damage Suit

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 4.—The jury in the damage suit of Phyllis Davis, 905 Brookline boulevard, Pittsburgh, against the Pyramid Development Company, owner of the Mineral Beach swimming pool, near Finleyville, returned a verdict awarding her $14,221.50. She stepped into a hole in the concrete floor of one of the dressing rooms, fell, and suffered injuries, she alleged.

CHAMBER GIVES TRADE VIEWS

The board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce last night voted down the proposal to modify the anti-trust laws to permit agreement for the curtailment of production commensurate with consumption. They took this action by participating in a referendum conducted by the United States Chamber of Commerce looking toward the development of a plan to stabilize business.

The chamber acted favorably toward the plan that businesses desiring to combine should have opportunity to ascertain from the government whether the proposed combination would be in violation of the anti-trust laws. While opposing the formation of a national economic council, the chamber went on record favoring a representative trade association performing the functions of such a council in each field of business.

The directors voted in favor of having employers schedule their production so as to insure employment for the greatest numbers of their force throughout the year. They also indorsed, in principle, the proposed new codified traffic ordinance and recommended its adoption by city Council.

New Plane Receiver 'Sees' Through Fog

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—(INS.)—Photo-electric receivers which will enable an airplane pilot to pick up light signals through fog several miles thick have been perfected, Dr. Irving Langmuir told the American Society of Mechanical Engineers.

The receiver, he said, was from six to 13,000 times as sensitive in picking up light signals as the human eye.

DEMAND BOOKS OF GAS FIRM

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—An attempt was made yesterday to compel the Lone Star Gas Corporation, Pittsburgh, to divulge records before the Oklahoma Corporation Commission at a rate hearing December 21.

The commission issued an order demanding the records. The Lone Star corporation has declined to produce its books, contending the commission holds no jurisdiction over it as a foreign corporation.

Lone Star subsidiaries serve 26 Oklahoma cities.

VIVID COLORS FAVORED FOR WINTER SPORTS COSTUMES

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Dec. 4.—It isn't very hard to cut a fine figure on ice—at least so far as clothes are concerned. For every winter each house vies in presenting winter sports clothes that are so attractive that they are enough to tempt any woman to St. Moritz even if she doesn't know a toboggan run from a cinder track. They tended to bulk and use clumsy skirts and huge sweaters with endless lengths of woolen scarf wound tightly round the throat. And there was usually a little wooly cap that made pathetic attempts to look rakish or smart. But now we have suits that are warm, comfortable, suitable for strenuous activity, and withal extremely smart and slim in silhouette.

* * *

BRIGHT EVEN VIVID colors are used that make a splendid foil for the snowy white background of the setting at Lake Placid, Quebec or any other spot where skiing or skating enthusiasts foregather, and despite the lure of the southern resorts there is, each year, an ever-increasing crowd of such enthusiasts. And so, perhaps after all, it is the smart sports suit that is one of the attractions.

* * *

WOULDN'T YOU even forego a trip down South to wear a winter sports suit by the great Chanel, as sketched here? Especially when we inform you that it is done in bright red cheviot with collar, cuffs and belt of matching red patent leather. The skirt is divided beneath the front and back panels which are separate but button onto the skirt.

* * *

ALSO BY CHANEL, but in a different vein, is the other model. It is an afternoon frock in black crepe marocain with garlands of tiny white picque flowers bordering the neckline and cuffs. The sleeves are bloused in bishop fashion. A straight bolero with rippling revers forms the bodice and is drawn into a bow-knot together with the soft belt and tied at the center-front. The circular skirt is set onto a tucked yoke.

ISN'T "HONEYBUNCH" ADORABLE?

SUN-TELEGRAPH DOLL LADY

Is Giving Away This Year to the Little Girls of Pittsburgh and Vicinity; This Doll Is Not On Sale In Any Store

Special Notice

NO SUBSCRIPTIONS WILL BE ACCEPTED FROM THE FOLLOWING DISTRICTS IN PITTSBURGH:

The Doll Lady's Message

Dear Little Girls:

I am really proud of the picture of my big, beautiful "Honeybunch" that I am showing on this page today. Isn't she a beauty? She's really nearly four inches taller than the picture and she's my very own doll. What I mean by that, "Honeybunch" is absolutely not on sale in any of the stores. Words will not describe "Honeybunch." She almost as big as a real live baby and she does so many really cute things that you'll be fascinated with her.

Look at the picture. "Honeybunch" is looking right at you and she says "Take me!" What a thrill you are going to get when you get this big, glorious dolly in your arms and all your own.

This year you only have to get for me FOUR new readers for the Daily and Sunday Sun-Telegraph. They must each agree to take the paper for six months and pay the carrier boy on the route, at the rate of 28c a week, in the regular order of his collections. You are to pay no money—nor collect any money.

With the help of your Daddy, your Mama, your sisters and brothers, you will not find it hard to get four subscriptions. Tell your neighbors and relatives and friends that you want a "Honeybunch" dolly all for your own and they'll all help you get this wonder doll.

HOW TO ADDRESS BLANKS

You will find subscription blanks on this page. Get them signed and send them in as fast as you can. Address them to THE DOLL LADY, Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa. Before you know it, you'll be having "Honeybunch" for a playmate.

Sun-Telegraph Doll Lady

She has a pacifier and enjoys it, and she's as nearly unbreakable as a doll can be made

Rubber arms and hands—you can wash them every day—and she can suck her thumbs and do lots of other cute tricks

PRUDENCE PENNY :-: Tells How to Prepare Latest Dishes :-: FINE RECIPES

LIVER AND VEGETABLES—Two pounds sliced beef liver; 2 tablespoons bacon drippings; 1 cup small onions; 2 cups cut carrots or turnips; 1 quart small potatoes; 1 tablespoon celery tops or parsley; 2 tablespoons flour; 2 teaspoons salt; ½ teaspoon pepper. Prepare vegetables, cover with boiling water, boil for 20 minutes, then put into a baking dish or casserole with the stock in which the vegetables have been boiled; add 1 tablespoon flour mixed with cold water. Cover with the liver, prepared as follows: Remove the skins and the veins from the liver; cut into convenient pieces; sprinkle with the salt, pepper and flour; put into a hot pan with the fat and sear quickly over a hot fire. Cover dish and bake in a slow oven for 1 hour. Serve in casserole. Serves six.

* * *

PINEAPPLE BREAD—Sift together 1 cup flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder and ¾ teaspoon salt and add 1¼ cups bran. Add 2 well-beaten eggs, ¼ cup honey, ⅜ cup milk and 1 tablespoon melted butter. Add ½ cup crushed pineapple, after draining syrup off thoroughly. (Keep the syrup in the refrigerator to use in drinks or sauces.) Bake in muffin tins 375 degrees for 20 minutes. Makes 12 muffins.

* * *

WHOLE WHEAT FRUIT BREAD—Sift together 2½ cups whole wheat flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt and 4 well-beaten eggs. Add 1 tablespoon melted butter, 1 cup milk and 1 cup well drained, crushed pineapple. Bake in a buttered loaf pan in a slow oven for 45 to 50 minutes.

* * *

LEMON CORN-STARCH PUDDING — One-fourth cup corn-starch, 1½ cups milk, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 egg yolks, beaten, 6 tablespoons sugar, 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind, ½ cup strained lemon juice, 2 egg whites, 2 tablespoons sugar.

Cook corn-starch and milk in double boiler 15 minutes. Add butter, egg yolks, 6 tablespoons sugar and grated rind. Cool. Add lemon juice. Fold in meringue made of stiffly beaten whites and 2 tablespoons sugar. Bake in a glass casserole set in a pan of hot water in a moderate oven 30 to 40 minutes. Test interior with a knife when top is golden brown. Serve cold. Dust thickly with powdered sugar before serving. This is a tart pudding, especially suitable served at close of dinner. Serves six.

* * *

CHOCOLATE MALT COOKIES

One-half cup butter, 2½ cups sugar, 2 eggs, ½ cup raisins, 2 tablespoons hot water, 2 cups flour, 2 teaspoons baking soda, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon chocolate malted milk, ¼ cup cocoa, 4 tablespoons hot water.

Cream the butter. Add sugar, well beaten eggs, raisins and 2 tablespoons hot water. Mix and sift flour, baking powder, salt, chocolate malted milk and add to the first mixture. Dissolve the cocoa in 4 tablespoons hot water, and add last. Mix well and drop from a teaspoon on a greased baking sheet. Place a raisin on the top of each. Bake in a moderate oven about 15 minutes.

* * *

HAM TIMBALES WITH HONEY—½ cup minced ham, 1 tablespoon minced celery leaves, 1 tablespoon minced onion, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 egg beaten, ½ cup bread crumbs, 1½ cup milk, salt, paprika.

Mix the ingredients well together and turn the mixture into greased ramekins. Place them in a pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven until the mixture is firm.

* * *

SAUCE—1 tablespoon flour, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 cup currant jelly, 1 cup boiling water, 2 ounces light honey, 2 ounces lemon juice.

Mix the flour and butter together. Add the boiling water, cook until thick. Then add honey and lemon juice and serve hot.

This sauce has a most attractive appearance, a delicately sharp, sweet odor, and is also excellent served with baked ham, roast pork or pork chops.

* * *

DUCHESS CABBAGE—Cut cabbage in very thin slices. Cook until tender in boiling salted water. Drain. To each pint of cabbage, add the following mixture: 1 cup milk, 1 egg yolk, 1 tablespoon butter, salt, paprika. Heat thoroughly and add 2 tablespoons light honey, and 2 tablespoons lemon juice. Toss the cabbage lightly in the mixture and serve.

* * *

HONEY SALAD DRESSING—Three-quarters cup water, 1 3 cup honey, 1 teaspoon mustard, ½ teaspoon salt, paprika, ¼ cup vinegar, 1 tablespoon flour, 2 egg yolks.

Heat the honey and water in a double boiler. Mix the dry ingredients with the vinegar and add to the first mixture. Pour a small amount of the hot mixture over the beaten yolks and return to the boiler. Cook all together until clear. This dressing is improved by adding 1 3 cup sour whipped cream just before serving. A honey dressing is particularly good with fruit salad.

* * *

ORANGE-AND-NUT CONFECTION—Three oranges, ¼ teaspoon cream of tartar, ¼ pound shelled pecans, 3 cups sugar.

Slice the rinds of the oranges very thin. Cover with cold water and bring them to boil. Drain. Rinse. Add more water and boil till they are tender, changing the water frequently during the boiling if you wish to avoid a strong flavor. When the rinds are tender drain again, add a little water, together with the sugar, orange-juice and cream of tartar.

Boil this till the soft-ball stage is reached. Cool slightly. Beat till the mixture is creamy. Add the nuts. Pour into an oiled pan. Cool. Cut into squares.

* * *

SARDINES PARMESAN — Spread oblong pieces of toast sparingly with onion butter (butter flavored with onion juice). Drain one 11-ounce can of sardines (in mustard sauce) and split down the center, removing back bone but being careful not to break the sardines. Lay one split sardine on each piece of toast, and sprinkle with Parmesan cheese and paprika. Place under broiler flame until piping hot. Serve on small plates with a little of the hot mustard sauce on each. Serves 6.

* * *

ORANGE ICE — Two cups orange juice, 4 cups water or ginger ale, 2 cups sugar, grated rind 2 oranges, ¼ cup lemon juice, few sprigs mint.

Boil the water and sugar together for about 5 minutes. Add the crushed mint and other ingredients if water is used, and set aside to cool. If ginger ale is used prepare the same way, but do not add the ginger ale until the mixture is quite cold. Strain and freeze.

* * *

BAKED APPLES STUFFED WITH MINCEMEAT—Six large red apples, 1 cup mincemeat, 1 cup sugar, 1½ cups water. Core apples, removing all core, but do not cut through to other side of apples. Pierce with a fork in several places and arrange apples in a shallow baking dish. Fill cavity of each with mincemeat and pour over them a syrup made by boiling together for six minutes, the sugar and water. Sprinkle apples with sugar and bake in a medimuly hot oven (400 F.) until tender, basting often with the syrup.

* * *

BANANA BREAD — One cup sugar, ½ cup butter, 2 eggs, beaten light, 1½ tablespoons sour milk, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, 1 cup coarsely chopped nutmeats, ½ teaspoon soda, 1½ teaspoons baking powder, ¼ teaspoon salt, 3 large bananas, 2 cups flour.

Cream butter and sugar. Add eggs, then bananas which have been put through sieve, and liquid ingredients. Add nuts and sifted dry ingredients. Blend thoroughly and bake in moderate oven (350 F.) for 45 minutes. Make two medium size loaves.

Something WIVES never mention

SHE would never tell you, of course—but part of the success of her husband is due to her. She knows that vitality and "push" are based on health.

So she serves meals that guard against constipation, which so often handicaps work with headaches, loss of appetite and energy. Two natural correctives of constipation are "bulk" and Vitamin B.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is rich in both. "Bulk" to exercise the intestines. Vitamin B to tone them up. The two promote regularity.

Just make sure that your husband gets two tablespoonfuls daily of this delicious cereal. This gentle corrective is far better than pills or drugs—so often habit-forming.

Meat Is Most Available of All Protein Foods

Meats provide supply of protein food which is essential to building up health.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
Former Health Commissioner of New York City,
United States Senator From New York.

In my mail I receive many letters asking what I think about meat as a part of the diet. Perhaps it might be appropriate to discuss that subject today.

I know there are lots of fine people who regard it as hardly less than a crime to eat meat. They are vegetarians, perfectly honest persons and aware that on their diet they have prospered physically. I have no battle with them.

The human body must have a certain quantity of protein food every day. Demands are made upon the muscles and frame-work of the body by every movement we make. Of necessity there is more or less wear and tear. This wastage must be made up for in some way.

One would not think much of an owner of a house if he never placed any repairs upon it. Wind and weather cause the roof and siding to deteriorate. Reshingling and fresh paint are demanded from time to time.

It is exactly the same way with our bodies. Far more than the inanimate thing like a house, the active, moving, living body has demands made upon it which require the constant watchfulness of the owner. Each of us must include in his diet those articles of food which contain the building and repair materials, the proteins.

The infant gets its protein from the milk it drinks. We can get protein from eggs. The cereals supply us with some. Other foods and vegetables give us a limited quantity of protein.

The cheapest, most readily acquired and in many respects the most available protein food is meat. There are many kinds of meat and many cuts of meat. It has a flavor and an appeal to appetite such as few other foods possess. If one is temperate in his consumption of meat and particular about choosing the kind of meat best suited to his individual needs, I can think of no better way of getting what we must have to make this body of ours useful through years of time.

ANNUL WEDDING OF NICHOLAS

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Dec. 4. —(AP.)— Formal annulment of the marriage of Prince Nicholas and Mme. Jana Lucia Deletj was to be declared today by the Rumanian Supreme Court, it was understood.

This action will be based on the theory that the marriage was not contracted in accordance with the dynastic statute of the Hohenzollerns and that it occurred without the consent of King Carol.

The court's decree will result, it was understood, from a personal petition by King Carol and the king will not consider it necessary any longer to exclude his brother from the Royal family.

Nicholas will be allowed to quit Rumania as he sees fit and no banishment will be pronounced.

Lion Hunting 'Play' Explorer Declares

Experiences in Central Africa, where mountains of 17,000 feet altitude are shrouded from the deserts below by mist, and where it rains 365 days a year, were described by Carveth Wells, explorer, in an illustrated lecture before the Academy of Science and Art of Pittsburgh, in Carnegie Institute last night.

He characterized the big game hunts as "child's play," declaring that lions are so numerous in that continent that it is almost impossible to travel any distance without seeing them. He has followed them so closely in his automobile that the fenders of the car touched them, he added.

TELL IT TO SALLY -:- -:- Follow This Unusual Feature Day by Day -:- -:- By SALLY MARTIN

We Should Not Disrespect Opposite Opinions

Should we "stick up for our principles"—and try to force other people to accept them, whether they want to or not?

"Rebecca Reformer" thinks we should—and she does.

No such foolishness as "Live and Let Live" in her philosophy. No, sirree! She knows what's what" and she's going to tell the world, early and often, no matter whose bunions she walks on, and no matter what acrimonious arguments she gets into.

And what results does she get? Just exactly none! Which is what you might expect. People go right ahead pleasing themselves in spite of her jabber.

But that doesn't discourage her a mite. She still flys to the fray, on every occasion, and today she's flying into this column, to tell all and sundry just what she thinks of smoking femmes.

ARGUES AGAINST SMOKING

"My Dear Sally:

"I have just read your column asking us to give our opinions about women smoking and as soon as I finished it I declared I would certainly do that very thing, although I am a busy mother with a thousand and one things to do.

"To my mind there is nothing on earth so disgusting as a woman smoking.

"I get myself into plenty of arguments about this disgusting habit and I have been told that I would get myself in trouble over my old-fashioned ideas. But I think I have a right to have my say on the subject and believe me! I say plenty!

"One evening a few ladies came to spend the evening with me and our conversation drifted to the subject. Of course I got on my war horse, and got what my husband calls 'radical.' I guess these ladies thought I had gone goofy, but honestly one can't go to a restaurant any more without wearing a gas mask. Women sit posing with a cigaret in one hand and a cup of coffee in the other trying to show the world that they are modern—that they are living in 1931. But shucks! They are only showing me that they are dead from the neck up".

ASKS FOR OPINION

"I have seen plenty of women smoking and I'll bet I am safe in saying that nine out of ten of them don't do it for the enjoyment they get out of it, but because they think it's being done by the smart set. A man smoking seems to enjoy his smoke. But a woman? She takes a few puffs and then poses until her ciggie has burned out.

"I suppose they think they are fooling the public. But they are only fooling themselves and lowering the standards of womanhood. Why don't you give them your opinion of smoking?

"I suppose you'll tell me as many others have that if a woman wants to smoke it's up to her. And of course I know I can't stop them. But still I say let the men do the smoking. Throw away that filthy weed, lady, and try to be what God intended you to be—pure in heart, soul, mind and body.

REBECCA REFORMER."

So you're "Rebecca Reformer" are you? And you're not one to beat around the bush when it comes to telling people what you think of them! Then, of course, you won't object if others are equally frank. So I may now proceed to give you a dose of your own medicine.

You ask for my opinion of feminine smoking. Allow me to first give my opinion of you.

I believe that intolerance such as yours is more poisonous than tons of nicotine, and that your bad manners are more of a disgrace to the "standards of womanhood" than a million female smokers.

INSULTS ARE VICIOUS

It's a fine thing to have ideas, but it's a vicious and vulgar thing to insult other people because they don't agree with them.

Smoking may or may not be a sensible habit, but courtesy is practiced by all civilized people, and the person who consistently ignores it is a public nuisance.

As for smoking—

How come that you have inside tips on what "God intended" ladies to do? Why should it be any more displeasing to the divinity to see a lady puffing a cigaret than to see her, for example, eating tripe, Spanish hot dogs, pickled pigs' feet, fried onions or chocolate sundaes?

And why wear skirts or wash your ears, if you're so keen on sticking to "God's intended plan for womankind"? Eve, if you'll remember, went raw.

As a matter of fact, smoking is purely a physical habit and has nothing to do with morals. Like other physical habits, it is harmful if done to excess.

But there isn't the slightest indication that it is any more harmful than excessive drinking, eating or tongue wagging.

Nothing Can So Completely Change Woman's Looks As New Hair—Fay King

By FAY KING

The beauty of feature has always been much the same, for the lovely nose, eyes and mouth are as near perfect as they should be. But one is amazed at the various ways in which the hair was arranged and thought to be loveliest.

Continuation of Love's Reawakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge's Master Stroke Perplexes Dicky

Curiously enough, at Dicky's sneering comment that I was "getting to be as popular as a 'prom-trotter,' the quick resentment I felt was not directed against him, but against Philip Veritzen, whose name I knew was signed to the telegram which had been the immediate cause of his remark.

Save for Dicky's reference to "Faithful Fido," with his royal apology following so closely afterward that I could not hold any rancor for the utterance, I had no occasion to resent any rudeness of his since the memorable night—last Christmas Eve—which had marked my last encounter with Philip Veritzen.

The months intervening between that night and the advent of our baby daughter had been a time of idyllic happiness for me, unmarred by the intrusion of any consideration outside my family. No one in the world can be more wonderful than Dicky in gentleness and devotion, and doubly pleased by the promise of a little daughter—for he never had admitted any other possibility, and by the end of my "employment" in Philip Veritzen's organization, he had been a royal lover, indeed.

Not for all those months had I heard the unpleasant sneering tone in my husband's voice which had marked his utterance of the expression "prom-trotter." I knew, of course, what had brought it there. The telegraph operator had given him the name signed to the telegram which she had wished to telephone to us, and that had been the reason for his refusal to listen to the message or even to wait long enough to hang up the receiver of the downstairs phone.

Was it all to begin over again? I asked myself wearily—the jealousy on Dicky's part, the endless recriminations—was even the prospect of fame worth it? So strong was my illogical resentment against Philip Veritzen in that moment that if he had been there I think I should have flung the telegram into his face.

But with the telegram messenger waiting for me to sign his book, I discreetly gave Dicky a most matter-of-fact answer.

"This isn't another telegram," I said quietly. "The operator said it was a long message, so I asked to have it sent up."

"I suppose," Dicky's voice was sardonic—"that you did not care to have so sacred a communication read carefully over the telephone by a yokel operator, that you preferred to read it first in privacy. Accept my apologies, and the assurance that I shall not disturb you."

I cast a wary eye at the telegraph messenger, and saw with relief that he was already out of sight. Then with the yellow envelope in my hands I walked up to my husband, and tearing it across, thrust the pieces into his hands.

"It isn't worth it, Dicky," I said wearily. "Lillian thinks it's about the play and that I ought to have had it read to me because it was marked 'urgent' but nothing in the world, success, fame, anything, can compensate me for a renewal of all that old unpleasantness. I've been so happy these last months, I'm not going to risk spoiling the future for anything. Do whatever you like with that. I'm through."

I turned and fairly ran through the door into the hall, closing it and catching the snap lock as I went. I could hear Dicky's voice vociferating, "Madge! come back here!" behind me, but I hurried up the stairs and into my room, knowing that I had effectually prevented him from coming up to me before I should have reached "sanctuary."

For that was what my room meant to me at that instant, and I closed the door and turned the key with the feeling that I never wanted to see anyone again. And when, a few seconds later, Dicky knocked, first softly, then determinedly, I put a great deal of decision into my quiet—"Please do not ask me to open the door."

He went away at that, and for 15 minutes while I lay prone upon my bed, fighting to keep the tears back, I heard no sound. Then, the door between my room and that occupied by Mary and Marion, opened softly—I had forgotten to secure that one, and Lillian came to my bedside.

"I don't know whether you're the cleverest woman on earth or the most anointed idiot ever let loose in a cruel world," she said. "But whichever you are, please consider my best summer chapeau doffed to you. That trick you pulled just now was worthy of Machiavelli, Talleyrand, and all the other foxy boys rolled into one. Dick's been jumping through hoops and going around in circles ever since I've had the loveliest time with him. He's simply reduced to a pulp. You'll never have any more trouble with him on the Philip Veritzen question. Now get up and bathe your face and read this telegram."

"I wouldn't open that telegram," I said stubbornly, "for all the money in the world."

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Rouge for lips and cheeks comes now in non-collapsible tubes. Easier to carry in the purse than the cheek-blush compact and the lipstick. And there's no fear that facial colorings won't match.

If a woman makes it a practice to dye her hair, she will find it a convenience to cover her forehead and neck with a thick coating of vaseline, through which the dye will not penetrate to discolor her skin. Also, if the dye she is using is satisfactory, she should not switch to another preparation, since nobody knows what will result when chemicals combine.

If the permanent wave is given perfectly, it should bear a pattern of its own: the finger wave being necessary only after the first few shampoos. Whether or not there is a marcel line present depends upon the manner in which the hair is wound around the metal rod. A twist in the strand gives the effect of the round curl; the flat wind produces a flat undulation, more like natural lines.

Ribbed finger nails are the result of some diet error. They should be soaked every night in hot olive oil or annointed with cold cream. Brittle nails call for the same treatment. Great care must be taken that soap is bland and pure. When using scrubbing powders that are hard on the hands wear rubber gloves, as they are devastating to the smooth, shell-like surfaces of finger sheaths.

Beautifying is a good investment. It pays grand dividends. A sassy pair of shoes puts electricity in the heels, sets one to stepping pretty. A new purse makes a woman feel rich though there may not be a dollar in it. The new chapeau set at the chic angle blots out memories of birthdays. Everyone knows what a light sweep of the rouge pad will do to uplift the spirits. The beauty parade goes on, and all women must march. They are a part of the world's spectacle. It is put down thus and so in the book of fate. So carry on!

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Poisoning in Body Causes Many Ills

A few years ago the phrase "auto-intoxication" was used to describe a multitude of human ailments. Within recent years it is used only in its proper place. There are many constitutional disturbances which can be traced to auto-intoxication. When we use the word in its correct sense, we apply it to the poisoning produced by some substance formed within the body.

Dr. Copeland

The symptoms are usually due to intestinal poisons which reach and accumulate in the blood. For this reason the trouble is often spoken of as "intestinal toxemia." Persons who have obstinate constipation are likely to show signs of this disorder.

Under normal conditions, after the food has been digested and the nourishing portions have been absorbed, the substances that have been rejected as of no benefit to the body are left. This material may contain poisons, or poisons will develop in it. If permitted to accumulate they are absorbed and will cause many uncomfortable symptoms.

When there is any tendency towards constipation due either to carelessness or to faulty habits, there is such an accumulation of poisonous material. Its effects may spread throughout the body. Signs of such disturbances are simple, yet are often overlooked.

Persistent headache, often accompanied by nausea and actual attacks of vomiting are among the chief symptoms. Loss of appetite and lack of vitality are characteristic signs of absorption of toxins or poisons from within the body.

Frequently there is bad breath as well as a nasty taste. Often there is complaint of spots before the eyes. Vague and unexplained aches in the muscles and bones of the body are other effects.

The relief experienced when proper treatment is applied is almost miraculous. Extensive and thorough cleansing of the system is the first thing. This is accomplished by irrigations. These are given twice a week, over a period of two or three weeks. During this time the headache, nausea, lack of appetite and other discomforts gradually disappear. If the treatment is discontinued too soon the pains and complaints return.

In order to overcome this disability the cause must be found and removed. It is essential that there be daily elimination. Those who are careless and neglectful must correct this fault. The habit of a daily elimination must be taught to these individuals. This is a slow and tedious undertaking, but with patience and effort it can be acquired.

Change in the diet, emphasizing the importance of vegetables and fresh fruits as a daily part of the diet, must not be overlooked. Cathartics and laxatives are not to be taken as a daily routine. The action of these drugs is not natural and they do not remove the danger of the poisons being absorbed. They should be used only when directly indicated.

Household Hints

If your fireplace is the center of interest in your living room during the winter months, keep it so during the summer. A large vase or bowl of flowers is most charming with a dainty fire screen for a background.

When you have put too much salt in cooking food stretch a clean cloth tightly over the kettle and sprinkle a tablespoonful of flour over the cloth; let contents of kettle steam a few minutes and the flour will absorb the surplus salt.

Save the water in which potatoes have been boiled and use it for washing silver. It will make spoons and forks bright and remove stains.

Store silverware in a tightly closed box, or better still, wrap the pieces together in tissue paper—this will do half the job for you when it comes to cleaning them.

Muslin curtains should be rinsed in alum water, which does not spoil their color and renders them noninflammable. Allow two ounces of alum to a gallon of water.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Weddings of Divorcees

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. I do not think it is good form for a girl who has been divorced to have an elaborate wedding for her second marriage. What do you think?

2. Regardless of how many times a man has been divorced, it is correct for his bride to have a large wedding, if she has never been previously married. Is this correct?

1. R.

1. I thoroughly agree with you. The simpler she keeps the plans for her wedding, the better. No white dress or bridal veil; no orange blossoms; no processional; no attendant or only one attendant, and all other details simple.

2. If the gentleman has the divorce-habit, perhaps it would be better taste to have a simple wedding! But if he has been divorced once, and if her denomination allows it, the bride may plan an elaborate wedding.

After the Engagement

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am to become engaged very soon and I would like to know if I should continue to call his mother Mrs. Smith, or should I call her "Mother"? It is an Italian custom to call each side Mother and Dad.

A.

It would be most natural for you to abide by the custom of your country, and the parents of your husband-to-be will undoubtedly expect this. However, you should not do it until you are positive that it is what they wish. That is, you should not at all do this on your own initiative. Talk it over with your fiance and ask him if he, or you and he, might talk it over with his parents. This is simple, and they will respect you for your courteous and gracious approach to this.

Contract Bridge -:-

OFFICIAL SYSTEM As Adopted by Leading Authorities

By E. V. SHEPARD

Subsequent Doubles

To make the fact clear that you have first bid, been overcalled, and then made an informatory double, this species of double is often called a "subsequent double." The information conveyed is that your suit is not strong enough to stand being forced (obliged to trump leads of the adverse suit); that you probably are very weak in the adverse suit, but hold considerable support for the two unbid suits. Your subsequent double says: "Partner, unless you hold at least three cards of my suit, either bid your own best make, or let the double stand for a penalty in case you are confident of defeating the contract.

Suppose that you open contracting with 2-Hearts on the next hand shown; that second hand bids 2-Spades, and that your partner and fourth hand pass. You should make a "subsequent double."

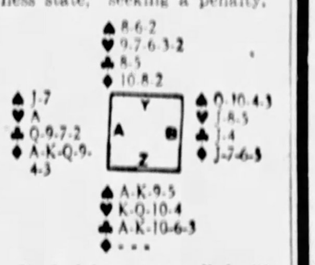
♠ 4 ♥ A-K-J-10-3 ♣ A-10-7 ♦ Q-J-9-5

But in case you hold the next hand and the same thing happens as did above, you should not double; you do not want your partner to bid 3-Diamonds; your trumps cannot be pulled in case opponents lead spades; rebid your hearts.

♠ Q-J-9-5 ♥ A-K-J-10-3 ♣ A-10-7 ♦ 4

The rule governing when you should double and when rebid, is: When you hold only five trumps, with rebidding values largely in two side suits, double in case of an adverse bid of your weakest suit; rebid in case an adversary bids one of your strong suits.

The next hand shows how a double may be repeated until the double reaches the "business state," seeking a penalty.



Z's 1-club was overcalled with A's 1-diamond; which Z doubled to force Y's response. A jumped to 2-diamonds, and this was doubled by Z. To shut-out Y, A bid 3-diamonds, and again Z doubled. A let this pass, but Y bid 3-hearts, rather than assist clubs. Z carried the declaration to 4-hearts, and game was made. Had A bid 4-Diamonds, over Z's last subsequent double, instead of passing, Z's double would still have been informatory, but had A continued to rebid diamonds until he had reached 5-diamonds, Z's double would then have meant "business."

New Biologicals

REJUVENATES THE SKIN

The science of dermatology has made progress. Now you can have a creme that contains the essential biologicals for real rejuvenation of the skin texture. Not merely another tissue creme, of which there are many. But a biological creme that really nourishes the skin, thereby reducing lines, wrinkles and enlarged pores. In addition, you receive with it the first real pore evacuator developed. It is the suction cup which opens the way for the skin to absorb the essential oil right into the pores. Marvelous for removing blackheads, too. And the natural ruddy glow it puts into your cheeks is amazing. 2-ounce jar, $2.50. Sold and guaranteed by Kaufmann's Dept. Store, Gimbel Bros., and all Meyrowes Drug Stores, Pittsburgh.

RECIPES BY PRUDENCE PENNY

half cups milk, 3 tablespoons butter, 4 tablespoons flour, ½ teaspoon salt, ¾ cups diced celery, 4 hard cooked eggs, 4 slices toast.

Melt butter, add flour and then milk, stirring constantly. Cook until thick. Season and add celery. Quarter eggs, place on toast points and pour celery mixture over. Garnish with parsley and serve. Serves four.

* * *

PINEAPPLE BREAD PUDDING — Toast 4 slices of bread, whole wheat preferred, butter and cut in small squares. Place in bottom of baking dish and pour over the drained fruit from half a No. 2 can of pineapple, crushed. Beat 1 egg, 4 tablespoons sugar, 1 cup milk and a few grains nutmeg and pour over. Bake in a slow oven about 40 minutes. Serve warm with a sauce made by stirring together the pineapple syrup and some heavy cream. Serves 6.

* * *

CRANBERRY ICE—4 cups cranberries, 2 cups water, 2 cups sugar, juice of two lemons. Cook cranberries with water until the berries stop popping, strain and add sugar. Cook until sugar is dissolved. Cool, stir in strained lemon juice and freeze to the consistency of water ice. This is delicious as a dessert or meat, fish or fowl accompaniment.

* * *

BOSTON BAKED BEANS—Two cups dried beans, ½ pound salt pork, 4 tablespoons molasses, 1 teaspoon mustard if desired, 1½ teaspoons salt (depending on saltiness of pork), onion if desired.

Soak the beans overnight in cold water to cover. In the morning drain, add a quart of fresh water, simmer for 45 minutes, or until the beans begin to soften, and drain. Score the rind of the salt pork and put half the pork in the bottom of the bean pot with half of the onion. Add the beans, mix the molasses and other seasonings with a little hot water and pour over the beans. Add enough hot water to cover. Place the rest of the salt pork and the remaining half of the onion on top, cover the pot and cook the beans in a slow oven (about 250 deg. F.) for 6 or 7 hours. Add a little hot water from time to time to replace that which cooks away and is absorbed by the beans. Keep the lid on the bean pot until the last hour of cooking, then uncover and allow the beans and pork on the top to brown.

* * *

FRUIT TURKISH PASTE—Two tablespoons gelatine, ½ cup cold water, ½ cup boiling water, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 cups sugar, 1 cup lemon juice, ½ package pasteurized dates, ¼ pound layer figs.

Soak gelatine in cold water in a large saucepan for 5 minutes. Add boiling water, sugar and salt and boil slowly for 15 minutes. Skim. Add pitted dates and figs, which have been put through the food chopper, and lemon juice. Pour into a shallow pan which has been rinsed in cold water. (Paste should be 1 inch thick.) Let stand until firm, loosen with a broad spatula and turn out on a board covered with powdered sugar. Cut in squares and roll in sugar.

* * *

TOASTY PERSIAN DATES—One package pasteurized dates, ½ cup chopped nut meats, 2 tablespoons orange juice, 2 tablespoons melted butter, ⅓ cup shredded cocoanut. Pit a package of dates. Stuff them with the coarsely chopped nut meats which have been moistened with orange juice. Place the stuffed dates in a shallow buttered glass or enamel baking dish. Add melted butter and bake in a moderate oven (350 deg. F.) about 15 minutes. Spread cocoanut in a thin layer on a flat pan and toast to a delicate brown in the oven with the dates. Remove from oven and chop coarsely. Cool dates and roll in cocoanut.

* * *

TINY TIM APPLES—One package pasteurized dates, 1 package shredded cocoanut, ¼ pound seeded raisins, ¼ pound figs, 1 tablespoon orange juice, ½ cup nut meats, 1 teaspoon orange rind. Run dates, cocoanut, nut meats, raisins and figs through food chopper. Add orange juice and rind as mixture is being kneaded into a smooth mass. Roll portions of mixture into "apples" about 1-inch in diameter. Roll balls in cocoanut which has been chopped and tinted pink or delicate green with food color. Insert whole cloves at top and bottom to represent stem and blossom. Use a tiny piece of citron for leaf. Sixty apples.

* * *

NUT CARAMELS—Two cups sugar, 1 cup light corn syrup, 1 cup condensed milk, ½ cup cream, 1 cup milk, ¼ cup butter, 2 teaspoons vanilla, 1½ cups nut meats.

Put sugar, syrup, condensed milk, cream, milk and butter into heavy saucepan and cook over low flame, stirring constantly until 246 degrees Fahrenheit is reached. Remove from fire, add vanilla and nut meats and pour into lightly oiled pan. When cool, cut into squares.

* * *

APRICOT WHIP CAKE—Three eggs, separated, ¾ cup sugar, ¼ cup cold water, ½ teaspoon lemon extract, 1 cup pastry flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, ¼ teaspoon salt.

Beat the egg yolks until thick. Add the sugar gradually, combining thoroughly. Add the water and the lemon extract. Sift together the flour, baking powder and salt and blend with the liquid ingredients. Fold in the stiffly beaten whites. Bake in a shallow layer pan in a moderate oven (375 degrees F.) for 20 minutes. When cool spread thickly with apricot whip.

* * *

APRICOT WHIP — One-half pound dried apricots, ¾ cup sugar, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 2 egg whites, pinch of salt.

Soak or stew apricots until tender. Put through sieve. Add pulp and other ingredients to egg whites and beat all until mixture holds its shape. Spread on cake and serve.

* * *

CHOCOLATE FUDGE—Three tablespoons butter, 3 cups granulated sugar, 1 teaspoon cider vinegar, 3 tablespoons corn syrup, pinch of salt, ¾ cup top milk, 3 squares unsweetened chocolate; 1 teaspoon vanilla. Melt butter in saucepan and brown every slightly. Add sugar, vinegar, corn syrup, salt and milk. Stir until well blended. Cover and bring slowly to a boil. Add chocolate that has been broken into small pieces and boil rapidly until the syrup forms soft ball in cold water. (236 degrees F.) Keep candy covered during cooking to prevent crystallization on sides of pan. Cool until lukewarm, add vanilla and beat until candy begins to cream. Pour into buttered pan. Cut into blocks when cold.

Took Two Stamps, Asks U. S. Assist In Restitution

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—(INS.)—An aged conscience-stricken woman in Missouri yesterday asked the Postoffice Department what steps she should take in making restitution to the government for removing two uncanceled 2-cent postage stamps from letters to her and using them on other letters.

Third Assistant Postmaster Tilten told her she might submit two 2-cent stamps to his office, which would be destroyed without credit, thus canceling her obligation for violation of the postal laws.

?here's what №353 MEANS to the people of Pittsburgh!

It Means Health and Prosperity—
Be Sure to Read This

It means health because every piece of Zoller meat is officially inspected by a thoroughly qualified inspector appointed by the United States Department of Agriculture. This inspection takes place right at the time the meat is being prepared.

When the meat passes the rigid U. S. Government requirements it is stamped with the number 353—this number appearing on all Zoller government inspected meats exclusively—no other meats can employ this number. Thus you are assured wholesomeness in the meat as well as cleanliness in the plant and in the packing methods employed.

And Zoller goes even further in its efforts to bring you the finest quality meat products. The most modern, up-to-date delivery methods are used to be sure your dealer receives these carefully inspected meats in the finest condition—fresh and wholesome as at the moment of their inspection.

It means prosperity because Zoller's meats are packed right here in Pittsburgh—the employees and owners are Pittsburgh people—the entire payroll stays in Pittsburgh.

Insist on Zoller's meats, stamped with No. 353—then, and then only will you be SURE you are getting the utmost in protected meat quality—the freshest it is possible to buy.

DUKES, TARTANS TAPER OFF

ZANINELLI GIVES DUKES KICKING EDGE

ONE OF THE main hopes of Duquesne University in the big charity football game with Carnegie Tech at the Stadium tomorrow afternoon will be the kicking of Silvio Zaninelli. The fans who turn out to help the worthy cause and swell the relief fund, and at the same time treat themselves to what truly ranks as one of the feature events of the entire local gridiron season, will see in the rugged fullback of the Dukes the best collegiate punter in Pittsburgh.

Silvio Zaninelli

Though in only his sophomore year and playing his first season as a varsity gridder for Elmer Layden, Zaninelli has already established himself as an exceptional booter. He kicks them a mile, and he combines rare placing ability with the unusual distance he gets. The Dukes have been up against some teams boasting fine kickers this season, but seldom have they failed to gain ground on an exchange of punts when the Avella boy was in there doing his stuff. It was his great work that saved the Bluffites in more than one tough battle.

THIS WAS PARTICULARLY true of the Georgetown, Western Maryland and North Dakota games. Though they were outplaying the Dukes at stages the visitors were kept in their own territory the greater part of the time as a result of the wide margin by which Zaninelli outpunted their visitors.

So the Tartans with Capt. Armentrout or anybody else will have a hard time matching Sil's kicks tomorrow, and it's an item that probably will be of great help to the Dukes in their first chance to show their wares against one of the other big local schools. And Zaninelli's ability is not confined to the kicking department, either. He has developed into a strong all-around back.

THE ASSERTION CONTINUES to be made that Tulane University of New Orleans leads for the football championship of the South, is completing its third straight undefeated season and has beaten the Notre Dame streak which ended with the Southern California game.

As a matter of fact Tulane cannot be credited with even two undefeated seasons, and far from beating Notre Dame's streak, its string of wins up to date totals only 17 games. It appears to have been overlooked that Tulane was defeated by Northwestern, 14 to 0, on October 4, 1930, in Evanston.

ON THE SURFACE of the two American League baseball trades made last night, the White Sox appear to have lost in one direction and gained in another. Though injuries and illness held him back last season, Carl Reynolds is a fine outfielder and hitter when right, and in giving him to Washington with Kerr for Hadley, Jones and Hayes, Chicago seems not to have profited. Though rated a good pitcher at times, Hadley this year won only one game more than he lost. Jones will be 40 years old next July and is about done, and Hayes is only a .243 hitter. From the Red Sox for Weiland, however, the Pale Hose get in Gaston a pitcher who normally ranks close to the best of the right-handers.

Howdie Groskloss

THE MOTHER OF Howard Groskloss, Mrs. Eva Groskloss, of Sheraden, has just received a letter from the clever Pirate infielder, who recently underwent a rather serious operation on his troublesome knee. The letter brought cheering news of a steady improvement.

An honor student and great athlete at Amherst College, Howdie had entered the Yale School of Medicine before joining the Pirates. His sensational debut with the Bucs and a subsequent exhibition of clever second-base play and good hitting were followed by the recurrence of a knee injury suffered early in his football career.

THE UNFORTUNATE TURN of events took Groskloss out of action after he had transformed the daily play of the Bucs. Having a strong desire to be a major league baseball player as well as a physician, Howdie underwent an operation in New Haven a few weeks ago.

The athlete-student informed his mother that he had just thrown away his crutches in favor of a cane. His letter was full of optimism regarding his bad knee, though he says he will be unable to learn anything definite in that connection until the tender parts have healed to such an extent that he can put his weight on his foot.

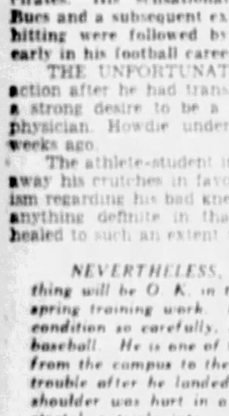
NEVERTHELESS, GROSKLOSS IS quite sure that everything will be O. K. in time for him to leave with the Pirates for spring training work. For a boy who looks after his health and condition so carefully, Howdie was unfortunate as he broke into baseball. He is one of the few players who have made the hurdle from the campus to the majors in one leap, but he had plenty of trouble after he landed. On top of the leg injury, his throwing shoulder was hurt in a jam play at Forbes Field as he tried to stretch a triple into a home run. Val Picinich, catcher of the Dodgers, fell upon him so heavily that Howdie was unable to throw properly for weeks. It is believed that the effects of this injury, however, will pass away without any special treatment being required.

LOCAL FRIENDS OF Al Mamaux, native Pittsburgher and former Pirate pitcher, naturally were pleased to learn that Col. Jacob Ruppert, new owner of the Newark International League club, had decided to retain Mamaux as manager of that Yankee farm, but at that there never should have been any question about Al's reappointment.

If ever a manager earned the right to stay on a particular job, Mamaux did that at Newark. He improved the club and kept it hustling to such an extent that it lost out for the pennant only by an eyelash, and in setting an example for his players and instilling the right spirit in them he went so far as to pitch two games himself in one afternoon. In being reappointed, Al gets only his due. Col. Ruppert would not have been making a good baseball gamble if he had chosen anybody else from among the numerous applicants, inasmuch as he already had a successful pilot.

TWO GRIDDERS OF this district are included in an all-America team selected by Will Wedge, New York critic. They are Jim MacMurdo, of Pitt, at tackle, and Kenneth McNeil, of W. & J., at end. The other tackle is McCrea, of Navy, and the other end is McDowell, of Columbia.

The guards are McArthur, of Yale, and McCormick, of Tulane; the center is McDuffee, of Columbia; the quarterback is McDermott, of Fordham; the halfbacks are Bob McNamara, of New York U., and McCall, of Dartmouth; the fullback is McEver, of Tennessee, and the coach is Dan McGugin, of Vanderbilt.



Gene McEver

GENE M'EVER, by the way, though not given a tumble by many mythical team builders, is held by many football men who have seen him in action to be worthy of a place on anybody's all-America. They look for him to give the East some evidence of his tomorrow, when Tennessee plays a charity game in New York with New York U. In 1929 McEver led the scorers of the country with a total of 130 points, and though he may have slowed up a bit he's still one of the most versatile and powerful backs in the game. He can rip a line or shoot an end, and he can throw a forward pass 50 to 60 yards. Maj. Bill Britton, assistant coach of the Volunteers, once said that if it were possible for him to trade McEver for any of the immortals of football history the only back he would consider in a swap would be Jim Thorpe.

SOUTH BENDERS GIVEN FIVE POSITIONS

By JESS HARPER

Director of Athletics of Notre Dame University and Member All-America Board of Football

(Reg. by U. S. Patent Office)

As a general proposition, the selection of an all-Western team for the football season of 1931 resolves itself into a search not for great players but, in several positions, for men who merely are above average.

Particularly is this true when one sets about trying to locate the customary sets of players for first, second and third teams.

The same is true, I am sure, of the broader field of the whole country. Some positions this year were absolutely lacking in individual stars, especially those of the flashy type which are accustomed to be associated with the makeup of "all" teams.

In the Middle West, there was a dearth of great ends, there was a scarcity of capable and brilliantly efficient quarterbacks, and the number of outstanding fullbacks was decidedly limited.

It is true, however, that a survey of the players of the western territory discloses several boys who are perfectly qualified to take their places among the Irish greats of the entire country.

MANY STANDOUT PLAYERS

Such men as Tommy Yarr, Marchmont Schwartz and Nordy Hoffmann, of Notre Dame; Clarence Munn, of Minnesota, and Pug Rentner, of Northwestern, can take a job on any man's team and prove their worth.

Yarr, who has been selected as center of the all-Western team and as captain, is a splendid leader. Although he played through the early part of a hard schedule with a bone broken in one of his hands, he did not make a single bad pass to his backs. He was especially effective in opening up holes for his team's offense. He was fast enough to get down the field, and his defensive work against passes and the rest of the routine was flawless.

The Western Conference's star centers were Miller, of Purdue, and Morrison, of Michigan. I would hesitate to class either with Yarr, but both were well above the average for centers in all departments of their play.

HOFFMAN GREAT GUARD

Beside Yarr in the first all-Western line would be Hoffman, whom I do not hesitate to place among the great guards of history. His record for blocking kicks and pass interception this year was unusual enough to attract attention to his play, even if his other work and his speed did not render him the thoroughly competent guard that he has been.

Munn was the individual great of a fine Minnesota team. Besides being one of the game's greatest kickers, he was used at times for ball-carrying. He had

The All-America Team of the All-America Board of Football will appear exclusively in Pittsburgh in Sunday's Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. This team, selected by Glenn Warner, Tad Jones, Jesse Harper and Bill Alexander, is generally recognized as the real all-America consensus. Don't miss your copy.

THREE SOCCER TILTS CARDED

Three interesting games are scheduled in the Central League for tomorrow. The big game is to be staged at Swissvale, where the Celtics clash with the league-leading Union Switch aggregation.

German Sport travels to Leslie Park to clash with the Rovers, and the Lawrenceville outfit should beat Joe Godsiz's outfit on past form.

Westinghouse makes the trip to Tarentum to meet United, and, of course, Westinghouse should encounter little difficulty in winning.

Sunday, in the Keystone League, will see Morgan do battle with Curry at Curry.

TOMORROW: THE FISH THAT WORE A WRIST WATCH.

40,000 TO SEE RELIEF TILT TOMORROW

By JESS CARVER

For sweet charity's sake, the varsity elevens of Carnegie Tech and Duquesne will tie into each other tomorrow afternoon, clashing for the first time in gridiron history, and with the prospects of playing before a crowd that will number close to 40,000 persons, or better.

Buck Ewing

Pittsburgh has gone for this benefit affair in a big, big way. The response for assistance in putting the contest on so that no expense would be entailed has been great. The co-operation of all concerned has been of all-America standard. Boy! Oh boy! What a town this turned out to be! If Pittsburgh had its way, this depression would be kicked higher than a kite.

Yesterday, the rival teams completed their heavy drills and will spend today tapering off. Both coaches, Bob Waddell, at Tech, and Elmer Layden, on the Bluff, announced tentative lineups. The Carnegie arrangement figures to stand, but Coach Layden may make a shift or two in his before kick-off time.

EWING AT FULL

The Tech starting fullback has been selected. The job will be filled by Charley (Buck) Ewing, Corapolis citizen, who has put in three years of service on the Carnegie varsity squad. Buck has definitely been named to start against the Dukes, with Jerry O'Toole, injured in the Notre Dame game, and Bertie (Yes Sub) Pouncey, of the Alabama Pounceys, in reserve.

Duquesne's initial whistle setup is more of a problem. Coach Layden told me yesterday he was figuring on using Baker and Abele at the ends. Then he'll have O'Donnell and Al Venneri at the tackles and Capt. Mike Ferrera and Amman at the guards. Ciccone is to start at center.

In the backfield Devenney will be in there running the team at quarterback. Zananelli is sure to go at fullback, with DeLuca at left half, and Ben Pawlina, provided his cold improves, at right half. If Ben is unable to play (and yesterday the team medico was extremely loath to assure Layden that he'd have Pawlina ready for duty), either Chacko or Nussbaum will start.

Nussbaum, the speedy Ambridge lad, was cut from the squad during training camp, but reported later on when Layden issued a call for footballers and since then has made good. He is deceptive, fast, follows his interference well, and has developed into considerable of a blocker.

PASSES MAY PREVAIL

Tomorrow's game may turn out to be an air meet, and again, the teams may elect to cross the opposition up and work their running attacks. Of the two the Tartan power plays look to be the stronger, though against North Dakota, the way the Dukes hammered at the husky Flickertail line left little to be desired. The Flickertail line was bigger than the one Carnegie will muster tomorrow, too.

Of course, it is much easier to gain by throwing the ball than by lugging it, and saves wear and tear on the players. With Stu Dueger hurling 'em for the Skibos and either Devenney, Sullivan or DeLuca for the Dukes, the big-

MINOR RULING BODY SET

WEST BADEN, Ind., Dec. 4.—(AP.)—The "big five" committee which will have charge of executive duties of National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, was completed today with the selection of W. G. Brahm, president of the Piedmont League, and Ross Harriott, president of the Terre Haute club, of the Three-Eye League.

Brahm and Harriott were chosen to represent the class B, C and D leagues. The representatives of the class AA and A leagues on the committee are Joe Carr, Columbus, O.; J. Alvin Gardner, Dallas, Tex., and Warren Giles, Rochester, N. Y.

Nashville today traded Pitcher Bill Droll and Catcher George Treadwell to Wilkes-Barre for Pitcher Henry Werts.

Nashville also announced it had taken over the Canton club, of the newly-reorganized Central League, as a farm, as it did three years ago.

The Washington Senators today sent Outfielder Wesley Gill to the Chattanooga Southern League club on option. The Senators purchased Gill last fall from Baltimore for $17,000 in cash and Pitcher Walter Tauscher.

Duquesne Holds Celebration Tonight

Duquesne University students will hold a rousing "thuse" on the Bluff campus tonight to aid in working up enthusiasm for the Duke-Tech charity game in the Stadium tomorrow. A feature of the pre-game celebration will be the lighting of a huge bonfire.

MELLON HORSE IN 'CHASE

GRASSLANDS DOWNS, Tenn., Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Picturesque Grasslands Downs, with its rolling terrain and typical English setting, today attracted thousands of racing enthusiasts, gathering for the second running of the Grasslands International Steeplechase tomorrow.

Inaugurated last December as a race many American sportsmen hope will soon rival England's historic Grand National at Aintree.

Eighteen horses are eligible to compete in the classic, in quest of a $5,000 added purse and a golf cup, donated last year by Alfonso, former King of Spain.

There is no visible betting on the race, but many picked Glangesia, a big gray gelding, which finished fourth in the Grand National in 1930 and was seventh in the 1931, running to triumph for Richard K. Mellon, of Pittsburgh.

GRID TEAMS CLASH

FAIRMONT, W. Va., Dec. 4.—Fairmont High and Erie East will clash here today in a football game. Erie rules a big favorite.

HOUSE OF DAVID HERE

The House of David basketball team will be the attraction of the Ray E. Schneider Club at Social Hall tonight.

ALL-STATE GRID TEAM PICKED

HARRISBURG, Pa., Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Pitt's Panthers, whose march toward an undefeated season record was marred only by Notre Dame, have come close to monopolizing the 1931 All-Pennsylvania eleven selected by coaches for the Associated Press.

Four linemen and one backfield man gave them five positions on the mythical team, as compared with two for Carnegie Tech and one each for Penn, Bucknell, Duquesne and Washington and Jefferson. In addition, two Panthers appeared on the second team and a survey of the honorable mention group indicated that Pennsylvania coaches regarded the 1931 Pitt eleven not only as the probable outstanding team of the state, but as combination of players, individually ranking them with the cream of the state crop. The team:

Position.	First eleven.	Second eleven.
End	Ribelin, Penn	E. Shonebraker, Bucknell
Tackle	McMullen, Pitt	T. Fletcher, Carnegie
Guard	Sample, Carnegie	G. Milligan, Pitt
Center	Daugherty, Pitt	C. Ducanis, Carnegie

Tackle	Quatse, Pitt	T. Colehower, Penn
End	Hirshberg, Pitt	E. Aultman, Geneva
Quarterback	Wilson, W. & J.	Q.B. Reider, Pitt
Halfback	Kavel, Carnegie	H. Armentrout, Carnegie
Halfback	Heller, Pitt	H. Bonner, Temple
Fullback	Minkie, Bucknell	F. Garbark, Allegheny

GREENLEAF TIES CUE RECORD

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Ralph Greenleaf, former champion, topped off Veterans' Day in the world pocket billiard championship tournament last night with a two-inning victory over Spencer Livsey, of Los Angeles.

Greenleaf scored a first inning high run of 85 which tied the tournament mark set Monday by Onofrio Lauri, of Brooklyn, and added an unfinished 40 in the second to end the shortest game in tournament records.

His performance ended a day in which Frank Taberski, Schenectady, N. Y., defeated Robert Lindblom, of Seattle, 125 to 31 in eight innings. Bennie Allen, of Kansas City downed Lauri, 125 to 30, in the same time, and Andrew Ponzi, Philadelphia, overcame Al Miller, Racine, Wis., youngster, 125 to 54 in 13 innings.

Livsey, in losing his third game of the tourney to continue in last place, fell for the second time before the professor of the high run. He was opponent of Lauri Monday when the Brooklyn violinist clicked off his 85.

LAST NIGHT'S RESULTS

By CARL W. SHATTO

The Yellow Jackets today are in a position to move into first place in the International League hockey race by achieving a victory in their next game—with the Buffalo Bisons at Fort Erie, Ont., tomorrow night—and if they continue to flash the same slashing, fighting brand of hockey that brought them a smashing 5-to-0 victory over the Windsor Bulldogs at Duquesne Garden last night, Sunday morning will find the local warriors at the top of the heap.

The Bisons at present are leading the runner-up Reidmen by one game, and one doesn't have to be an expert mathematician to figure out that a Jacket win over these same Bisons will give the locals a half-interest in the pace-setting position.

LAURELS WELL DIVIDED

The perfect combination of fine defensive play and an extremely effective attack brought about the decisive defeat of the Bulldogs, league champions, in last night's skirmish here. The game was one of those slam-bang, rough affairs which gave a capacity crowd thrill after thrill from gong to gong, and from the second period until the finish, it found the Jackets' offense really "clicking" for the first time this season.

The win extended the local's success string to three victories and two ties, and it marked the third successive battle in which Goalie Abbie Cox has turned the enemy back without a single tally.

And Cox came out of the fray with no little glory, despite the fact that the Pittsburgh forwards "stole the show" in the late stages of the milling. In the first period Cox twice thwarted the Bulldogs with spectacular stops when Art Berlett, and then Milt Halliday, were sent to the penalty box. At one time he deflected no less than six close-in Windsor drives that came with machine gun rapidity, and it was his ability to keep the invaders from breaking into the scoring column that kept the game "open" and enabled the local forwards to break through for scoring chances.

INGRAM OPENS SCORING

Frank Ingram, who was robbed by Goalie Stuart, of London, on at least six occasions in the Jackets' last previous home encounter, finally found a little justice, after about three minutes of battling in the second period, when he broke the scoring ice after receiving a pass from Eddie Rodden and sweeping across, rather than at, the mouth of the invaders' goal. After outskating the Windsor defense duo, he took his time in letting go his shot, first feinting Goalie Dick Kerr out of position.

Pittsburgh goal No. 2 was recorded 14 minutes later, and was contributed by Tex White, who skated into excellent scoring position while Whitey Fields and Gordy Fraser were chaperoning the puck through the invaders' defense.

The fans still were engaged in the business of cheering when Fields again rushed the disc down center ice, and as he crossed the last blue line he saw Cam Proudlock sweep in from the left lane. A nifty pass left Cam in possession of the puck about one foot from Kerr's pads, and he had only to flick his stick to boost the Pittsburgh goals total to three.

JACKETS ADD TO LEAD

At 7:36 in the third period, while Berlett languished in the penalty box, and while invaders were rushing to the attack, White broke free with the puck and beat all opposition to the unprotected Windsor goal. As he neared the cage he passed to Fields, who was skating at his side, and Whitey showed his appreciation by ringing up another goal and adding to the discomfort of the already very uncomfortable champions.

Just to show that their first effort was no fluke, and just for the sake of variety, Rodden and Ingram smashed through the entire Windsor team to bag the final goal. Ingram received Rodden's pass while leaning on Goalie Kerr's weary frame, and when his first shot bounced off the Bulldog's pads, he calmly gave the puck another shove, into a corner of the cage.

Gordy Fraser, Art Berlett and Joe Matte gave the Windsorites thump for thump and jolt for jolt at their defense points, and they were assisted in this defense business no little by Earl Miller, new Pittsburgh center, who was sent here by the Chicago Hawks to replace the recalled Lou Holmes. Miller flashed a world of speed, endurance, a good hook check and a fair shot in making his debut, and as far as Coach Charley Reid and local fans are concerned, he is welcome to remain here indefinitely.

Pittsburgh A.		Windsor—0
Cox	G	Kerr
Fraser	D	J. Arbour
Berlett	D	Bellemer
Rodden	C	Haynes
J. Arbour	W	E. Roche
Ingram	W	L. Roche

First period—No scoring. Penalties—Bellemer, tripping; Berlett, roughing.
Second period—Pittsburgh, Ingram (Rodden), 3:42; Pittsburgh, White (Fraser, Fields), 14:58; Pittsburgh, Proudlock (Fields), 18:09. Penalties—Gregg, charging; Bellemer, illegal checking.
Third period—Pittsburgh, Fields (White), 7:36; Pittsburgh, Ingram (Rodden), 17:30. Penalties—Berlett, illegal check; E. Roche, tripping; Halliday, charging.
Pittsburgh spares—Miller, Fields, Gregg, Proudlock, Halliday, White and Matte.
Windsor spares—Brown, Lever, Huggins, Hinsperger, Phillips and Sanderson.
Referee—Guy Smith.

In other words, will George Kavel, pictured herewith, the halfback running mate of Capt. Murray Armentrout, of Carnegie Tech, be the big fellow in chiseling out a victory for the Tartans in their benefit game against Duquesne University at the Stadium tomorrow? Or will the Dukes make a good job of kanning Kavel on his desperate dashes around the ends and off the tackles? He's a hard-running halfback and no mistake. The pictures does not lie.

SPORT VIGNETTES

Joey Thomas, the clever featherweight boxer, of Chicago, who has engaged in good bouts here with Johnny Datto, Midget Mike O'Dowd and Soldier Dombroski, is back in town full of interesting news about Australia . . . Since boxing here last, Joey has spent eight months in the land of the kangaroo, and he says they represent one of the most enjoyable periods of his life. He engaged in six 15-round bouts in Australian and New Zealand cities and, among other accomplishments, defeated the featherweight champion of each of these countries . . . He'd be there still, a public hero, as his clippings show, if he had known things were so tough fistically back home, and he plans to return to the Land Down Under for another fling soon . . . Meanwhile he will box around here, if the promoters can line up some opposition for him.

Here with Thomas, under the management of Ray Alvis, of Chicago, and the local direction of Al Suttle, is Danny Delmont, a right rugged looking and square-jawed lightweight boxer, of Chicago . . . Delmont boxed Phil Goldstein at New Castle more than a year ago, and others he has met include Davy Abad, Ray Miller, Harry Kahn, Billy Wallace and Spug Meyers . . . He has a bout in the making with Jimmy Dean, at Erie, and, if he wins it, will be matched with the undefeated Frankie Bojarski there.

Thomas reports that they still speak with reverence in Australia of the late Les Darcy, the great middleweight, who was branded a war slacker and hounded to an early grave, and that Tommy Burns, who lost the heavyweight championship there to Jack Johnson, also rates high in public esteem, as also does Tom Heeney . . . Strangely, the figure of Bob Fitzsimmons, a really great Australian, does not loom very large, the younger generation passing him up for the stars of more recent memory . . . The boom days of the sport that marked Darcy's era never have returned, according to Thomas, who says the average show with a 15-round main bout draws about $2,500 or $3,000, but that is considered fair money in these times.

Two former football players who now are fliers at Bettis Field submit their All-America selections for the year, after following the players all over the country with close interest. They are R. O. Fay, who played an end for Coach Hugo Bezdek at Oregon University before the war, and J. J. Murray, former Southern Methodist back. Here are their teams:

DUKES WHIP Y. M. H. A. FIVE

Duquesne's passers opened their basketball season last night with a 33-13 triumph over Y. M. H. A., on the latter's court. Bunk McGeever and Marty Reiter playing star roles. Coach Davies used his second squad for the first six minutes of play. The score at half-time was 14-11, with the Dukes leading. Y. M. H. A.'s Reserves lost to the Allderdice Scholastics, 33-30, in a preliminary contest.

St. Henry's beat St. Josephat's, 39-33, in the Catholic Lyceum League, while in independent contests the Braddock Merchants, Braddock Juniors, Frank Ferris and Question Mark clubs turned in victories.

Tonight, St. Wendelin's, of Brentwood, plays St. John's, champions of last year, in a Catholic Lyceum League game. Lorrain, O., will send a team against I. K. S. on the latter's floor, with Weirton, W. Va.'s five meeting the I. K. S. Little Varsity in the preliminary. The Kiski five, of Vandergrift, Pa., invades the Sixth avenue court of the Trinity Cathedral Royals. The Dukes' lineup:

Duquesne—33.		Y. M. H. A.—13.

The Tipoff

It is high time someone was giving a boost to Johnny Cox, the lawyer gent, and his assistant, who are responsible for the workings of the scoreboard at the Pitt stadium. Johnny has been in charge of the board since the Stadium was opened, and will complete his seventh season with tomorrow's charity game between the Tartans and Dukes.

At first, members of the basketball and track teams at Pitt served as Johnny's aides, but he had to discard 'em because they took novices over the big game, preferring to sit with their gals in the stands. Then he signed Boy Scouts for the job, and they have done very well.

Johnny worked out his own system of signals, which he conveys to his aides from the shelters. He has an eagle scout on hand, one proficient in wig-wagging, to flash corrections to other eagle scouts stationed at each board. Not a bad idea, eh?

New boards are being planned for next year to replace the present ones, which have too much give-and-take to them. A new electric clock also may be installed and a new announcing system.

Johnny graduated from the university in 1926 and from law school in 1929. He is a member of the Phi Delta Pelta social fraternity and of the Druids, honorary sophomore group, and Heavens knows what else.

RECORD RECOGNIZED

WINNIPEG, Manitoba, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—The claim of a world record of 10 3-10 seconds for the 100-meter dash by Percy Williams, the only double winner in the 1928 Olympic games, was recognized last night by the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada. Williams made the mark at Toronto in July, 1930.

D. & E. CARDS FURMAN

ELKINS, W. Va., Dec. 4.—(AP.)—An announcement was made today that Furman University and Davis-Elkins College will meet on the gridiron October 15, 1932, at Greenville, S. C.

CHARITY GAME OFFICIALS ARE NAMED

Names of the officials who will handle the game at the Pitt Stadium Saturday between Carnegie Tech and Duquesne University were announced last night. All are members of the Eastern Intercollegiate Football Officials Association and their services were offered to the committee in charge of tomorrow's contest, gratis.

R. E. Kenney, of Trinity College, will referee the tilt, and E. W. Carson, of Penn State, will umpire. F. R. Wallace, of Washington College, will be the linesman and Dean Watkeys, of Syracuse University, will be the field judge.

SCHOOL BOYS TO ATTEND

Practically every high school public and parochial, in Allegheny County will be represented at the game, more than 3,000 tickets having been sold students of the various schools, according to R. S. McCarty, chairman of the promotion committee. South Hills High leads the list having purchased 600 tickets. Alderdice High follows with 350, and Westinghouse and Wilkinsburg have purchased 300 each. Other high schools which have purchased blocks of tickets are Carrick, Allegheny, South, Homestead, Perry, Clairton, Schenley, Edgewood, Sharpsburg, Dormont, Avalon, Fifth Avenue, Langley, Duquesne, Peabody, Catholic High, Ursuline Academy, Mount Mercy Academy, St. Marys of the Mount, and Sacred Heart.

High school students wishing to obtain blocks of tickets for their schools may obtain them at the office of R. S. McCarty in the Philadelphia Company Building, 435 Sixth avenue.

AIR SPEAKERS TONIGHT

The week's campaign conducted over the air from the five local radio stations will come to a close tonight with five speakers listed. Coach Bob Waddell, of Carnegie Tech, will speak at 11:15 o'clock from Station KDKA; Bud DeVinney, quarterback of the Dukes, will speak at 6:30 o'clock over Station WJAS; Tim O'Donnell, the Duke's sturdy lineman, will speak at 7:17 over WCAE. Don Pletcher, redoubtable forward lineman of the Plaid, will speak at 8:45 o'clock over KQV and Capt. Murray Armentrout, of the Skibo squad, will speak over WWSW at 6:45 o'clock.

Tickets for 160 disabled veterans of the World War have been made available through contributions raised by the Pittsburgh Press Club, the Pittsburgh Chapter, Baseball Writers of America, and Dean of the School of Industries of Carnegie Tech, Charles C. Leeds.

Twenty-two girls, co-eds at Duquesne and Tech, have volunteered their services to sell programs tomorrow.

COACHES URGE GRID CHANGE

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Tom Thorp, noted football official, says that he and other Eastern coaches and officials have decided, informally, to recommend a change in the present kickoff as a means of reducing the number of injuries and deaths attached to the game.

Instead of the present method, whereby the ball is held by another player at the kickoff, Thorp said he and his associates favor a return to the old system of putting the ball on a high mound. Added height and distance is obtained by the latter method.

The Motor Square Garden Boxing Club is about to open a "farm" to develop young talent for its shows. Matchmaker Jules Beck, of the East End arena, has received permission from the boxing commission to promote shows at the Moose Temple downtown on Friday nights, in addition to putting on the Garden offerings. It is understood Joe Mazer, general manager of the Garden, will be his partner in the enterprise.

The Moose Temple was the scene of boxing bouts last winter and the year before, with first Francis Flynn and then Apples Meyers as the promoter. Meyers' lease was to continue through this indoor season, but he claimed he could not operate at a profit due to the amount of the rent and the hard times, and, instead, ran two shows at New Castle, tossing up the sponge there when Mose Butch and Jackie Rodgers drew less than $500 last Monday night. Now the Moose Club is sueing him on his lease and at the same time has arranged for the Garden duo to step in and take his place.

Between Rounds

With Al Brown, the bantamweight champion, having tired of waiting for a match with Mose Butch to be closed and arranged for with Nevin Brown, of Los Angeles, and Johnny Kraus having turned down said an offer to box Tony Galento, Motor Square Garden is holding the fate for a windup for one week from next Monday. An effort is being made to secure a substitute opponent for Galento on short notice. The Brown and Butch bout would have been closed a couple of weeks ago.

The Garden program is complete for next Monday night, with Battling Gilen and Nonnie Dorfman in the main bout of 10 rounds, Tony Canzoni and Jimmy Thomas in the eight-round semi-final, and Steve Smith opposing Jackie Wilson and Ted Murphy meeting Carl Montebano in six-round preliminaries.

Guzy and Thomas also will box at Franklin one week from Monday, the former against Mickey Doyle, of Scranton, and the latter against Joe Botta.

MIAMI MAY GET TITLE FIGHT

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Dickering for a heavyweight title match between Max Schmeling, into the open as Joe Jacobs, manager of the heavyweight titleholder, delivered an ultimatum to Madison Square Garden, and William F. Carey, head of that organization, indicated Miami, Fla., would get the match.

Jacobs warned Carey that he had cabled Schmeling not to sail today from Germany, and had set back until January an exhibition tour scheduled to start the middle of this month. The tour had been designed to carry Schmeling across the country, and land him in California in time for a few weeks of training, if the match with Walker was arranged for February 22 in Los Angeles.

Westmoreland Grid Laurels Awarded

GREENSBURG, Pa., Dec. 4.—Norwin High School and East Huntingdon Township were awarded the football championship of Westmoreland County in Classes A and B respectively, following a meeting of the football committee consisting of coaches of the County League here last night.

Norwin will be awarded a silver trophy by the University of Pittsburgh, while East Huntingdon will be given a similar trophy by Carnegie Tech.

Latrobe was considered for Class A honors, but the committee based its award on the fact that Norwin played a more difficult schedule. Neither of the winners was defeated in its class the past season.

MEEHAN MAY TAKE CUT

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—The World-Telegram says the New York University athletic board favors retaining John F. (Chick) Meehan as head football coach at a possible reduction in salary. Meehan's contract, which is understood to give him $15,000 a year, expires this season.

Official's Error Helped Purdue Beat Purple

CHICAGO, Dec. 4.—(INS.)—At one of the most critical moments of the game, Northwestern was given only three downs, when it should have had four against Purdue here last Saturday, the Chicago American said yesterday.

It was in the second quarter when the Boilermakers held the Wildcats on the Purdue 1-yard line, according to the American. The error went unnoticed by the officials, players and coaches, and was not discovered until an official investigator reviewed the records.

No one connected with Northwestern brought up the matter. The Purple officials declined to comment on the American's story.

The Coach's Viewpoint

By Howard Harpster

When Fordham's stellar tackle, Cornelius Murphy, died from injuries received in a football game with Bucknell a few weeks ago, the number of deaths due to injuries received in football games during the season mounted to 31. At a glance, it would seem that the figure is quite high, but when the number of players throughout the country who engage in the sport each year is taken into consideration it will be seen that the fatalities are very few by comparison.

There are 11 players in action on every team throughout each game. . . . Of course, when the substitutes are considered there are many more than 11, but my point is that during the course of a game there are only that many playing at any time. . . . As the schedules average nine games a season per team, it is evident that team has the equivalent of 100 men playing 60 minutes of football per season. . . . Taking into consideration that there are sandlot, high school, prep school, college, independent, semi-pro and professional teams and that football is played in practically every township and city of each county in 48 states, and it is easily seen that there are many chances for injuries and fatalities.

Howard Harpster

Many other sports have more casualties than football, and in most cases there are not nearly as many participants. . . . For example, the hunting season opened a few days ago, and, in Pennsylvania alone, five deaths were reported on the first day . . . When I began this article, I had no intention of devoting it to this very unpleasant side of the game, but, in view of the publicity which the football fatalities have attracted this year, I believe it only fair to the game to point out that the percentage of fatal injuries is comparatively very small in proportion to the great army of players participating.

And now for something more cheerful, the charity game between Carnegie Tech and Duquesne tomorrow. I stopped at the Tech bowl one evening this week to watch the Tartans work out and was greatly impressed with the way they are getting ready for the battle. One never would have known to watch the boys in their drill that the regular season was over, for they went through a signal run with plenty of pep and snap . . . The Tech players know they will be up against a smart, fighting, football team in the Dukes . . . Coach Waddell kept his charges out until after dark brushing up on the offense and perfecting a suitable defense.

The Dukes, too, have been hard at work, and, realizing that this is the opportunity for which they long have been waiting, very likely will turn in their best performance of the season . . . The game should be a dandy, costs only a dollar, and every cent of the proceeds will be given to charity . . . Come on, Pittsburgh—get your tickets.

MAYOR BOOSTS RELIEF GAME

Mayor Charles H. Kline has issued a proclamation for the charity grid game tomorrow between Carnegie Tech and Duquesne University at the Pitt Stadium to which he asks all employed individuals of the city to lend their support. The text of the proclamation follows:

"Whereas, The gridiron stars of Duquesne University and Carnegie Institute of Technology have volunteered their services in the interest of the unemployed of Allegheny County,

"And whereas, The teams of these two universities will meet for the first time in the history of the two schools at Pitt Stadium Saturday, December 5, at 2 o'clock,

"And whereas, The entire proceeds of this game will be devoted to help to relieve the unemployment situation in the Greater Pittsburgh district,

"Now, therefore, I, Charles H. Kline, mayor of the city of Pittsburgh, do urge the employed citizens of our community to do all within their power to help make this occasion an outstanding success in the campaign for funds for their less fortunate brothers and sisters, to the end that a record attendance will have been set at the Pitt Stadium Saturday, December 5, 1931.

"CHARLES H. KLINE,
"Mayor of Pittsburgh."

size, fine spirit and the knack of doing the right thing at the right time. His various accomplishments, apart from the routine guard duties make him a standout, I think, in the whole country.

Zeller, of Indiana, was the best lineman on his team and could be seen making most of the tackles. He had speed, was a strong defensive player and had all-round worth. Horwitz, of Chicago, while playing with a team that did not measure up to the strength of most of its competition, displayed the play [illegible] not at [illegible] coin about such comparisons but Horwitz aided the feet. Evans, of Northwestern, was a steady-going guard, while Kabat, of Wisconsin, might have been one of the game's greatest, save for a marked inconsistency in his play. He rose at times to greatness but at others slumped away to mediocrity.

RILEY [illegible] PLAY

Riley, of Northwestern, had speed and size and ample experience to make him an outstanding player on the fine line that helped Northwestern to much of its season's success. He was not as consistent as he might have been but his great moments far exceeded those in which he might have been rated as just another tackle.

Krause, of Notre Dame, only a sophomore, is given the other tackle position. He could do everything a great tackle should do, was fine on offense and defense and exceptionally good at covering punts.

Kurth, of Notre Dame, in his second season as a regular, was a steady, effective player with no especial claim to greatness, but an entirely dependable lad. Marvil, of Northwestern, a giant of a man and a fine leader, ranked almost beside Riley. Bell, of Ohio State, a fast charger, powerful and talented, and Smith, of Wisconsin, were the next pair of tackles in the West.

Moss, of Purdue, continued to hold his place among the Western Conference ends this year. He was a fine pass receiver and a good blocker, and had the speed of foot to get him down the field.

KOSKY STAR AT END

Kosky, of Notre Dame, not a spectacular player, was the best hand at boxing a tackle that has come under my observation in a long time. Had he been a more spectacular performer, the whole country might have been talking about him. As it was, he attended to all of his work without making a show of it. I regard him as a great end, and looking about the country, can discover none better.

Williamson, of Michigan, and Robinson, of Minnesota, blocked well. The former had something of a record for blocking punts averaging one a game. He also intercepted several passes. Both were fine pass receivers.

Brilley, of Drake, was the best player on his team, and was one of the kind of performers who could be said to be "all over the field." Cronkite, of Kansas Aggies, a big fellow, was a good defensive player and pass receiver, and also did some fine place-kicking.

Cramer, of Ohio State, although a sophomore, was the spark for his team. His great running and his generalship earned him a place at the head of the quarterbacks of the West. Weller, of Haskell, although not having as much support as he did a year ago, had a fine season, and turned in some sensational games. The worth of Somers, of Minnesota, was proved while he was in the game and proved some more, especially in the Northwestern game, by the happenings after he was taken out.

TWO ACE HALVES

The halfbacks, Schwartz, of Notre Dame, and Rentner, of Northwestern, dominated not only the West, but the whole country. Both were great runners and passers. Schwartz added a splendid lot of kicking to his accomplishments for the year. Each was foremost in the attack of his team and each was capable on defense. It was well-nigh impossible to pick a flaw of any kind in the play. Saturday after Saturday, of either man.

Hewitt, of Michigan, a great all-round football player, is given the fullback place. While he was used in other positions early in the season, when he was put at fullback in the latter part, he did exceptionally well. In fact, in the last game, against Minnesota, he was practically the only ground-gainer for Michigan, and finally won the game with a long run.

Manders, of Minnesota, a plunging type of fullback, is not far behind him. Behind Manders, I would rate Eliowitz, of Michigan State, an all-round player, more of a slasher than a plunger, and also a very good kicker.

The halfbacks of the other teams would be grouped as Monnett, of Michigan State; Sauer, of Nebraska; Risk, of Purdue, and Sick, of Marquette.

As I prefaced this summary of the players, the all-Western team in spots probably does not compare with those of other years, but in several positions its players are outstanding, no matter how they might be compared with those of the past.

SPARTANS IN HOLE

PORTSMOUTH, O., Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Barry Snyder, principal stockholder in the Portsmouth Spartans professional football team, told fellow-shareholders yesterday that unless $20,000 is raised at once the team's franchise would have to be sold. Snyder asserted the Spartans lost money on every home game this season, and profited only in games with the Chicago Bears and New York Giants away from home.

Tomorrow at Stowe High School Field, the Rox Rangers, winner in Section I, and the Sonny Boys, winner in Section II, clash in the first elimination. On Sunday afternoon at the Rangers Field, Westinghouse Alumni, winner in Section III, and the Bloomfield Club, winner in Section IV, [illegible]

[illegible] will meet [illegible] champions of the Lightweight Conference do not put on the final as a counter attraction to the big Christmas Cheer game scheduled for West View Park, when the James P. Rooneys, champion in the West Penn Conference, meet an all-star team.

Tomorrow's battle should be a real fight, with the Rox Rangers appearing to have the edge. Last season, playing independently, the Sonny Boys defeated Rox in a battle that taxed the capacity of the park.

Last season Joe Vitelli, all-round star, was the medium for the Sonny Boys' victory. Vitelli spread-eagled the Rangers to score the game's only touchdown. This season will find the star pitcher opposing his former mates, and this season he is the big gun for the Rangers.

The only game that Vitelli did not play found the Rangers missing on a couple of cylinders. However, East End fans are betting that Westinghouse Alumni will be the ultimate winner of the lightweight title.

MURPHY LEADS SHADY SIDE

Shady Side Academy put on its fall athletic smoker last night in the school dining hall in true Shady Side fashion. Members of the varsity and reserve football squads and the soccer team were presented awards. Bill Murphy was named captain of the 1932 Academy eleven, succeeding Coleman Ward II, who led the Gold and White through the past campaign.

T. Coleman Ward, W. Edgar Hill, Clarence G. (Buddy) Overend, graduate manager of athletics at Carnegie Tech, and Jess Carver, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph football writer, spoke.

South Hills Eleven Honored at Banquet

Val Rizzo and James Klingensmith were chosen co-captains of the South Hills High School football team for 1932 at a banquet given the newly-crowned City League champions in the high school dining room last night. The dinner-dance was given by the Students' Co-operative Association.

C. F. W. McCready, professor of mathematics, was toastmaster. Among the speakers were Chester L. Smith, Dr. H. E. Winners, principal; Coach E. J. Mazeski, C. Lawrence Walsh, supervisor of athletics of the departmen, of hygiene; Ricco Macellaro and James V. Mates, faculty manager, who presented letters to the squad. Those receiving letters were:

THE GREAT AMERICAN VALUE FOR 1932

Silent Syncro-Mesh shift

Simplified Free Wheeling

60 horsepower (20% increase)

Faster, quieter getaway

Smoother operation

Smarter Fisher Bodies

Unequalled economy

THE new Chevrolet Six comes out tomorrow! Its appearance strikes a smart new note in motor car styling. Its performance combines the greatest thrills of modern motoring. Its new features include many of the important developments in engineering and craftsmanship. It actually looks, feels, controls and performs like nothing you have ever associated with low price before.

An outstanding feature of the new Chevrolet Six is its combination of Synchro-Mesh gear-shifting with Free Wheeling. Chevrolet is the first and only low-priced car to offer these two great advancements in combination. Synchro-Mesh, as you know, is the finest type of transmission ever developed by modern engineering. With Free Wheeling, it gives the Chevrolet driver the advantages of simple, easy, quiet gear-shifting and positive control of the car under every driving condition.

The motor includes such refinements as down-draft carburetion, a counter-balanced crankshaft, and rubber insulation from the frame. Power has been increased 20%—giving a maximum speed of 65 to 70 miles per hour and a getaway from a standstill to 35 miles an hour in 6.7 seconds. Chevrolet's famous built-in smoothness and quietness have been made even smoother and quieter throughout the entire speed range. And all of these important advancements are offered in twenty different models—each styled in a new and distinctive manner in keeping with the finest Fisher traditions.

To develop such an automobile at such low prices, Chevrolet has utilized every advantage of its present position as the world's largest builder of automobiles. And Chevrolet presents this new car—proud in the knowledge that it represents the Great American Value for 1932.

STOCK MARKET LOSES EARLY UPTURNS

Advances of 1 to 3 Points Turned to Declines as Day Wears on; Steel Off

NEW YORK, Dec. 4 (AP.) — The stock market made ineffectual efforts today to extend yesterday's rally.

Improved sentiment regarding the railroad outlook was manifest in the dealings in both stocks and bonds for a time, but a general upturn of 1 to 3 points in leading shares in the early trading was more than lost as the session wore on.

Losses of a point or two from the previous close were recorded during the afternoon in such issues as United States Steel, American Can, National Biscuit, Woolworth, Santa Fe, New York Central, American Telephone, American Tobacco B, Allied Chemical, General Foods and others. The Radio preferred issues dropped to new lows, reflecting omission of the class B dividend. Selling, however, was in small volume and the market turned extremely sluggish.

Wall street appeared to be giving considerable attention to the German situation and rumors denied in authoritative quarters that a complete abandonment of the gold standard there was in early prospect, caused considerable discussion.

The weekly mercantile reviews pointed to lower temperatures and the approach of the Christmas season as adding impetus to retail trade. Wholesale trade was described as still spotty, although Dun's noted some improvement.

Financial quarters appear hopeful over the prospects of fruitful constructive measures in the new Congress, which convenes next week. Stock market speculators have manifested some concern over the prospect of an investigation of short selling. It is unofficially reported in circles close to the stock exchange that thorough statistics are being prepared as to the short interest in the market, and the effects of short selling, and that exchange officials are confident that their attitude can be successfully defended.

Name Receivers For Power Firm

WILMINGTON, Dec. 4.—William W. Freeman, of New York, and Henry C. Mahaffy, of Wilmington, have been appointed receivers for the Intercontinents Power Corporation upon application of the General Management Corporation. The utility company is a holding concern controlling power and light companies supplying 112 cities in Brazil, Argentina and Chile. The receivers were appointed due to insolvency of the corporation.

United Chemicals To Exchange Stock

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—United Chemicals, Inc., has deposited with the Guaranty Trust Company 11,568 shares of 7 per cent preferred stock of Westvaco Chlorine Products Corporation, which will be available for exchange for the $3 preferred stock of United Chemicals in the ratio of one-third share of Westvaco preferred for each share of United Chemicals. There are 34,704 shares of United Chemicals preferred which will be exchanged.

New Mexican Bank Currency Issued

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 4.—The first emission of silver certificates authorized by the new monetary law, of 1,000,000 pesos worth of 5-peso and 10-peso Bank of Mexico notes, has been placed in circulation. The exchange was not materially affected by the limited issue. The new notes are of voluntary circulation and are backed by Bank of Mexico rediscounts in addition to a metal reserve created by the Central Bank Board.

Soft Coal Firms Seek Oil Embargo

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—The bituminous coal conference has passed a resolution authorizing its representatives to seek to have an embargo on oil put into effect at the coming session of Congress.

B. Huntress, speaking for the operators, said that importation of oil from Venezuela and Colombia last year displaced the use of 20,000,000 tons of coal on the Atlantic seaboard.

Ohio Edison Plans New Stock Issue

CLEVELAND, Dec. 4.—The Ohio Edison Company has asked the State Utilities Commission to authorize issuance of 20,000 shares of 6 per cent preferred stock, $100 par value. Ten thousand shares would be applied to capitalization of treasury expenditures as of December 31, 1930, of $2,027,250 and the remainder used to redeem present outstanding preferred stock.

Western Utility To Boost Capital

CHICAGO, Dec. 4.—At a special stockholders' meeting of Central West Public Service Company has been called for December 31 to approve an increase in capital stock by an additional 100,000 shares of $100 par preferred and 300,000 shares of no par preferred stock.

Receivers Named For Ann Arbor Railroad

TOLEDO, O., Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Receivers for the Ann Arbor Railroad were named in Federal Court here today on application of the Jennison-Wright Company. The Ann Arbor was a part of the Wabash Railroad which was placed in the hands of a receiver Monday.

Receivers named by Judge George P. Hahn are William S. Franklin, president of the Wabash Railway, and Frank C. Nicodemus, Jr., vice president of the road. These officials also were named as receivers for the Wabash Monday.

Stock Exchange Topics

Motor Makers Planning Vigorous 1932 Sales Campaign

General Motors appears to have been very bearish recently. The stock has been one of the active issues at times, but reactions are said to have encountered scale buying. Some of this demand is from those who anticipate a demonstration in the motor group in connection with the various automobile shows early next month. Sales efforts of all the automobile makers will be more strenuous than ever before. General Motors, with its great distributing organization, should get a good share of the gain in business.

If the anticipated increase in automobile production occurs in the next six to eight weeks, the accessory companies will share to a considerable extent. In this connection, Timken Roller Bearing has been among the issues which has attracted a small amount of buying. However, so far as can be learned, the purchases have been for the so-called outside account. Houses which usually handle the orders for important interests in this issue have been doing little on either side of the stock for some time.

It is likely that earnings of Public Service of New Jersey for the current year will be slightly in excess of $4 a share on the common stock. This would compare with $3.92 a share in the preceding year, $3.93 in 1929 and $3.28 in 1928. Thus the company will cover its $3.40 a share annual dividend by a fair margin. The stock has encountered good scale buying during reactions at times recently.

American Superpower Corporation at the present time is in stronger current position than it was at the close of last year. It has cash and government securities amounting to more than $23,000,000, against approximately $17,000,000 of like items on December 31, 1930. That improvement in current assets was accomplished mainly through the liquidation of certain of its equity holdings. Superpower earned its preferred dividend requirements of $5,128,230 this year, with a small balance for its common stock, although that sum will be less than the $5,160,895, or 28 cents a share on 8,293,005 shares reported for 1930.

Composition of the difficulties arising over the continuation of short term credits to German banks was made easier by an announcement from London that the British bankers' committee had adopted the plan previously approved by New York bankers. British banks will continue until February 29 to honor German drafts which will mature after that date when the present "standstill agreement" expires. This move avoids treatment of any new Reich drafts as cash advances which would mature at the end of February and tends to lessen the volume of the credits which otherwise would be due at that time. The bulk of such credits are held in the United States and England, thus this move seems to assure a friendly working out of temporary arrangements for their handling until a new agreement supplanting the present understanding can be negotiated.

That dribbling investment liquidation is accounting for some measure of the decline in the share list was evident from the further sharp break sustained yesterday by Steel preferred. At the low level the stock showed a net loss of 6 points on the day and was nearly 11 points under the high of the previous session, the day's minimum found Steel preferred at the lowest levels touched since 1917 when it sold slightly under 103. Earnings applicable to the stock are not particularly satisfactory to be sure, but it must be remembered that the capital adjustment in 1929, materially strengthened the investment position of the senior stock.

Argentina's Wheat Acreage Declines

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—A decrease of 18.7 per cent in Argentina's wheat area below that of last year is anticipated by farm authorities of the South American republic, according to figures made public by the Argentine information bureau here.

The Argentine linseed area, however, is expected to exceed the 1930-31 figure by 15 per cent, it was said.

COTTON SHOWS IMPROVEMENT

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—Cotton opened barely steady today, unchanged to 3 points lower in response to relatively easier Liverpool cables and some southern selling. January sold off to 6.08 cents.

Some Wall street buying was reported, presumably on the firmer showing of the stock market, but brokers with Liverpool connections were sellers, with prices easing off to about 2 to 5 points net lower. The market was within a point or two of the lowest at the end of the first half hour. According to a canvass made in the trade here members of the New York Cotton Exchange on the average are expecting a crop of 17,214,000 bales.

Liverpool cables reported local and foreign buying on the easier tuning of sterling. Houses with Liverpool connections were sellers here up to the close of the Liverpool market, but prices held fairly steady on some further covering or trade buying and worked a few points higher later in the morning. January sold up to 6.16 and May to 6.52 with the general list ruling about net unchanged to 2 points higher.

LIVERPOOL, Dec. 4.—Cotton-spot quiet; prices 9 points higher; quotations in pence. American strict good middling 5.84; good middling 5.44; strict middling 5.24; middling 5.14; strict low middling 5.04; low middling 4.94; strict good ordinary 4.74; good ordinary 4.44. Receipts 26,000 bales, American 17,500. Futures closed steady. December 4.87, January 4.86, March 4.85, May 4.86, July 4.88, October 4.93, December 4.95.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded in (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

Commissioners Fiddle While Rails Totter; Every Family Is Affected

By B. C. FORBES

Mr. Forbes

But since they are a law unto themselves they can laugh at President Hoover and his endeavors to render aid; they can laugh at Congress; they can laugh at those responsible for managing the country's railroads; they can laugh at the millions of men, women and children dependent for their sustenance on income from savings invested in railway securities; they can laugh at the whole public.

Of course, a day of reckoning will come for the blind I. C. C. but that will afford no nourishing satisfaction to the victims of these regulators who have failed to afford the railroads opportunity to live. Victims of railway disaster include directly or indirectly, every individual, every business man, every wage earner, every bread-winner in the land.

THE COMMISSION has notoriously dawdled over one problem after another, creating the impression that it has totally failed to grasp the gravity of the responsibilities devolving upon it. Decision after decision urgently demanded in the public interest has been unconscionably delayed.

Long-planned mergers should have been in progress by now, thus enabling leading railroads to carry out programs which would have afforded employment to many workers and orders for many plants. The commission's brilliant reply to the demand for an increase in freight rates was: Let the less-weak roads collect and hand over a dole to the more-weak roads! At this writing the succor requested by the railroads has not yet been forthcoming to the extent of one nickel.

The inevitable procession towards receivership has begun. Wabash has already reached bankruptcy. Unless the I. C. C. promptly and drastically alters its tactics, other systems will collapse. It is inflicting not regulation, but strangulation.

Even though it is beyond the reach of any earthly power, surely the Interstate Commerce Commission will shortly feel moved to abandon obstructive and institute constructive action.

Will the exchange governors set an example by giving the public full and prompt publicity concerning short selling?

Won't they tell us why? I, for one, feel that they must have a much more worthy reason than that attributed by many of the institution's critics, namely, that the brokers running the exchange desire to keep this information to themselves in order to profit from it.

Either short selling should be suspended during these crucial days, or the short selling data daily collected should be regularly made public.

PRESIDENT SLOAN of General Motors points out, in his quarterly report, that adversity has its practical business uses. It has, he observes, "brought about an elimination of the inefficiency, waste and false thinking that accompany periods of intense and prolonged prosperity and inflation."

Equally important is the fact that out of the situation problems have arisen, the recognition of which is sure to mean progress in our industrial development. Out of it also is bound to come a great acceleration in technical progress. All of these factors mean nothing more or less than the building of the foundation for a greater and, I believe, a more stable prosperity.

Nine months' earnings have equalled $2.08 per common share against $2.68 in 1930. As the corporation has cash and its equivalent amounting to $264,000,000, it may be that the present $3 dividend rate will be continued until 1932 prospects become clearer. The corporation has increased its percentage of the total cars sold in the United States.

M. H. AYLESWORTH stepped from the managing directorship of the National Electric Light Association to the presidency of the National Broadcasting Company. His successor, Paul Clapp, was yesterday elected vice president of the gigantic Columbia Gas and Electric Corporation.

What qualities have been responsible for the rise of both these men at an unusually early age? In addition to such fundamental ones as brains and industriousness, I would name above everything else, pleasing personality. Both exhibit cheerfulness. Both manifest cordiality. Both are agreeable persons to do business with.

Mr. Clapp has devoted much time in promoting a nationwide program for commercial development by the companies comprising the N. E. L. A. especially electric refrigeration and farm electrification. During his five years' service, half a million farms have been electrified.

Steel Dividend Depends On January Business

By GEORGE B. SNYDER

STEEL MILL OPERATIONS and the volume of new business placed on the books in January are expected to be the deciding influences on the next dividend declarations of the United States Steel Corporation. Directors are scheduled to hold their meeting to consider this subject on January 26. The last two quarterly dividend declarations have been $1 a share. At the July meeting the payment was cut from $1.75 a share to the present rate.

Production has shown little change during the second half of the year. Mill operations have averaged about 30 per cent of capacity. Unfilled tonnage has declined steadily during this period. A slight increase in mill activity is expected this month but this will not be a reflection of increased business. It will be the result of operations at a few plants where semi-finished material is being produced for stock to give employes a better Christmas payroll.

December invariably is a dull month for steel since consumers are unwilling to accept large shipments previous to their year-end inventory taking periods. Following this precedent, no indication of the future of steel can be expected until after the beginning of the new year. After that time, however, a clue may be given to the probable demand for steel during the first half of 1932.

Fourth Quarter Earnings

FOURTH QUARTER EARNINGS of the United States Steel Corporation will be helped by the 10 per cent cut in wages placed into effect on October 1 and the 10 to 15 per cent cut in salaries placed into effect on August 15. But production is expected to be about the same as in the third quarter so that the improvement will not be particularly marked. Year end adjustments will play an important part in establishing the final figures and it is impossible to estimate these adjustments at the present time.

In the third quarter net profit was $3,187,131, including special income. This was equivalent to only 88 cents a share on the preferred stock, or about half the dividend requirements on this issue for the period. In the first nine months of the year net profit was $17,343,543, or $4.81 a share on the preferred. In other words the corporation will have dipped into its surplus for all its common dividends and part of its preferred dividends for 1931.

Cash Position Strong

THE UNITED STATES STEEL Corporation had its decks cleared for trouble when the depression came. Funded debt had been materially reduced and the financial position was strong. Cash at the close of 1930 amounted to $117,203,288 and marketable securities amounted to $71,066,207. Total current assets of $578,373,097 were more than five times current liabilities of $108,873,454. Cash alone exceeded all current liabilities.

This showing is impressive but the directors will be unlikely to continue to pay large amounts of dividends out of surplus unless at least some signs of recovery can be found. The drain on surplus in the first nine months of the year amounted to $34,203,247. It must be recalled that earnings were helped by $14,821,932 of special income from the sale of properties. Without this an actual loss would have been shown for the third quarter and only a negligible profit would have been scored for the first nine months of the year.

Dividend requirements on the common and preferred stocks at the present rate require a total of $60,000,000 a year. If this were not earned it would make a substantial hole in the corporation's surplus cash.

If the steel business starts to improve next month, directors probably will be willing to continue to pay the present rate. If business dullness continues a reduction would not be surprising.

DIRECTORS O. K. BANK MERGER

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—The third vast bank merger plan within a few weeks was under way today.

The Manufacturers' Trust Company and the Chatham-Phenix National Bank and Trust Company, with combined resources of about $590,000,000, are to be consolidated by January 1 under a vote of approval given the protect by the board of directors of both institutions. Ratification of the merger by shareholders will be sought immediately.

Terms in the merger involve the creation of 546,750 shares of new stock of Manufacturers' Trust $25 par to be issued in exchange for 810,000 shares of stock of Chatham-Phenix now outstanding of $20 par. Manufacturers' stockholders will retain present holdings of 1,100,000 shares.

Directors of the merged institution will be reconstituted and will include members of both existing boards. Harvey D. Gibson, president of the Manufacturers, will be chairman of the board of directors and president of the merged institution. Louis G. Kaufman, president of Chatham-Phenix, will be chairman of the executive committee.

Mr. Gibson announced that both institutions would declare their regular dividends for the fourth quarter of this year. A name for the new bank will be chosen later.

AUTO INDUSTRY STRONG-SLOAN

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president of General Motors Corporation, believes the country is building the foundation for a still greater and more stable prosperity.

In a statement to stockholders, which accompanied the company's pamphlet report of third quarter earnings, Mr. Sloan states that the automobile industry is in the strongest position in its history.

The statement of earnings showed no change in the preliminary figures previously published. For the third quarter, net earnings of $13,333,214 were shown, after deduction of preferred dividends, a balance of $10,989,062 was earned on the common stock, equivalent to 25 cents a share, compared with $23,108,728, or 53 cents a share, for the same period of last year.

The company's cash, U. S. government and other marketable securities at September 30 amounted to $264,107,166, compared with $179,037,071 December 31, 1930, and $202,064,960 September 30, 1930. Company's total sales to dealers during the third quarter amounted to 215,649 cars against 244,378 for the same quarter of 1930.

Chadbourne Plan Opposed in Cuba

HAVANA, Dec. 4.—(AP)—The National Association of Sugar Planters has selected a committee to lay before President Machado the organization's arguments against restriction of this year's sugar crop under the Chadbourne plan.

In a recent convention at Santa Clara, the association voted unanimously to oppose crop restriction as not beneficial to Cuban planters.

'Frisco Loadings Lower for Week

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 4.—St. Louis and San Francisco Railway loaded 11,557 revenue cars in the week ended November 28, as against 13,839 in the week preceding and 15,298 in the like 1930 week.

Great Northern Railroad November loadings amounted to 48,962 cars, comparing with 73,109 in October and 61,962 in November, 1930.

Youngstown Scrap Prices Decline 25c

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Dec. 4.—Iron and steel scrap prices in the Youngstown district have declined 25 cents a ton on nearly all classes of metal, bringing quotations to a new low for the year. Heavy melting steel is quoted at $9.25 to $9.75 a ton, against $9.50 to $10 previously.

No changes are reported at Pittsburgh, Chicago and Philadelphia.

N. Y. Reserve Bank Rate Unchanged

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—Following the meeting of the New York Federal Reserve Bank, no announcement was made regarding the rediscount rate which is 3½ per cent.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—A friendlier feeling for the rails appeared in today's bond market although the irregularity of the past several days continued to make caution the watchword of unusual wary investors.

The foreign issues were mixed although Argentines and some other South American loans exhibited an upward trend.

Industrials were easy in a very thin market. Some oils and rubbers were up fractionally. United States governments were mixed.

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Transactions in the most active bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows, 000 omitted in sales column (United States bonds in dollars and thirty seconds of dollars):

HIGH SPEED GIRL

A Story of Modern Homes And Unbridled Youth

By MAY CHRISTIE

Imogen Is Asked to Leave Tewson's Party After Plunge in Pool

CHAPTER XIII.

There was a twang of ukulele and the heartbreaking whining of the steel guitar.

"Where'd she pick him up?" asked Timmy, as though for the first time he had really noticed the newcomer.

Laurel didn't want to give Imogen away. Timmy was Im's admirer . . . and, according to what Im said, a jealous devil!

And at both ends were banks of flowers.

There was a diminutive rock-garden, too, with plants sprouting from among the crevices and a trickle of water flowing down to the main body.

"Well, help yourself as often as you like. Come up any old time. 'Tis all open to you."

"That's very sweet of you."

"And you're sweet, too . . . the first time I clapped eyes on you a couple of weeks back, I said to myself . . . 'well, I'm only a rough old fellow, but that girl's a pippin.'"

LAUREL COMPLIMENTED

"You flatter me, Mr. Tewson."

"Say, call me Timmy." He slipped a pudgy hand in her arm. "Listen, isn't that music grand?"

"They're playing 'Aloha Oe' . . ."

Well, it certainly gets me."

She was surprised at this display of feeling from one who had seemed so hard-boiled.

"Your orchestra plays it beautifully."

"Yes—and goodbye. It's the Hawaiian song of parting."

"Goodness, if it makes you think of leaving here, I'll stop 'em."

"No. The night's young. It's beautiful up on this roof. Imogen and I aren't thinking of going for ages."

AVOIDS JEALOUSY

"See? I've a bell push under this stone." He pressed it. "We'll have our coffee here just you and me." When a servant appeared, he poured Laurel a glass of benedictine.

"How's that?"

"Oh, I adore the taste of it, so sweet and strong—"

"Have some more of it."

She'd been depressed, before. Now she felt a certain lift to her spirits.

But she didn't want to be alone with Timmy Tewson. She had a feeling that he was going to kiss her.

And she balked at that. Besides, if Imogen came by, Im would be jealous.

Came more drinks. The orchestra crooned the words of all the latest jazz . . . some of the guests danced . . . others grew more and more amorous.

Imogen telephoned for Roger Sartoris to come over from the Yale Club.

The night grew sultrier. Not a breath of air stirred the leaves of the palms and orange trees. It was insufferably hot.

Then Imogen insisted that everybody must go in the pool. And she became loudly argumentative with Timmy over the question of bathing-suits.

He sent his servants for all the bathing suits he had, and for half-a-dozen pairs of silk pajamas.

A few minutes later, all the lamps suddenly went out, and in the faint glow of the sky there was a streak of something white flash into the water . . .

It was Imogene . . . Imogene who had achieved her point and was about to win a bet. Imogen with no clothes at all on her . . .

"I say, Freddie, get me out of this! The party's getting a bit too rough for even my broad tastes!"

"Nothing particularly original. She's doing the Lady Godiva act in the water."

"How much?"

"Pretty steep, if I know Im. But just the same, it's rather rotten of her."

"I'm? Would you like to beat it with me while the going's good?"

"Not unless we take Imogen."

They groped their way to the dim pool. A servant came behind them. He switched on a light. It revealed Imogen on the edge of the bath wrapped in a long towel.

It revealed Timmy Tewson, too. He seemed very angry at her.

"I've just been making an inquiry or two over the 'phone, and I tell you the man's a mighty bad racket."

"Well, that makes him all the more intriguing, doesn't it?"

"Certainly I will. And I never want to see YOU again. Laugh that one off!"

Laurel intervened. She induced Imogen to come inside the house and get into her garments. She, too, dressed—and presently they joined Freddie DeFarge and Schrumph.

She had won her bet of a cool $500 from him. So far, the evening hadn't been in vain for her . . .

"What about Harlem?"

"Oh, THAT'S played out."

Volunteered Schumph: "Say, I know a new gay asylum . . ."

She shivered. "Awful to think of her tucked away while he and the rest of us are hot-footing it!"

The man caught the latter phrase. He said: "Why, that's the very name of the place I'm speaking about!"

"'Hot Toes.'"

"No, it's a rendezvous on West Houston."

"Some old dump?"

"No. It's a swift spot. The tony crowd go there. It keeps open till morning."

"Okay with me!" cried Imogen.

"Say, Freddie, how and when are we going to get home?"

"Oh, forget the slumber, Laurel!"

"Wait till you've seen it," said Schumph, well pleased to be the center of attention.

"Sepia showfolk, you mean?" asked Imogen languidly. She felt sleepy now she was inside the machine.

"Yes. Hot numbers, all of 'em."

"Hum! Ho!" She yawned. "Shaking a mean scanty?"

"About as much as you wore tonight!"

"Well, right now I'm hardly wearing anything!"

Suddenly the rain began. Presently it came down in torrents. The taxi skidded as it turned into West Houston street.

The floor was cleared to make way for a bevy of crazy, colored hip-twisters. Blue and yellow and red lights were played on them as they danced hysterically.

Synopsis

Laurel Oakes, "modern" to the minute, is invited by her friend, Imogen Gay, who is even more sophisticated, to attend a party in an old deserted farmhouse. When the party gets too wild for Laurel she leaves. Going to her roadster on a dark road, Laurel discovers the tires slashed. Running madly down the road, she is picked up by Bruce Harvey, a young physician, who takes her home. Laurel tells her mother that pleasure means more to her than love or romance. Laurel decides to make a favorable impression on Dr. Harvey when she returns home and discovers him having tea with her mother. Laurel rides to a hospital with Harvey and waits outside in his automobile for a long time until he returns. Later, Harvey tells Laurel that she ought to stop seeking pleasure and get married. Laurel stops in a speakeasy with Imogen and Freddie De Farge. There Imogen meets Samuel Schumph, a millionaire. The four go to a party at Timmy Tewson's.

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

Have you been looking longingly at that beautiful electric train displayed in the lobby of your neighborhood Warner theater? At the meeting of the Warner Theaters Sun-Telegraph Junior Komic Club tomorrow you will receive a magazine showing pictures and telling you all about it. Then at the meeting on Saturday, December 12, two of these valuable trains will be given away at each of the 15 Warner theaters where Junior Komic Clubs hold their meetings. Be sure to get the book tomorrow and then be on hand next Saturday to see if you are to be awarded with one of these marvelous trains.

ETNA HARRIS

The Etna Harris Chapter will be entertained tomorrow by Derwin, the ventriloquist. This act has made a big hit at other chapters and the Etna Harris is in for a big treat. Next Saturday Uncle Kay Dee and his group of radio entertainers will visit the Etna, with little Rosemarie.

Tampa, the magician, will be presented to members of the Harris (Downtown) chapter tomorrow morning. Wherever Tampa has appeared the children have enjoyed his performance and marvelled at his skill. He has some new tricks that have never been shown before, so Harris (Diamond street) members should not miss him. Every child attending the meeting will be presented with a metal savings bank and there will be prizes and other entertainment on the stage.

SOUTH HILLS CHAPTER

Tomorrow will be a great day at the South Hills Chapter! The members of this big group are looking forward to seeing Uncle Kay Dee in person. He will bring with him his little radio company who will present a fairy story playlet, Rosemarie, the delightful little child musician, so popular wherever she appears, will also be on the program.

Members of the Warner Theaters-Sun Telegraph Junior Komic Club are to be congratulated on the fine spirit they showed in putting over the Toy Matinees at the various theaters yesterday. It will take several days for trucks to carry all the toys to the Toy Mission, 213 Market street. There they will be repaired and freshened up under the direction of George L. Bond, and, on Christmas Eve, thousands of poor children will be made happy.

ARISTOCRATIC OBJECTIONS TO PEGGY'S FAMILY DID NOT SEEM TOO UNREASONABLE TO MONTGOMERY WHEN HE RECALLED HIS OWN OPINIONS ON THE SUBJECT, AND HE SPENT AN UNEASY EVENING THINKING OF AN EMBARRASSING SITUATION.
PEGGY! OH IT WAS AN OUTRAGE FOR MY TWO AUNTS TO SNEER WHEN THEY MET HER. HOW BLIND THEY ARE THAT THEY CAN'T SEE HOW PERFECTLY WONDERFUL SHE IS. PEGGY! AH!
AND YET AFTER ALL MY AUNTS DIDN'T REALLY OBJECT TO PEGGY, BUT TO HER FAMILY. WELL THAT PART OF IT IS OF COURSE, ENTIRELY REASONABLE. I TOO HAVE ALWAYS THOUGHT HER FAMILY INSUFFERABLE.
SO THOROUGHLY MIDDLE-CLASS. JUST ORDINARY PEOPLE WHO LIVE LIFE FROM DAY TO DAY. IT SIMPLY STUNS ONE TO REALIZE THAT A GIRL LIKE PEGGY, A THOROUGHBRED, AN ARISTOCRAT, A QUEEN, IS PART OF THAT FAMILY. THINK OF IT! A MODERN MIRACLE!
SHE! JUST A BUNGLE! WELL THERE'S NO GETTING AWAY FROM THE BITTER FACTS IN THE CASE, BUT I WONDER IF BY ANY CHANCE, FOR PEGGY'S DEAR SAKE, HER FAMILY COULD BE ELEVATED. ELEVATED IS NOT QUITE THE WORD. THAT'S IMPOSSIBLE! BUT PERHAPS THEY, OLD BUNGLE ESPECIALLY, COULD BE MADE TO APPEAR PARTLY CIVILIZED. LET ME THINK. ANYTHING FOR PEGGY'S DEAR SAKE.

WHALE AMONG MINNOWS

H. Barbados Doakes has climbed to the dizzy heights of success by sheer force of personality. He is now the largest (302 lbs.) manufacturer of needless musical instruments in the entire world. He is a titan among pigmies—a whale among minnows. And, out of gratitude, he has decided to devote five minutes each day to humanity—and help those who haven't been able to help themselves to a second helping. "My first conclusion," says Mr. Doakes, "is that jobless men could save $583,563 a week in haircut bills, if instead of going to barbers, they would carry violin cases."

Never Say Die!

Generous Offer Contingent on Public Support Revives Hope for the Welfare Fund.

A few days ago the outlook was that unless a miracle came to pass the Welfare Fund and Emergency Association campaign would fail to reach its goal.

But the miracle has happened!

A little group of persons and corporations whose identity is concealed have offered the princely gift of $750,000, provided the public furnish the rest of the money necessary to bring total contributions up to $5,981,184, the amount sought.

The managers of the campaign say that they will have to collect about $750,000 not now in sight to fulfill the conditions of the offer. In other words, the unnamed philanthropists' donation must be matched. It is a challenge to which the people of Allegheny County will not be indifferent.

A few days more of strenuous effort by the campaign workers, and supplementary donations by those who have already contributed, and the Welfare Fund will be "over the top."

Never say die!

Annexation Assailed

The Metropolitan Plan Would Obviate Some of the Objections to the Present Method of Expansion.

When ex-Mayor William A. Magee makes a speech on municipal affairs he generally has something important to say.

His address before Pittsburgh Chapter, Certified Public Accountants, Tuesday night merits the attention of every taxpayer in Pittsburgh, for he called attention to menaces confronting them and suggested ways by which the situation could be bettered.

Particularly impressive was his attack on the policy that has long prevailed, with popular approval, of taking into the city every contiguous municipality that applies for annexation. Magee pointed out that the last five wards which have joined the city have increased its area about 20 per cent, but have added only 3½ per cent to its taxable valuations. One of the new wards yields only $40,000 in taxes, or just about $10,000 more than the cost of a fire engine house. The consequence is that the already overburdened taxpayers of the older parts of the city have to pay heavily for the municipal improvements provided for the newly annexed territory.

If the city cannot afford, as Magee says, to grow under this expensive plan, renewed efforts will have to be made to secure the adoption of the Metropolitan Plan, under which all of Allegheny County will become the City of Pittsburgh, with the present municipalities retaining much of their autonomy and their individual responsibility for improvements.

The method of annexation may be economically inadvisable. But the creation of a Greater Pittsburgh must go forward.

Kill the Gasoline Tax

The Impost on Motor Fuel Is as Objectionable as the One on Cigarets.

Mixed news comes from the Legislature. The proposed tax of 2 cents a package on cigarets appears certain of defeat. Thanks are due members of the Allegheny County delegation for opposing this plan to put another burden on the poor. But there seems to be a chance that the proposed additional tax of 1 cent a gallon on gasoline will go through. That is bad.

An extra impost on motor fuel, already heavily taxed, is just as objectionable as the plan to add a state tax of 2 cents to the federal tax of 6 cents now paid on cigarets.

There really is less excuse for the gasoline plan than for the cigaret proposal. We have to rely on the experience of other states for the assurance that the cigaret tax would be a disappointment, since we never tried it ourselves. But we know from our own experience that a high gasoline tax defeats its purpose by leading to extensive bootlegging of contraband gasoline.

The gasoline tax plan should be killed, and it is to be hoped the local legislators will fight it as vigorously as they have opposed the cigaret tax.

Let No Game Be Wasted

Hunters Who Cannot Use Themselves All the Venison Obtained Should Give It to the Poor.

Gabriel Pavoli, of East Liberty; Charles Hoffer, of East Pittsburgh, and Ernest King, of Oakmont, killed a deer apiece on the Laurel Ridge in Westmoreland County.

Rather than abandon the venison, and so run the risk of losing it, they spent the night on the mountain, exposed to freezing temperature and other discomfort.

The slaughter of deer now under way in Pennsylvania is prodigious. One person who took the trouble to count the deer in automobiles coming out of the Pocono Mountains on Tuesday afternoon reports that he saw 464.

Gov. Pinchot has said a timely word in his appeal to sportsmen to let no game be wasted, and to share their bag with some needy family.

Another thing that hunters should do is to render a report of the game killed to the State Game Commission at Harrisburg. It is necessary that the commission shall know to what extent the game supply has been depleted to determine to what extent re-stocking is required.

Pennsylvania is the nation's banner hunting state. This boon should be used wisely.

Cutting Expenses

Forced to retrench, it has hit upon various money-saving schemes which not only have reduced expenses but have at the same time promoted efficiency.

The latest to attract attention is the device of using a steel container one-fifth the size of a box car instead of a whole box car in moving less than carload lots of freight between stations.

The company reports that the plan has resulted in marked expedition of shipments as well as in economies.

Encouraged by the success of the plan, the Pennsy now intends to experiment with truck bodies in which, among other things, household goods can be handled.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—Thoughts while strolling: More old-fashioned drug stores swathed in mid-Victorian dignity. No window displays and grave clerks in dusters. Arthur McKeogh, editor, war hero and one of the few who can josh with Pershing. Oscar Shaw's hair is thinning but he can get by for years on those teeth.

Maurice Chevalier, a Paris, France, boy, who made good in the city. Crowds waiting for noonday Christian Science lecture. Many aristocratic looking doormen these days. Nothing smarter than a blue polka dot tie. Rarely see Hope Hampton in daylight. Her husband, Jules Brulatour, has Caesar's profile, by the way.

Henderson, Kentucky's illustrious citizen—Col. Joseph Hatfield and Ewing Galloway. Not many appreciate the bliss of solitude in this town. Always they seek swift currents. Watson Barrett, runner-up for Urban, in scenic designing. Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne supplant the Barrymores as Broadway's newest Royal Family.

Those horrible Valention sideburns are in again. Eight-button white kid gloves for evening wear "the berries." Not so many monocles since the depression. But there's still that Old Snapper with a white derby. And a valet-tied red Ascot. Constance Collier and Helen Morgan bear resemblance.

Ann Pennington appears as a Southern girl with an accent in a music play. And drawls a mean "You-all." What became of Tessa Costa? Nobody looks so coquettish as Billie Burke when she tries. And on the stage she's usually trying. Bare-legged athletes in shorts, galloping through town. B-r-r-r!

Speakeasy owners are now Broadway's flashiest dressers. Tearooms featuring Kentucky black ham and beaten biscuits. Thomas Harty, a dancer, suggests Jack Donahue. Jay O'Brien seems one of the permanent juveniles. Frances Williams hasn't eloped with a piano player lately. Wonder what Dreiser thinks of Kentucky hospitality?

Flappers who squeal that Mickey Mouse talk. Touch fires on the hill tops—Ziegfeld wears white collars again. Wonder if anyone else has a letch to click castanets? Every time you go places you are bound to see Jules Glenzer. He seems to pop out of the woodwork.

Steve Hannagan has become the literary jack of all trades and master of quite a few. Winter he ballyhoos for Miami Beach. Spring finds him crying the auto races in Indianapolis. During the summer he recovers from the anesthesia of his adventures by conducting a publicity atelier on Fifth avenue, fashioning vignettes for monthly magazines, and talking over the radio. Out in Lafayette, Ind., not many years ago mothers used to scream to their children: "Come in the house, here comes that awful Steve Hannagan." He smoked cubebs in those days and everything.

Noel Coward, despite the success of his pageant tableau "Calvacade," in London—his biggest "smash"—is reported gazing longingly toward New York again. The English stage is not active enough for his nimble mind. He has a more distinct following among New York sophisticates than his own Mayfair.

Ten years ago from a small room adjoining a New York hotel there floated the tinkle of sprightly tunes on the piano at all hours. The floor maid explained the room was occupied by a young Englishman "down on his luck." He had come to America in quest of a stage job. "He is very lonesome," she said, "and I think he is waiting for passage money home." The young man was Noel Coward. Today any producer in New York will give Coward a substantial advance against any play he chooses to write. And star him in it to boot.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

I have tried many things in life. I have found only one thing that always pays. That is love.

Love always pays . . . but it seldom pays as we think it will, when we are young.

When we are young, we think that love will be life's happiest adventure . . . sweet, safe, exquisitely thrilling . . . greatly blessed. We do not dream that love may be grim and dangerous . . . that there will be heavy penalties to love . . . that it will be the costliest thing in our experience.

And we are shocked when the truth begins to dawn on us.

"This can't be love!" we cry. "Love wouldn't do this to me. Why should love fail me when I have been so true? Why should love hurt me when I have been so kind? Why should love bring worry and disappointment, humiliation and heartbreak? Why should love bore me and make me angry? Why should it smash up my life so? Can this be love—real love? Can love really do these things?"

Love, if it be real, is the most demoralizing thing that can happen to any life. It will invade all your privacy. It will break up your snug, safe scheme of things. It will raise Cain with your pet conceits and illusions.

For love is as mysterious and terrible as birth or death. It is another sort of birth and death. It is the death of an old self—the birth of a new self—

And that new self will reward you for all you have suffered—if you have the courage to go through its birth.

Those whom you love may not reward you. They may not be able to accept your love. They may cheat you and impose upon you and fail you in a thousand contemptible ways. They may suddenly pass beyond your touch—and leave you lying broken on a grave.

Yet, no matter what happens to you, love always pays. You will always be richer and wiser and stronger for having loved. You will always be a greater person—IF YOU WILL CONSENT TO BE GREATER.

But there is a hard problem. We want to love. We want to be loved . . . but we are not willing to let love have it's way with our life. Love will make us wiser, make us stronger. But we do not want to be made wiser or stronger, because it hurts. We only want to be made happier. And so, when love doesn't make us happier, we cry out against it.

Dare to love! Dare to face the challenge of love. Dare to face the sacrifice, the discipline, the loneliness and pain that great love brings. Dare to be simple enough to love . . . and reckless enough. Dare to accept love, not only as a crown, but as a cross. Dare to serve love through all the stations of its cross.

When you have come to the end, my dear, you will look back. And you will see life spread out like a map behind you, with all your acts and dreams set in their place. Now you can see each incident for what it was worth—but how all the values have altered!

That dream of a career—it seemed so vital, once upon a time. By night and day, it burned in you like a great fire. Now it is only a little pile of ash! Those adventures and achievements—the house you built . . . the business you established . . . the journey you took . . . how important those accomplishments were then. But now—they are a child's discarded toys.

Only one thing remains, greater now than it was in the beginning. Only one thing shines out of the darkness behind you—goes with you into the darkness ahead. Only—Love! Your mother's eyes, your father's kindly smile, your sweetheart's kiss, your baby's clinging hands—

The Curtain Raiser Of the Campaign

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

The defeat of John Q. Tilson, of Connecticut, for some years the Republican leader in the House, by Bertrand H. Snell, of New York, for the empty nomination for the Speakership would seem a fight full of sound and fury signifying nothing. Neither of them has any hope for the Speakership, which passes to Jack Garner, the Democrat.

Under ordinary circumstances the success of Snell would mean that he would displace Tilson in the party leadership on the floor, but this was determined otherwise last February in a conference when Tilson was chosen for another term. Mr. Snell will receive an empty honor and Mr. Tilson will continue to lead, unless the former insists that the vote this week on the speakership carries with it the leadership.

It would be interesting to know the secret of this unfortunate bitter factional fight. Had Tilson been defeated by a westerner or a Progressive it would have significance, but Snell is as reactionary as the man he defeated. They stand for precisely the same policies, and these the policies of Mr. Hoover.

Some time ago, when it was thought possible that an attempt would be made to conciliate the embattled farmers, there was some discussion of Mr. Hoch, of Kansas, but he received but 11 votes. The administration group remains the dominant power in the House on the Republican side.

* * *

Kansas Is On A Rampage

At length Charles Curtis, the Vice President after much travail has determined to be a candidate for renomination. For months he has been considering the wisdom of announcing his withdrawal to become a candidate for re-election to the Senate. Since then he has been making a careful study of the situation in Kansas; and his decision, in view of his known skepticism regarding the re-election of Mr. Hoover, carries reasonable assumption that he found the prospects for the Senate in Kansas no more attractive than those for the national ticket.

Kansas has a Democratic Senator; Kansas has a Democratic Governor, and Kansas is on a rampage because of the administration.

If defeat stares an ambitious politician in the face wherever he looks, it is better to go down as the candidate on a national ticket than as a candidate for the Senate.

That is the reason that one of the foremost Republicans in the Senate, who comes up for re-election next year, and faces the certainty of a defeat, was hoping that Curtis would run for the Senate and make way for him on the national ticket with Hoover.

* * *

The Deficit Is Piling Up

It is not without ample reason that public interest just now is concentrated on Democratic candidacies and policies. The candidacies come later; the policies in Congress are just a little way ahead. It is interesting to note the emphasis "Greeks bearing gifts" are placing on the fact that the Democrats are in possession of the House by a meager majority and will be "responsible" for revenue measures.

The public however knows that the necessity for tax increases are imposed upon the Democratic House by the prospective two billion dollar deficit of the Republican administration. The Democrats have not been in power during the three years that the finances have been growing worse and worse. The Republicans have been in control of all branches of the government—absolutely.

The Democrats have had no power to prevent the piling up of the deficit; and they did fight, as a minority, against some of the administration policies that have contributed to the deficit.

When President Hoover makes his report on the "state of the union," he will be compelled to announce that revenues have fallen off, that the deficit is piling up, and he will ask Congress to increase the taxes to cover the deficit of his administration.

* * *

Businessmen Will Place The Responsibility

The strategy of the "Greeks bearing gifts" is to persuade businessmen who will feel the pinch of increased taxes, already too high for comfort, that the Democrats are responsible. This is presuming too much upon the ignorance of businessmen who have never been so watchful of what was transpiring in Washington, and never so disgusted with the results. They know who was responsible for the tariff act which has built a barricade against foreign trade and reduced the customs revenues to a pitiful figure.

And while they were protesting, the Democrats were fighting their battle, and the President was exerting all the power of the presidency to force it through.

Businessmen know that when there is a deficit of two billions, taxes must go up; and when they feel the pinch of increased taxes they will place the responsibility on those under whom, and whose policies, the deficit came to necessitate the increase.

* * *

Hoover Policies Have Done the Damage

The businessman in his present plight is in no mood to listen to the warning that Democrats mean destructive legislation and Republicans mean wise legislation in the interest of business. He has had a taste of the latter in the last three years. And during that period, the best minds in the business world have been more in accord with the Democratic point of view than otherwise.

That, however, is unfair to the Republicans without a qualification; it has not been so much Republican policies as Hoover policies that have done the damage.

David Lawrence tells us that the President is not displeased that his tangled ball of yarn has fallen into the laps of the Democrats; but he also tells us that the President will "keep in close touch with Democratic leaders" on legislation.

If he is pleased over the situation brought about by the repudiation of his administration at the polls, the Democrats naturally will be chary of this "close touch." If they are wise, they will formulate their own policies, make their own decisions, act on their own judgment. The American people did not elect a Democratic House to support the administration; they elected it as a repudiation of that administration.

* * *

The 'American Way'

Hopelessly handicapped in putting their policies into operation by a hostile Senate majority and a hostile President, there is little that they can do until they receive a full mandate from the people in 1932. And in doing the little that they can they will move with proper caution and sobriety.

But they will not forget in serving business to serve all business—not some business; and all the people—not some of the people.

That has been the weakness of the administration—its inability to see beyond the little group that surrounds it like a vise. They should make their own record to the limited extent permitted by the circumstances, and they should make the record of the administration so plain to the people that all who run may read.

On the comparison of these records the people will pass in 1932; that is the "American way."
